Today

Congress Comes Back.
Sad, Snowy, Slippery.
John D. the Third.
Easy, With Russia.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE

CONGRESS met yesterday and a cut of $160,000,000 in the income tax is the program.

That will be welcome news to those who pay income tax, a small percentage of all the people.

BUT IT is just as important news to those who pay no income tax. They all earn money, and any cut in income tax, especially in corporation tax, encourages development, expansion, employment.

A man will work harder for money that the government does not take away from him.

SAD, snowy rainy day in Wall street. Snow falling, melting, sidewalks, streets and prices slippery. Not much progress on foot, not much progress on the ticker.

But there is no bad news, and that is good news.

PROSPERITY for the next few months depends on the mental attitude of the people and their private talking. No President, no collection of hundred-million-dollar men, no promises to spend billions, can wipe out the bad effects of a national pessimistic mood.

IF every man would learn to talk about the country's progress and future as a young mother talks about her new baby, there would be no danger of hard times.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, third, grandson of the builder of the name, went to work at 26 Broadway, yesterday morning. He was on time.

Twenty-three years old, a big young man, bigger physically than his father, John D., third, will have many opportunities in life. He will inherit what is called the world's largest fortune. By the time he gets it it may not be as big as Edsel Ford's, and not as big as that of some man unknown today.

BUT, he will surely have enough to carry out any ideas that he may have. Everything depends on the ideas.

A few men because of great wealth stand out in history. There was the richest Roman, whose son went to war with Caesar and made a good general. His father, with all the money, made a failure when he went with Lucullus.

The original Medici took to money-making, his sons doing more than any family on earth ever did for art.

JACQUES COEUR, the rich man of France, used his fortune for his country at a time of need, was treated with the usual ingratitude.

Now comes young Rockefeller, third generation, starting in with hundreds of millions around him, and many other hundreds of millions buried in pools of oil under the ground.

His father and grandfather have done a great deal for the health and education of the world. The world will wish John D., third, success.

HE WILL have to work hard to keep ahead of some other 23-year-old boy, without a dollar, but with something more valuable, NECESSITY DRIVING HIM.

It is easy to succeed in spite of poverty, hard to succeed in spite of gigantic wealth.

THE government sends a note of protest to Russia. Britain and China joining in.

Britain's foreign secretary is careful to tell the House of Commons that the thing was done at the suggestion of the United States.

IT IS all right to make mild suggestions. Let us hope that this country will not be put in a position to spend billions, and without success, to help some witless financiers get back loans stupidly made to the Czar and Kerensky, when a baby should have known better.

WISE Japan keeps aloof, does not meddle, attends strictly to JAPAN'S BUSINESS.

Those polite gentlemen of the East are not seeking any quarrel with Russia They know they would have to deal with a Russia different from the one that Japan beat so easily under the Czar.

WHILE Madeline Nolon looked on yesterday, one young man who wanted to marry her shot and killed another man who had the same idea. Miss Nolon, grieved, said she had tried her best to keep the young gentlemen apart.

THAT horrifies us now and is hard to understand. It was the commonest thing in the world with our ancestors in the early days. Your great-grandmother 500 times removed, would have thought poorly of any suitor that would not kill another as a casual event in courtship.

In Sing Sing Reuben Kaminsky, 17 years old, standing in line with hundreds of other prisoners was stabbed to death. He would not tell who had stabbed him, did not know he would die. Fear kept his mouth closed.

He is supposed to have been killed for having told of another convict's misconduct.

WILDERNESS SEARCHED FOR FLIER

By LEE CURRAN,
Staff Correspondent.

CLARION, Pa., Dec. 3.—Braving zero blasts and blinding snow, rescue parties in air and on foot today scoured the wild mountainous and heavily-wooded region of Northwestern Pennsylvania for Thomas P. Nelson, lost air mail pilot.

A telephone message was received this afternoon from a Greenville hunter, saying he had seen a plane over Espeyville, 18 miles north of Greenville, early Monday. A plane from the airport here was dispatched immediately to search the vicinity of Espeyville in the hope of finding the missing aviator.

AIR SEARCH DIFFICULT

Today's search by planes was along the route from Clarion to Franklin.

"If the plane has been burned, the snow-covered ruins would be difficult to sight from the air," said W. L. Smith, superintendent of the National Air Transport, who is directing the search.

Forest rangers and hundreds of hunters are covering the dense woods, but no organized ground hunt is planned at present, Smith asserted. The hunters had found no trace of a wrecked plane.

FIRST CLUES FOUND

The report of the cries for help heard near Gobels' Hole, west of here, was the first credited clue to the missing flier, but nothing had developed from this clue late today.

Farmers who reported hearing the cries for help made a perfunctory search at the border of the wilderness.

COLD DELAYS HUNT

A two-hour delay was caused this morning when the five planes were handicapped in their take-off from the local airport due to the cold. Smith announced the planes hereafter will spend the

TUNNEYS HOME FROM EUROPE

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(INS.)—When the S. S. Vulcania docks here today, James Joseph Tunney, erstwhile master leather pusher of the world, and his wife, the former Polly Lauder, will view their native land for the first time in more than a year.

Reporters and cameramen, for whom Tunney has an intense dislike, were figuratively girding their loins this morning for the customary journalistic assault on his state-room.

Tunney and the heiress to steel millions were married in Italy about a year ago and since that time they have been honeymooning in Europe. Said honeymoon including operations on both, interviews with George Bernard Shaw, the Prince of Wales, Erich Maria Remarque and other notables.

Council to Name City Controller Next Thursday

A special meeting of Council has been called for Thursday afternoon to fill the vacant city controllership. Council unanimously ordered the call this afternoon.

At the meeting Daniel Winters is expected to resign as councilman and be elected controller to fill the vacancy in the interim between to January 6, when he is scheduled to office by virtue of his election in November.

WINTERS MUM

"We can't embarrass the city," declared Councilman Winters, in Council today, when asked if he would accept an election as controller by Council.

This answer was made after City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt had announced that an election of Winters by Council would legalize his actions as controller.

Council cannot elect a successor to Winters at the Thursday meeting, it was reported. Such an election would have to be held at the regular Monday meeting, or at a special meeting to be called after Winterse resigns as councilman.

With the controller's office vacant, city employes face two money - less pay - days before Christmas as Winters, elected last month, has stated he feared legal complications would prevent his taking office until next January 6.

OFFICE GUARDED

Special police have been guarding the controller's suite since last Saturday when Edward Townsend, superintendent of the Bureau of City Property ordered Evans, who was awaiting his successor, to leave the premises.

Mayor Kline was asked yesterday if he intended sending a letter to Council requesting that the controllership be filled. He replied that he expected Winters would assume the office by next Friday "when the 10 days would be up."

The Mayor made it clear that he was not authorized to speak for Winters.

The Mayor's reference to the Widow of Political Leader Gravely Ill

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Mrs. Roger C. Sullivan, widow of the late Democratic party leader, is critically ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Robert N. Wolf it was learned today. An illness first noted last spring has become steadily worse, and physicians now hold only slight hope for her recovery.

BOY KILLED BY BROTHER IN PLAY

Lad Fires Gun He Thought Unloaded During 'Cowboy' Game in Mother's Room

They were playing cowboy in their mother's bedroom. From the improvised cloth belt wrapped around his khaki shirt, Elmer, 6, pulled his hammer, waved it in the air and shouted at brother Henry, 11, "I'm going to shoot you."

Henry had his father's shotgun in his hands.

"Put up your hands," he retorted, and pulled the trigger, police were told. Elmer fell to the floor dead.

THOUGHT GUN UNLOADED

That is how Elmer Bennett was killed in his home at 2407 Charles street, North Side, today. Henry explained to police that he thought the gun was unloaded. He was not arrested.

Mrs. Mary Bennett, 50, the boys' mother, was at a nearby relative's with two of her six children. The father, Sam Bennett, mill molder, was hunting in Clearfield County. Sarah, 14, was in the kitchen; Clara, 8, was on the floor above her two brothers.

When police arrived the shotgun was back in the cupboard of the bedroom. Henry said he had put it there when he discovered it across Elmer's body. At first Henry did not tell of having shot his brother.

RADIO SEEKS FATHER

Four of the six Bennett children go to Linwood school. Sarah said that they were not in school today because the alarm clock failed to function this morning.

Police planned to broadcast news of the child's death in the hope of reaching the father.

St. Francis Hospital State Fund Fought

HARRISBURG, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Petition for an injunction to restrain the state's fiscal officers from paying a state appropriation to St. Francis Hospital, of Pittsburgh, on the grounds that it is a sectarian institution was filed with the Dauphin County Court today. The hospital was granted an appropriation of $175,000 by the 1929 legislation for 1929 and 1930. The Constitution Defense League, of which Willis Collins, of Philadelphia, is treasurer, brought the complaint.

COLD TO RELAX TOMORROW

Winter's grip will relax tomorrow, the weather bureau predicted today.

The mercury fell to 14 in the official thermometer at the weather bureau early today. The temperature throughout today will rise only slightly, according to Forecaster W. S. Brotzman and tonight will hover around 15 Under influence of southerly winds the mercury will rise tomorrow, he asserted.

The entire northwestern part of the country is enveloped in a cold wave, the weather map shows. Temperatures in the Middle West ranged from zero at Indianapolis to 2 above at Chicago. The frigid belt moved southward last night, with freezing temperatures in Texas and along the Gulf state.

The Allegheny River is frozen from shore to shore from Tarentum to Kittanning, a distance of 25 miles, Brotzman said. The ice is the heaviest rivermen have noted at this season for 20 years.

A gorge resulted below Kittanning from running slush ice being caught in newly formed ice of the present cold spell. The backwater brought a rise of two feet in the river at Kittanning.

Kelly Proposes Curb On Marginal Trading

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Interstate trading in securities, either upon credit or margin, by telegraph, telephone, wireless or other means of communication, or by mail, without intending bona-fide receipts or delivery of the same, would be prohibited under a bill introduced today by Representative Clyde Kelly (Rep.), Pennsylvania.

MESSAGE SENDS STOCKS UP

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Publication of President Hoover's message to Congress was followed by a broad buying movement on the New York Stock Exchange, which carried scores of issues up $2 to $10 a share, and a few specialties even higher. Trading, which had been relatively dull for the past fortnight, showed a marked expansion in volume, with the ticker again falling slightly behind the market.

Purse Snatcher Gets Eight-Year Sentence

Declaring the streets must be made safe for women pedestrians, Judge Harry A. Rowand today sentenced William Moore, 30, Negro, of 1024 Strong street, to the Western Penitentiary for three to eight years. Moore, charged with highway robbery, entered a plea of guilty. He had been caught in a chase Dec. 23 after accosting and striking Miss Margaret Ventz, of 1410 Franklin street, North Side, and snatching her purse in Western avenue.

'Bossy' Gillis' Fate As Mayor in Balance

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Eleven Massachusetts cities and 3 in New Hampshire went to the polls to elect mayors today. Most of the elections were non-partisan.

Chief interest centered in Massachusetts in the contest at Newburyport between Mayor Andrew J. (Bossy) Gillis and Michael Cashman. Charges of illegal registration by supporters of both candidates are being investigated.

Mexico Guards Road After Many Holdups

Asks Enforcement Transfer To Justice Department, Legislation Tightened

Text of President Hoover's Message Is Printed on Page 16.

By WILLIAM P. FLYTHE.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—President Hoover told Congress today in his first annual message that the United States is at peace with the world, sound financially and the only problems are those of growth and progress.

He wrote a survey of every national and international situation as an engineer and carefully analyzed each. He gave promise of substantial tax reduction, adequate national defense and assurances that this country would never be invaded by foreign foe.

The President's message was an extensive one. It was upwards of 12,000 words. He asked for transfer of major prohibition enforcement activities from the Treasury to the Justice Department.

CUT ARMS EXPENSE

He suggested to Congress that the national expense for armaments could reasonably be reduced as aviation supplants other forms of offensive and defensive weapons of war. However, he reiterated and made it plain that the United States will insist upon a parity with Great Britain in warships and that, should it become necessary, this country will carry out a building program by Congress.

Almost at the beginning of his message the President said he believed the United States should join the World Court at some future time. He made it plain, however, that he would not now recommend such action and would not do so until the international and domestic political situations make "it convenient to deal with it."

FINANCES SOUND

The President found the finances of the United States so strong that a new reduction of $238,000,000 in the public debt has been made since June 30, a $225,000,000 surplus is in sight, and a $160,000,000 tax cut is certain.

He foresaw difficulty in keeping 1931 expenditures within the bounds of the present year, but felt nevertheless that the tax burden should be lightened by turning part of the prospective surplus back to the taxpayers.

"Every dollar so returned fertilizes the soil of prosperity," the President said.

The President spoke with the greatest confidence of the ability

FAIRYLAND DOLL LADY

Children, gather around and meet the Dolly Lady. She arrived today from Fairyland with some of the most wonderful dolls in the world. She wants you to come to her party and see the life-size dolls which actually sing, pray and recite.

Dolls That Recite, Sing To Greet Children Here

By THE DOLL LADY.

Oh, goody, goody I'm so glad to be in Pittsburgh, because I've never been here before.

And I do want to show the Pittsburgh children my dollies. Honest to goodness, they're the most wonderful dollies you ever saw.

I'm awful proud of my doll family. Why shouldn't I be? Even the youngest of my family can sing, speak, pray and walk. Would you believe that? Well, it's true, every word of it.

I got here last night and my doll family is all brushed up with their little frocks all nicely starched, ready to greet you all the rest of this week at the Doll Lady headquarters, which I will tell you about in tomorrow's paper.

My dollies are always good children. They never cry and they're never naughty. They never eat anything and they go right to sleep when I want them to. But they are not only good—they are beautiful, too.

Just think of it! My dollies are as large as a really 2-year-old baby. Some of them have blonde curls, others have brunette curls, while still others have auburn locks. They sing "Rock-a-Bye-Baby" in the dearest little voices, and they always recite "Little Boy Blue" when they are asked to.

And say, chilluns, my doll babies have dearest clothes; smart little white and pink frocks, over colored slips, with white leather slippers and cunning baby socks.

NORRIS, REED AGREE ON ACTION

...n Objects to Settling ...n's Contest First; ...rundy May Spurn Job

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—A move to defer the Vare case in the Senate until next Monday was blocked today by Senator Borah, (Rep.), Idaho, and debate on the Pennsylvanian's right to a seat was started.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—A resolution to deny Senator-elect William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania, a Senate seat on account of his campaign expenditures of more than $700,000 was called up today in the Senate.

Senator Norris (Rep.), Nebraska, author of the resolution, proposed that the Vare case be taken up next Monday along with the Wilson-Vare election contest.

Senator Norris asked unanimous ...nt for this delay as an ...er to another plea from Vare ...ostponement so that both ...ts against him could be considered at the same time.

The Nebraskan proposed that the Senate vote first upon the right of William B. Wilson, Democratic opponent of Vare in the 1926 election, to the Vare seat. If Wilson is denied a seat Norris urged that the senate then vote on his own resolution to deny Vare a seat on account of his campaign expenditures.

REED AGREES

Senator Reed, (Rep.), Pennsylvania, agreed to the proposal.

Before unanimous consent necessary to make definite the Norris program could be asked, general discussion started.

Senator Johnson (Rep.), California, suggested that the Senate vote first on the Norris resolution. Other senators immediately began clamoring for recognition.

EXPENDITURES DEFENDED

Both Republican and Democratic candidates in some states spent more money in the 1928 election per voting district, per vote and per capita than the Vare ticket cost in Pennsylvania's 1926 election, Francis S. Brown, chief counsel for Vare, said today.

Brown's revelation of Vare's defense carried the inference that a score of senators should be unseated on slush fund charges if Vare is finally refused admittance to the Senate.

COMPARISONS MADE

On the basis of cost per voting district, Brown charged Republicans in 17 states and Democrats in 12 states spent more in 1928 than Var did in 1926. On the per vote basis, he added that Republicans in three states and Democrats in six states spent more than the whole Vare ticket. On the per capita basis, he continued, Republicans in 24 states and Democrats in 18 states spent more than the Vare ticket cost in Pennsylvania.

Brown supported his argument with numerous tables showing expenditures in various states. These tables showed that while Vare spent $81.76 per 1,000 of population, candidates in other states spent as high as $800; that while Vare spent $1.30 per vote in his own party, one candidate spent $4.46, and while Vare spent 24 cents per voter, one other candidate spent $1.40. Brown cited these figures to prove Vare was not guilty of excessive expenditures.

Grundy to Be Offered Vare Seat, May Spurn It

By WILLIAM I. GRUNDISH,
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 3.—Regardless of the fact that he was harassed by senators investigating the activities of gentlemen seeking tariff preferences for Pennsylvania industries, Joseph R. Grundy, head of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association, can be the next senator from Pennsylvania if he wants the job.

Reports reaching here from Washington indicate that, should he be named by Gov. Fisher, he would be accepted by the Senate.

Possibly this acceptance would be due, in part to the desire of the Western Independents, Republicans and Democrats to get Grundy on the floor where they could "swing wicked rights at his chin."

LOVES FIGHT

He would not dodge. There is ...ity he would hit back. He ...nomaly—a Quaker who ...ht.

...eless, I predict that Grundy will not be the next senator from Pennsylvania.

He can have it if he wants it. In other words he can take the appointment if he even intimates he might accept it.

There looms this possibility: By arrangement, the appointment would be offered to him. He would refuse because of other commitments whatever they should be, and then Gov. Fisher would appoint another man.

TAKING IT SLOWLY

That man would have not only the approval of Grundy but of Senator-elect William S. Vare, who is in a good way to be tossed out of the Senate.

"I will not be precipitate" said Fisher last night.

He won't be. There is no reason why Fisher should rush the appointment, the entire story of course being hinged on the promise that neither Vare nor William B. Wilson, Democrat, will be seated.

It is taken for granted here that Vare will not be seated.

Talk about President Hoover demanding that Gov. Fisher name Henry P. Fletcher, of Greencastle, to Vare's place is discounted here.

State leaders do not believe first, that Hoover would make such a request; and second, that Fisher would accede even if it were made.

The apprehension over the next senator is eclipsed here by speculation as to the next governor, far more important in a capital city.

VIEWS IN CONFLICT

City Solicitor Waldschmidt declares the 10-day law was upset by the Cambria court decision which held that officials elected at a November election could not take office until the following January.

Competent legal minds have pointed out that the Cambria County court decision related to a case where the official was elected to a new term beginning the first Monday of the following January.

They declared that the Pittsburgh case differed in that the term of controller will not expire until January, 1932, and that Evans was elected only for the unexpired term of the late John H. Henderson.

That kind of race mixture the British object to, perhaps because they don't want such pictures exhibited throughout the Empire.

BUSINESS BOOM PROGRAM UP IN CONGRESS

$215,000,000 U. S. Building Project Joins Tax Cut, Road and River Plans

By WILLIAM S. NEAL,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The two-edged congressional program to speed business throughout the country — a tax reduction of $160,000,000 and public improvements costing hundreds of millions—will be well under way today with introduction of a $215,000,000 public buildings bill by Rep. Richard N. Elliott (Rep.) of Indiana, chairman of the House Buildings Committee.

The Elliott bill, which is introduced at the request of President Hoover and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, provides $100,000,000 for post offices and Federal buildings throughout the country and $115,000,000 to complete the vast building program in the District of Columbia.

HIGHWAY FUNDS

This measure follows the tax cut bill introduced by Representative Hawley (Rep.), of Oregon, and a bill by Representative Dowell (Rep.), of Iowa, to increase the annual Federal aid for highway building from $75,000,000 to $125,000,000.

The fourth great undertaking for domestic improvements, a $125,000,000 rivers and harbors bill, will be sponsored by Representative Dempsey (Rep.), of New York.

"My bill will increase from $35,000,000 to $50,000,000 the amount which may be spent each year for public buildings," said Representative Elliott.

"It will provide that cities in which the government already owns sites for post offices shall be given preference in the allocation of funds. It will permit the employment of private architects."

OBJECTORS WON OVER

"I do not think there will be serious objection to the measure. Many members who opposed the public building program before tell me they are for its extension. The bill also is in line with the recommendations of the President and the Secretary of the Treasury."

Congress already is in possession of a survey of building needs of the country, made by the Treasury and Postoffice departments. Thus far Congress has authorized $200,000,000 for buildings and $48,000,000 more is expected to be realized from sale of old buildings and unused sites.

The Treasury-Postoffice survey, on the basis of data gathered in 1928, placed the cost of the building needs of the country at $398,000,000. It included $76,600,000 for 1,600 towns in which postal receipts are less than $20,000 annually, which are not included in the scope of the Elliott bill.

MAN PARKS CAR, GONE 2 WEEKS

CHARLEROI, Pa., Dec. 3. — A search for John McGhill, mill worker, formerly of Clairton but said to have moved to Charleroi, was being made today.

On the night of November 19, John Vitz, of Gillespie, mistook a parked automobile belonging to McGhill, for his own and drove away. He was arrested for attempting to drive through a highway barricade.

Vitz then discovered that he had taken McGhill's coupe. He was discharged and McGhill's car returned to its parking place.

When the owner did not claim it for several days, it was placed in a garage. The car is still being held.

been murdered there, or near there.

QUIZ ON SHOOTING

The attorney was asking the witness, Detective Patrick Flood, whether other guests had heard a noise which might have been a report of a shot.

"I believe two guests said they hadn't heard any noise," the witness testified.

McManus whispered Morin's name to his counsel, James D. C. Murray.

Then Murray asked the witness whether he had questioned "Congressman Morin."

The witness replied that he had not.

DENIES KILLING

"I don't know anything about the shooting of Arnold Rothstein. I'm as innocent of this as you are," McManus said as he sat in a taxicab more than three weeks after the shooting and talked with Detective Flood, who met him by prearrangement.

Flood, a detective in Broadway's white light district for the last 20 years, gave this testimony from the witness stand today.

"I asked McManus who shot Rothstein and he said he didn't know a thing about it," Flood testified.

"We (the police) had been searching for him ever since the night of the shooting (Nov. 4, 1928)."

Flood said he accompanied McManus and his lawyer, James D. C. Murray, to the office of District Attorney Joab H. Banton, where McManus was grilled.

McManus, Hyman Biller "John Doe" and Richard Roe," were subsequently indicted for the murder of Rothstein.

Cross examined by Defense Attorney Murray, Detective Flood said he had known Rothstein for five or six years, but had spoken to him but twice.

Q. When you asked him who shot him he would not tell you. Exactly what did he say?

A. He said: "I won't tell you who shot me. Please don't ask me any more questions."

Flood was excused and former Detective Joseph Daly took the stand.

WOMAN IN CASE

The name of Mrs. Ruth Keyes, formerly of Chicago, but now of Oregon, Ill., was brought into the case today by the questioning of Flood, who said she was a guest in the Park Central the night of the shooting.

Mrs. Keyes is expected to testify, if called, that on the afternoon of November 4, 1928, she was in room 349 at the Park Central with a man she then knew as "Jack," but who she later learned was George McManus.

It was reported, however, that the defense might concede that McManus was in the room that day and obviate the necessity of Mrs. Keyes appearing as a witness.

MORIN IN CAPITAL

John M. Morin, Jr., Pittsburgh theater executive and son of the former Congressman, said his father was in Washington today. He also stated that he knew his father had, on several occasions, stayed at the hotel where Rothstein was shot. He never had heard that the ex-Congressman had been there the night of the shooting.

Kin of Moran Gang Victims Found Slain

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—P. J. (Paddy) King, business agent of the Theater Ushers' Union, was found slain today in a small room of a building formerly occupied as a gambling house.

King had been shot several times and had been dead about 10 hours when his body was found, slumped in a chair. He was the brother-in-law of Pete and Frank Gusenberg, brothers, who were slain in the Clark street massacre of seven Moran gangsters last February 14.

Girl in $20.80 Outfit Takes Style Prize

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—A complete outfit—hat, shoes, lingerie and ensemble—costing only $20.80, has won for Jeanette Gamble, 17-year-old Coffeyville, Kan., girl, the championship in the national girls' style contest. Girls from 25 states entered the contest, which was part of the annual Congress of Four-H Clubs.

The dominant color of Miss Gamble's outfit was brown. Some of it she made herself, the rest was ready-to-wear. Her ensemble included a brown cardigan jacket, ivory-colored blouse, brown and ivory checked skirt, all made by herself at a cost of $... 26; a brown hat for which she paid $4; brown shoes that cost the same; ivory hose costing $1.35 and lingerie she made at a cost of $2.65.

$20,000,000 FORD PAY BOOST

Auto Manufacturer Raises All Employes' Wages: Minimum Now $7 a Day

International News Service.

DETROIT, Dec. 3.—Twenty million dollars a year payroll increase, with a $7 a day minimum for all Ford workers in the United States, was announced by the Ford Motor Company today.

The $7 a day minimum, replacing the old $6 a day minimum, affects 24,320 Ford workers.

An additional 113,643 workers are affected by an increase of five cents an hour in the wage of those who work on an hourly basis.

The increases apply to all Ford workers in the United States.

The five-cent increase in the hourly wage means the minimum for this class of workers will be $7.30 for an eight-hour day.

The increases became effective December 1.

Ford employes of every grade are today working under the new increased scale. All employes whose wage rate exceeded the minimum wage received an increase in their hourly rate.

The probationary — or "hiring in"—wage, which is paid to apprentice employes for the first two months, was raised to $6 a day, from $5.

In addition to these wage increases, the salary roll of the Ford company was raised 5 per cent, it was announced in Detroit.

This was the third time Ford Motor raised its minimum wage.

It was estimated that on the basis of the October payroll, which registered 144,990 employes, the monthly increase will amount to $1,628,451—or slightly in excess of $19,500,000 a year.

Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company, announced that "it is our belief that in making these increases we are increasing the buying power of our workers in Detroit and elsewhere."

HOOVER CALLS U. S. SOUND of the United States to weather any storm which might blow.

The President then gave his views on prohibition. He frankly admitted that, unless the populace of the United States supports the government, the movement cannot succeed.

ENFORCEMENT POOR

The President said:

"The first duty of the President under his oath of office is to secure the enforcement of the laws. The enforcement of the laws enacted to give effect to the eighteenth amendment is far from satisfactory.

"The subject has been earnestly considered by the law enforcement commission and the administrative officials of the government. Our joint conclusions are that certain steps should be taken at once.

"First, there should be an immediate concentration of responsibility and strengthening of enforcement agencies of the Federal Government by transfer to the Department of Justice of the Federal Functions of Detection and to a considerable degree of prosecution, which are now lodged in the prohibition bureau in the treasury.

"Second, provision should be made for relief of congestion in the Federal courts by modifying and simplifying the procedure for dealing with the large volume of petty prosecutions under various federal acts."

TROOPS ABROAD

American troops are on foreign soil, the President said, because Americans have not been given protection or because the particular government has urgently plead for their presence there. He explained that just as soon as it could be safely done he would order the retirement of soldiers, sailors and marines because their maintenance is quite a burden on the taxpayers.

President Hoover took the same position on the tariff that he did when he called Congress into extraordinary session to consider it. He repeated to Congress his same words on the subject and added:

"No condition has arisen in my view to change these principles stated at the opening of the special session of the Congress. I am firmly of the opinion that their application to the pending revision will give the country the kind of a tariff law it both needs and wants. It would be most helpful if action should be taken at an early moment, more especially at a time when business and agriculture are both co-operating to minimizing future expenditures."

Seek Lost Hunter In Pocono Mountains

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Police and hunters today were searching the Pocono Mountains in an effort to locate John Jacobs, chauffeur employed by Mayor Daniel L. Hart. Jacobs, who is a member of the city police department, became separated from a party of hunters yesterday afternoon and was lost in the mountain fastness during a blinding snowstorm which caused a foot of snow to fall.

WOMAN, 88, TESTIFIES ON STRETCHER IN MURDER TRIAL

TELLS HOW GRANDSON'S WIFE DIED

Defends Housekeeper Who Shot Estranged Woman During Quarrel in Home

An 88-year-old woman, a paralytic, was carried into a Criminal Court room today to testify for the woman who shot and killed her grandson's wife.

She was Mrs. Annie Bird Hornby, only eye-witness to the shooting of Mrs. Sarah Hornby by Ida Mae Gilmer, of Clairton.

The aged Mrs. Hornby supported Mrs. Gilmer's plea that she shot in self-defense.

JUDGE LEAVES BENCH

The aged witness testified that Mrs. Gilmer fired the fatal shot only after Mrs. Hornby had cornered her in a room and threatened to "knock out her brains."

The defense rested this afternoon.

The commonwealth rested before adjournment yesterday. Mrs. Gilmer then took the stand in her own behalf, asserting that when she picked up the revolver it exploded.

INTENDED TO SCARE

She grabbed the revolver, only to scare Mrs. Hornby, but it went off. The bullet struck Mrs. Hornsby in the neck, severing the jugular vein. She died five minutes later.

Mrs. Gilmer was acting as housekeeper for Roy Hornby, who was estranged from his wife. The testimony showed that Mrs. Hornby had called at 214 North Fourth street, Clairton, to visit her four children.

Elma Neal, a daughter of Mrs. Hornby, testified that as Mrs. Hornby attempted to enter the room in which Mrs. Gilmer was working, she warned her to stay out. Mrs. Neal said her mother retorted if she wanted to start trouble she could do it.

Mrs. Hornby advanced to the doorway with broom in hand and according to Mrs. Gilmer, Mrs. Hornby threatened to brain her or gouge her stomach. Mrs. Neal says she did not hear her mother make those remarks.

In any event, a shot rang out in a few moments and the woman fell to the floor.

Another murder case on trial is that of Arthur Williams, Negro, charged with killing Milton Barrox, Negro, at Smithdale, Elizabeth Township, April 27 last. Attorney William H. Stanton represents the prisoner and claims that the dead man was too friendly with the defendant's wife which provoked several quarrels and a murder.

Old Convict Back Home Again —In Prison

AUBURN, N. Y., Dec. 3.—(INS.)—After having spent 52 years of his life in prisons, George Ferguson, 77, returned to what he calls "home"—Auburn Prison.

Ferguson was brought here from Plainsville, O.

"I'm the happiest man in the world," the old convict said. "It's home for me."

Years ago Ferguson was sentenced to Auburn for burglary. Good behavior won him a parole. Another violation soon landed him in Joliet prison.

Released from Joliet, he wandered around helpless, unable to work.

When he reached Plainsville he wired Auburn prison officials to come after him.

GILLETT QUITS, COOLIDGE MAY GO TO SENATE

Capital Believes Ex-President Might 'Choose' to Run if Conditions Were Favorable

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Senator Calvin Coolidge, of Massachusetts!

Washington was eagerly speculating on this possibility today as a result of the announcement by the veteran Senator Frederick H. Gillett that he will not be a candidate to succeed himself next year. Gillett is 79 years old, has been in Congress continuously for 35 years, and has decided to retire.

His decision undoubtedly opens the door to a Coolidge candidacy. Of that the politicians of the Capital are certain.

COOLIDGE MAY "CHOOSE"

Whether the former President will "choose" to take advantage of the opening remains to be seen. Some political authorities here believe he will—provided he receives sufficient assurance that he will have no opposition for the nomination, and provided further that conditions are sufficiently favorable to indicate Republican success in Massachusetts next November.

Should Mr. Coolidge "choose to run" for the Senate and return to the scene of his presidency as a member of Congress he would be but following in the footsteps of another distinguished New England President. John Quincy Adams followed his presidency by standing for Congress in his home district in Massachusetts. He was elected and served continuously for many years, until his death, in Washington.

HAS "NOTHING TO DO"

This tradition is likely to appeal to Coolidge.

Friends of the former President point out that almost for the first time in his adult life Calvin Coolidge is out of office. He has "nothing to do" save a bit of writing, and for one of his habits and training that cannot occupy a great deal of his time. He likes Washington, and still short of 60 years old, he is too young to go upon the shelf of permanent retirement.

EX-PRESIDENT SILENT

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—(INS.)—The political pot began to boil in Massachusetts immediately Senator Frederick W. Gillett had announced his retirement. Eben S. Draper, of Hopedale, was the first Republican to toss his hat into the ring in the hope of succeeding Gillett.

Former Gov. Alvan T. Fuller, who had intimated a desire for the senatorship, was not prepared to make any announcement.

When approached at his home in Northampton, former President Coolidge said he had not heard the news officially, and "had nothing to say."

nights in Cleveland where a heated hangar will avert delays. He said the time of flight will not handicap the search.

PILOTS IN SEARCH

Five airplanes were in the air at dawn. They planned to systematically search a triangle extending from Mercer and Franklin to Knox.

The pilots were accompanied by Mechanics Charles Stuttler and Willard Schmidt, of Cleveland, and Carl Talmer, of Chicago. Ralph Smith, of Berea, O., a radio operator, was to fly in one of the planes.

All the searchers with the exception of Noyes are employes of the National Air Transport Company.

Three inches more of snow had fallen during the night and the temperature hovered around zero as the searching parties left this morning. Both flying and brush beating was difficult and hazardous.

PILOTS ASSIGNED

He headed toward Sandy Lake and the region around Franklin, followed by Charles Haas, also of Cleveland, piloting U. S. Army monoplane 02K. Haas was detailed to observe the district near Emlenton, Venango county.

H. Stark, of New York, was detailed to scour the Mercer district. F. H. Burnside and Paul E. Reeder, of Chicago, in planes, soared low over the region around Clarion and Knox.

Other planes later joined in the hunt.

All fliers were instructed to keep in touch with the Clarion airport by radio.

"Nelson was not heard of after he left Knox, about six miles northwest of here," said Supt. Smith.

"We also have clues leading us to believe that Nelson may be down somewhere in the Sandy Lake section, southwest of Franklin."

Numerous rumors which reported the plane down in a wooded stretch between Franklin and Stoneboro were investigated by Smith yesterday. Smith said he was unable to verify any of these reports.

Visibility was bad yesterday and hampered the search, pilots said. Among the places to be visited today is Wendling Corners, 15 miles southwest of here.

Headquarters were established at the Clarion Hotel. Ed Kifer, night clerk at the hotel, and state troopers saw the plane pass over Clarion. They told Smith it was flying low and the engine was very noisy.

REWARD FOR FLIER

Announcement was broadcast through radio station KDKA last night that the National Air Transport, by whom the missing mail plane pilot, Thomas P. Nelson, was employed, would pay a reward of $250 to the person finding him.

POWERS ASK CHINESE-RED PEACE

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The moral force of most of the world was thrown today behind a move to force Russia and China to live up to the promises they made to preserve peace when they signed the Kellogg-Briand pact outlawing war.

Taking the initiative, Secretary of State Stimson sent both belligerent governments a sharp reminder that they were signers of the peace pact, and simultaneously addressed all of the 53 other signers of the treaty, notifying them of what he had done, and expressing the hope they could by similar action support this American move in the direction of world peace.

Stimson appeared assured of the support of most of the other world powers—Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany.

FRANCE JOINS MOVE

France, through American Charge d' Affairs Armour, was the first to give formal approval to Stimson's action, with Britain following closely.

French Foreign Minister Briand, further to emphasize his complete accord with the United States in its attempt to make the pact which bears his name effective, informed Armour that he had adopted the identic text. He gave orders to the French ambassador to present the American communication and that of the French at the Soviet foreign office simultaneously. The American attitude had to be made known through the French as there are no diplomatic relations between Moscow and Washington.

To the French minister at Peiping, Briand sent orders to present the French communication as nearly simultaneously with the American as possible.

BRITISH TO ACT

The British informed Ambassador Dawes that they would send a statement to both Russia and China "along lines similar" to Stimson's.

In Berlin, the German government issued an official statement in which it welcomed the steps taken by the United States.

Italy advised the State Department that it was duplicating Stimson's note in reminding the two governments of their obligations under the peace pact.

Japan alone of the great powers is holding aloof, fearing her proximity to China might draw her into the Manchurian situation unless she followed a "hands off" policy.

FRANK WARNING GIVEN

Stimson, in a remarkably frank identic "communication" to Russia and China told them:

"The American government feels that the respect with which Russia and China will hereafter be held in the good opinion of the world will necessarily in a great measure depend upon the way in which they carry out these (the Kellogg-Briand pact covenant) most sacred promises."

Stimson said the sole sanction in the Kellogg pact lies "in the power of public opinion of the countries, constituting substantially the entire civilized world, whose governments have joined in the covenant," adding:

"If the recent events in Manchuria are allowed to pass without notice or protest by any of these governments, the intelligent strength of the public opinion of the world in support of peace cannot but be impaired."

EDISON FINDS RUBBER PLANT

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Thomas A. Edison, in one of his characteristically laconic interviews, has disclosed the discovery of a plant that will produce rubber on a profitable basis.

A series of questions was submitted to the aged inventor at his laboratory and he wrote brief replies to each.

He was asked, "Have you found one plant or more which will produce a satisfactory amount of rubber for commercial purposes?"

He answered, "Yes."

Other questions and their answers were:

Q.—"What is the business outlook for this winter?" A.—"Fair."

Q.—"Are you going to conduct any other major experiments this year?" A.—"I am conducting several other experiments, some of which have been in progress for several years, but not yet commercial."

Q.—"What reports do you get from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology about Wilbur Huston?" (Huston won the Edison scholarship in competition with boys from all states). A.—"I get no reports. He is down with scarlet fever and is quarantined with 30 other students."

Much improved in health since his attack of penumonia several months ago, Mr. Edison will leave on Thursday for his winter home at Fort Myers, Fla., where he will continue his experiments in search of a rubber substitute.

MORROW TRICK VICTIM, CLAIM

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Jesse R. Salmon, chairman of the Essex County Republican Committee, today asserted that Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, had been "tricked" into entering the United States senatorial contest against Joseph S. Frelinghuysen.

Salmon recently announced he favored Frelinghuysen to succeed Walter E. Edge.

"I received word from Mexico," Salmon stated, "that Mr. Morrow did not know that his friend, Mr. Frelinghuysen was an avowed candidate when he consented to accept the temporary appointment to fill Edge's place in the Senate. Mr. Morrow was told that if he accepted the temporary appointment there would be no contest for the Republican nomination for the full term."

Mr. Salmon expressed the belief that "if persons who induced Mr. Morrow to run had laid the cards on the table he would never have consented."

Baby Dies, Sent To Morgue for Cremation

A tearful child's voice telephoned this pathetic message to Chief Clerk James L. Davidson, of the coroner's office:

"I am calling for my neighbor. Her new baby is dead. The family is poor and has no money to bury the child and wants you to take it away and cremate it."

The baby was that of Mrs. Mary Parzyck, 5812 Second avenue. Morgue Superintendent John P. Black described the baby as being dressed like a baby doll when brought to the morgue. The child's name was inscribed on morgue records as "Mary," and the tiny body held for cremation with those of the other unclaimed.

Special Talkie Shows For Current Events

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Harold B. Franklin, executive head of the Fox West Coast Theaters, today announced that his company would erect theaters in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland and Seattle for the exclusive showing of sound pictures of important events. Franklin said that eventually a chain of 100 such theaters would be formed throughout the United States.

Greta Garbo to Make German Talkie Here

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(INS.)—Greta Garbo, exotic Swedish screen player, is to star in a German version of Eugene O'Neill's "Anna Christie," which will be filmed in Hollywood. An announcement to this effect was made here today by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Company, which will make the picture.

This will be the first serious attempt to make a foreign language talkie in this country.

Children Cut Off, Estate Left Others

Jacob Peters, Sr., of Belle Vernon, cut off five of his children with $5 each, and left the rest of his $16,000 estate to three other children—Jacob, Jr., August and Mrs. Marie Barron, in his will filed for probate today. Jacob, Jr., was named executor. Those receiving $5 each are Mrs. Gertrude Nekolous, Otto, Nekolous, Carl and Rudolph Peters.

Arizona Woman's Doom Confirmed

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 3.—(AP.)—The Arizona Supreme Court has affirmed the death sentence of Mrs. Eva Dugan, convicted in 1927 of the murder of A. J. Mathis, elderly Tucson rancher.

February 21 has been set as the date of Mrs. Dugan's execution. She would be the first woman hanged in the history of Arizona as a state.

Firemen Battle Flames in Mine

DERRY, Pa., Dec. 3.—Derry firemen battled for two hours Monday when fire raged in the fan house of Atlantic No. 2 mine near there. The flames swept into the timber pit mouth. Ten days will be required for repairs.

2 Families Overcome In Gas Main Break

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Police were called early this morning to South Ninth street in answer to an emergency call that there had been a serious gas break in that vicinity. It was found that two families had been overcome by gas and several other families seriously affected by the fumes from the broken mains.

Those overcome were revived by pulmotors. It was thought that the broken mains are the result of a mine cave-in.

Burn Coal in Ground, Pipe Gas Away, His Plan

WATERLOO, Ia., Dec. 3.—(AP.)—The Waterloo Courier says that Leo Ranney has applied for 46 patents to cover a process for burning coal in the ground and piping the resultant gas to the surface. The process, Ranney claims, enables gas either to be piped to the consuming area or burned at the mouth of the mine and transformed into electricity.

The gas obtained by his method, Ranney told the Courier, can be produced in the ground in Pennsylvania and piped to New York City to sell for less than 12 cents per thousand cubic feet.

Ranney said that by controlling the coal in the ground, either petroleum or carbon dioxide gas may be produced. From the former, he said, he can get gasoline; from the latter, dry ice, both available at low cost. He did not reveal the workings of his process specifically. He said that first big scale work with the process would start either in Illinois or Pennsylvania.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Experts of the industry have been experimenting for years in vain attempts to control gas generated by burning underground coal, Prof. Prof. W. S. Parr, of the University of Illinois said, discussing Waterloo, Ia., dispatches that Leo Ranney had applied for patents on such a process.

PITTSBURGHERS ASPHYXIATED

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 3.—Two Pittsburghers, married but a few months, were found dead here early this morning, victims of gas asphyxiation. Jets in the room were aflame and windows were closed. Physicians worked with the pair several hours futilely and stated that they probably had been dead 24 hours.

The couple, Andrew De Lucas, 30, and Minnie De Lucas, 27, came here from Pittsburgh several months ago.

The woman's father, Anthony Focaretta, resides at 305 Beech street, East Pittsburgh. They had been visiting in Pittsburgh Sunday and returned home late that night.

Mail Flier Downed In Ohio Snowstorm

ASHTABULA, O., Dec. 3.—(AP.)—His vision badly impaired by a snow storm, F. P. Little, pilot of a mail plane of the Colonial Western Airways, was forced to land at an emergency field here today. He said he would not take off again until weather conditions improved. The plane was en route from Cleveland to Buffalo. Mail it carried was transferred to a railroad train.

Driver Turns Car Dies at Wheel; Wife Unhurt

"This is where we turn in," J. Albert Herron, 60, of Clairton, said to his wife while driving yesterday on Brownsville road, Brentwood.

With that remark, he let go of the steering wheel and clutched his breast. The machine ran from the roadway and down a small embankment before it stopped.

Dr. W. H. Goodpaster, of 2700 Brownsville road, pronounced Mr. Herron dead. The cause was heart disease. Mrs. Herron was uninjured.

BATTLE RAGES NEAR CANTON

LONDON, Dec. 3.—(INS.)—While all eyes are turned to the situation in Manchuria and efforts to effect peace between Russia and China there, rebel troops are seriously menacing Canton in the south, accoring to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch received from Hong Kong today. For 24 hours a furious battle raged in the vicinity of the city until the early hours of this morning, according to this dispatch, with the Nationalist defenders being sorely beset. Two powerful rebel Armies, one pushing southward, the other eastward, attacked the Nationalists and inflicted heavy losses before hostilities were brought to a temporary halt.

ENFORCEMENT BY SHOTGUN SCORED

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Members of Congress voiced their vigorous disapproval of "shotgun" methods of prohibition enforcement. Stirred by the startling disclosure by the Washington Herald, a Hearst newspaper, that 1,360 men, women and children have lost their lives in encounters between officers of the law and civilians through the 10-year attempt to make the Eighteenth Amendment effective, outstanding members deplored the heavy toll in lives and condemned in unmistakable language the reckless use of firearms.

Those who committed themselves were emphatic in their declarations that shooting by officers could be condoned only in those cases where it was necessary to shoot in defense of their own lives. Reckless and promiscuous gun-play was branded as inexcusable and outrageous.

"I am absolutely opposed to 'shotgun' methods of enforcement of prohibition or any other laws," said Senator James Couzens (Rep.), of Michigan, who some years ago was police commissioner and later mayor of Detroit. "Shooting by officers is inexcusable in any case except in self-defense. As police commissioner of Detroit I would not permit my men to be shot down without attempting to defend themselves. They were privileged to shoot if necessary, to protect their own lives, but only in self-defense."

TERMED HIGH HANDED

Senator Duncan U. Fletcher (Dem.), of Florida, whose state is rated among the dryest of the drys in the sentiment of its people, said:

"Generally speaking, the promiscuous use of firearms in prohibition enforcement looks to me like a high-handed procedure and not justified. I do not think an officer should be permitted to shoot at will. They should use their weapons only when they are obliged to shoot to protect their own lives.

"I think prohibition can be enforced without resorting to the taking of human lives, if we try hard enough to enforce it.

"There was one case in the Herald's list from my own state with which I am especially familiar. The killing in this case was outrageous and wholly unjustified. It was that of Perle S. Thomas, a traveling salesman, returning to his home at Fort Pierce to spend the week end with his family. He was shot down by Federal officers looking for smugglers. As I recall it these officers were arrested, tried and convicted for his death."

OFFICERS ARE ARMED

Senator Lynn J. Frazier (Rep.) of North Dakota said:

"The figures the Herald give did not surprise me very much. The bootleggers and rum runners take long chances for the big money in the liquor business.

"I noticed in the list one killing recorded in North Dakota. That fellow was killed while I was in office as governor. Bootleggers were running booze across the border through our state in high-powered automobiles. It was reported that they were arming themselves with sawed off shotguns.

"I authorized the purchase of two machine guns and instructed our state officers to stop this illegal traffic. When this one man was killed the bootleggers realized that we meant business. After that they gave North Dakota a wide berth, running their liquor across through Minnesota and Montana instead."

Kindest Pen Guard's Slayer Electrocuted

Comparative Values Of Foods Given

WASHINGTON.—The Department of Agriculture says that there are 770 calories per pound in eggs. Beef contains about 1,000 calories per pound, depending upon the age and quality of fat. Since eggs are measured 10 to 12 per pound, it would appear that it would take between 15 and 20 eggs to equal a pound of beef in caloric food value.

Says Spouse Rich She Gets $8 Weekly

Mrs. Bessie C. Rasp of 344 Hamilton Avenue, Avalon, that her husband, Oscar Rasp, of 3210 Brighton Road, owns $200,000 in personal property in addition to valuable real estate, while she is forced to properly exist on $8 weekly allowed her by court in a petition filed in Common Pleas Court seeking alimony and counsel fees.

The petition was filed in the divorce action brought by Rasp, who charged he was deserted without just cause October 16, 1926. They were married May 4, 1920. Mrs. Rasp averred she is in bad health and unable to work and has no income except the weekly allowance granted by the County Court.

Rasp is the owner of real estate in the Sixth Ward yielding $800 monthly and other Squirrel Hill property and his personal property is reputed to aggregate $200,000, Mrs. Rasp alleged.

Their curls are tied with colored satin bows. And when you undress them for bed, you find the cunningest underthings—as dainty and pretty as any little girl could wear.

When she's ready to go to sleep she says, "Now I lay me down to sleep," just as you would, yourself.

And the best part of it is that every little girl in Pittsburgh may have one of my dollies for her very own. Make papa and mama bring you to the Doll Lady headquarters.

I'm the only one from whom you can get them, so be sure to come and see me.

You'll just love my doll family, and I'd just love to show you all my walking, reciting, singing and praying chillans.

Won't you come to my doll party? You had better come. Many little friends will be there, and I'm sure that mama will bring you, too, if you ask her.

Really, children, you've never seen anything like my dolls. There are no such dolls anywhere else, and you must come to my party if you want to see dolls that are as big as a real baby and who actually walk, recite, sing and pray.

Well, that's all for today, children, but I'll tell you some more tomorrow and every day that I'm in Pittsburgh. But I won't be here very long, so you better hurry up and come to my party.

First Gas Well Described to Rotarians

TITUSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 3.—The first natural gas well in the United States was drilled near Fredonia, N. Y., in 1821, William H. Locke, of Oil City, vice president of the United Natural Gas Company, told the Rotary Club at luncheon here.

In contrast to the first small gas pipe, two inches in diameter, he mentioned some of the larger lines of today, 14 to 22 inches in diameter, and running from 250 to 1,400 miles in length.

CAPITAL PARADE TO CARRY TAX APPEAL

Petitions Signed Here To Seek Revision of Earned Income Schedule

Nation-wide protest against the system of taxing earned incomes will be made December 9 when petitions bearing millions of signatures from citizens in all parts of the country will be carried to Washington in a great parade.

The petitions were circulated under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers and the signers include the names of the leading public officials, financial and industrial leaders, professional people, club women and people in all walks of life.

From Pittsburgh there are 60,000 signatures. Besides the individual indorsements of corporation executives, bank officials, lawyers, physicians, and other professional men, the petitions are accompanied by resolutions of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, Pittsburgh City Council, the Retail Credit Men's Association, the Kiwanis Club of Pittsburgh, the Allegheny County Bar Association and scores of other civic and professional organizations.

Still more signatures are desired. It is declared that if sufficient pressure is brought to bear on the Administration and Congress, a revision will be made on the schedules on earned incomes that will lift the burden which has been carried by professional men and women, salaried persons and wage earners.

Readers of the Sun-Telegraph who give their indorsement of tax reduction on the coupon below will have their protests sent out immediately and they will be carried in the parade. It is necessary, however, to mail the coupons at once to the Income Tax Department, Sun-Telegraph.

Read the resolution below:

To His Excellency, the President of the United States of America:

To His Excellency, the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States of America;

To the Honorable, the Congress of the United States of America:

Whereas, the earned income of an individual is derived from his labor and creative faculties, which are subject to rigid limitations, fluctuations and serious depreciation, while the income from property is a permanent and stable income, it seems inequitable to tax earned incomes on the same basis as incomes from property and invested capital without taking depreciation into consideration; and

Whereas, an earned income is the measure of value of services rendered by the worker to the community and an unearned income is the measure of value of the protection and other benefits received by an individual of the community; and

Whereas, to tax earned incomes heavily is to penalize thrift and industry and is a direct tax on labor and tends to retard enterprise and achievement, therefore

Be it resolved, that we, the undersigned, call these facts to the attention of the President, the Secretary of the Treasury and Congress, in order to secure a reduction of 50 per cent in the tax rate on earned incomes below the tax rate on unearned incomes.

Russ Execute 13 As Town Raiders

SAMARKAND, Russian Turkestan, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Thirteen members of the Basmach tribe were executed by shooting as bandits and murderers. They were accused of having raided the village of Kassan, killed the secretary of the local Communist organization, the chairman of a cooperative society and a girl who had removed her veil. Of the 13 defendants, 11 were rich peasants or merchants.

Former Mill Boss Dies at Washington

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 3.—Charles Stratman, 70, of Washington, former superintendent of the Tyler Tube and Pipe Company here, is dead in his home near Washington. Stratman was born in Essen, Germany. He came to Washington in 1889. He was a member of several Masonic bodies, including the Syria Shrine and the Consistory of Pittsburgh.

Gas Victim Is Revived After 4 Hours

STEUBENVILLE, O., Dec. 3.—Mrs. John Smith, 36, apparently dead when taken from a bedroom of her home after being overcome by fumes from a small gas stove, was revived by doctors and firemen after four hours. She has a chance of recovery.

Young Communists Held in Council Shouting Uproar

CLEVELAND, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Nine members of the Young Communist League, led by Lillian Andrews, 21, were held today on charges of creating a disturbance, and 21 children faced possible action in Juvenile Court as the outcome of their third attempt in as many weeks to shout down a session of the City Council last night.

Miss Andrews, less than two weeks ago was convicted of criminal syndicalism at St. Clairsville under a revived war-time statute and was at liberty under $2,000 bond.

Last night's uproar began when the woman leader demanded that the Young Pioneers of America, the children's branch of the Young Communist League, be given the use of the council chambers, instead of the "reactionary" Boy Scouts, as provided in a resolution by Mayor John D. Marshall.

While officers escorted her and her eight companions from the room, the children members of the Young Pioneers, ranging from six to 16 years of age, halted the session with demands for free street car fare for school pupils.

CHURCHES JOIN WAR AGAINST NARCOTICS

New York Federation to Combat Drugs; Hobson Lauds Hearst Newspapers

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Aid of the New York Federation of Churches has been enlisted in the campaign to stamp out the narcotic drug traffic. The Federation of Churches represents 1,233,000 members in 3,700 churches in the metropolitan area, about 700 ministers attending a federation meeting today at the Marble Collegiate Church. They left the meeting won to the cause of stamping out the drug evil, and aiding unfortunate addicts.

The chief speaker at the meeting, and at a conference which followed, was Capt. Richard Pearson Hobson, founder and president of the International Narcotic Education Association.

In his address, Capt. Hobson took occasion to warmly praise the work done by the Hearst papers in combatting illicit traffic in narcotic drugs.

Capt. Hobson, who bottled up the Spanish fleet in Santiago harbor by sinking the Merrimac, shared the program with the Rev. Dr. Ralph Sockman, president of the Federation of Churches; the Rev. Dr. W. D. Millar, general secretary of the federation, and other speakers.

A report will be presented by the Rev. Dr. Millar at the annual meeting of the Federation of Churches on February 3, showing how the churches may aid in stamping out the drug traffic. Protestant, Catholic and Jewish religious leaders are expected to co-operate in the observance of Narcotic Education Week, the last week in February.

"William Randolph Hearst's great newspapers have shown us how the press can co-operate in this fight against the drug evil," Capt. Hobson said. "Not only have the Hearst papers cooperated through editorials, but they have published cartoons and news stories vividly and graphically enlightening the public on this subject of drug traffic. Appearing in the nation-wide chain of Hearst papers, these articles and cartoons have reached millions of readers."

QUIZ PRISONER IN GIRL SLAYING

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 3.—While county detectives here today endeavored to find discrepancies in the alleged story of Paul Hobbs, 19, alias Paul Gerard, that he killed Thelma Young, 16, December 29, 1927, near her home, the suspect was being held for further grilling by District Attorney Warren S. Burchinal in the county jail.

STORY DOUBTED

Hobbs, according to the district attorney, insists he is her slayer, but does not advance sufficient facts to satisfy authorities that he really committed the crime.

Hobbs was released from the Mansfield (O.) reform school several days ago, after he served a sentence for larceny at Dennison, O. He was turned over to Washington County authorities after they said he admitted to the reform school head he killed the girl.

Hobbs has been questioned in connection with the case before. A few days after the murder, the district attorney said, he was found unconscious near the Washington Country Club, several miles from the scene of the crime. He spent several days in a hospital here before he returned to consciousness. In his pockets were found letters addressed to a "Thelma Young," Marion City, Ill. A checkup showed a girl by that name lived in Marion City.

MAYVIEW FUGITIVE

At the hospital Hobbs is alleged to have declared he killed the local girl, according to the district attorney. It was learned Hobbs escaped from the Pittsburgh Home for Mental Patients at Mayview. After questioning in 1927, Hobbs was returned to Mayview, where he escaped again in August, 1928. He was later discovered as an inmate of the Ohio Reform School.

Neighbors Rescue Autoist, Overcome

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 3.—Working on his auto with the motor running, nearly caused the death of Jess Longsdorf, 35, of Greensburg, in his closed garage. Neighbors saw Longsdorf unconscious from carbon monoxide fumes. He will recover.

Two Gambling Raids Made in Washington

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 3.—Police arrested proprietors of four establishments and picked up the proprietor and nine players in an alleged gambling house, during raids in the mining communities at Muse and Southview.

Pet Collie's Bark Saves Family In Fire

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., Dec. 3.—The frantic barking of a pet collie of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver V. Farrell, Center Township, aroused them in time to extinguish a fire, caused by a defective chimney. Neighbors formed a bucket brigade and soon extinguished the fire.

FARM AID PLEA BY BROOKHART

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Explaining in detail the conditions of agriculture in the West and particularly in his own state, Smith W. Brookhart, United States Senator from Iowa, speaking last night at forum meeting at the Boston City Club pleaded for co-operation between the business man and the farmer.

Confining his remarks entirely to farming problems, the Senator said the only way that the small business man, the laborer and the farmer could obtain economic freedom was by controlling their own banking system.

In beginning his address, the Senator alluded to statements attributed to him on the banning of tea as a beverage. The only people to abolish tea, he said, "were at the Boston tea party."

Later on he referred to "the stock machine in New York as a gambling institution pure and simple," and decried the granting of brokers loans to give credit to gamblers.

Following his address, he submitted to questions from the audience, all of which related to farm conditions in the West. In response to a question from the gallery as to the benefit the farmer received from the Eighteenth amendment, the Senator replied that the Eighteenth amendment was the greatest benefit the farmer had received since the war.

Tobacco Output 60 Million Pounds

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Dec. 3.—Pennsylvania now produces nearly 60,000,000 pounds of cigar leaf tobacco, says Otto Olson, research worker of the Federal Bureau of Plant Industry, co-operating with the Pennsylvania State College agricultural experiment station, in a bulletin just published by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Lancaster and adjoining counties produce principally filler leaf. Clinton, Tioga, Lycoming, and Bradford county farmers grow binder leaf. Lancaster county grows the bulk of Pennsylvania tobacco.

South Penn Buys Emery Refinery

BRADFORD, Pa., Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Purchase of the one-half interest of the Tidewater Oil company in the former Emery refinery here by the South Penn Oil company was announced at the local offices of the purchasing company. The South Penn now controls the refinery, which it purchased jointly with the Tidewater company in July from the Louis Emery, Jr., estate.

The purchase price was not announced but unofficial reports set it at approximately $7,500,000, the amount also covering the purchase of some valuable oil lands and property in this area.

ROCKEFELLER III GOES TO WORK

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (INS)—A slim, wiry figure of 23 destined to be the richest man in the world has begun work here just like any fellow.

He is John D. Rockefeller, the third, who started work at No. 26 Broadway where the founder of the Rockefeller fortune established it.

The soft-shaven face of the father was replaced by a full beard. It is not definite yet what he is to learn the business, but the father has some interest. I want to look them all over," he said, "although the choice is mine. I am sure it will be very interesting.

He explained that he meant to keep up his boyhood and work at various positions just like any other young man. His father here interrupted, and told newspapermen that his son would receive a salary commensurate with the more or less responsible duties he would be called upon to perform.

Young Rockefeller has completed a course which he designed as an English major at Princeton. James [illegible] Dean of the Princeton Faculty, Association.

Rockefeller, the third, is frankly interested in politics. He was originally retained by some of the executives of the League of Nations, and was a delegate to the recent meeting of the Institute of Pacific Relations in Japan.

He graduated from Princeton last spring, where he was a member of the Y. M. C. A. and taught English to foreigners.

"Are you for peace against war?" he was asked.

His father interrupted with a smile.

"What a question to ask a Rockefeller!"

Young Rockefeller said that he was not engaged.

CANADA LIQUOR EXPORTS O. K.'D

TORONTO Ont., Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Judges of the Appellate Division of the Ontario Supreme Court made it plain they agree with those legal authorities in Canada who consider the exportation of liquor from the Dominion for the United States to be lawful.

The judges' remarks were made during argument on an appeal from Justice Raney's decision dismissing an action for $18,633 claimed due on a mortgage.

"On what ground did the judge dismiss your action?" Judge Latchford asked counsel for the applicant.

"That there was no security, that the government of Canada had been defrauded of income tax, and that liquor had been imported into the United States," replied counsel.

"Since when did the last become illegal in Canada?" asked Justice Riddell.

"By Mr. Justice Raney it is illegal, but by the First Appellate Court, legal," remarked Justice Masten.

"Let them stop the importation," said Justice Riddell. "That is their business."

PRIEST FREED BY BANDITS

HANKOW, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Released by bandits, the Rev. Ulrich Kreutzen, of Calumet, Mich., has arrived at Tayeh, Hupeh province, and is expected in Hankow tomorrow.

The Franciscan mission in Wuchang, to which Father Kreutzen was attached, received word that he had been released through efforts of a negotiator of the mission, who it is understood paid only "rice and wine" money totaling one thousand Mexican dollars ($500 gold) for Kreutzen's release. The bandits had demanded from $5,000 to $10,000 ransom money, threatening torture and death.

The missionary, who was captured November 11, and held in mountainous country despite efforts of Nationalist government soldiers, was said to be in good health despite his experience.

Heart Attack Kills Morganza Florist

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 3.—Robert C. Gonderman, 67, prominent in Masonic affairs and one of the best-known men in the Chartiers Valley district, is dead in his home. He succumbed to an attack of heart trouble. For many years Gonderman had been the florist in charge at the Pennsylvania Training School at Morganza.

Russian Dance on Mardi-gras, from "Petrouchka" ..... Stravinsky
Nocturne ("My Joys," from Chants Polonais) ..... Chopin-Liszt
La Campanella ..... Liszt

Norman Frauenheim, a gifted Pittsburgh pianist, gave a most unusual program in the Y. M. & W. H. A. auditorium last night. There was a prize for disciples of every school of music; a seldom played sonata of Beethoven, the much neglected "Papillons" of Robert Schumann, an excellent example of Mozart, and works from the moderns to overflowing.

J. Fred Lissfelt.

Since last heard in recital Frauenheim's feeling for the moderns has intensified, and he imbues their music with gorgeous colors. But for his classics he needs a dose of German pedantry, which could hold him more closely to the written score, vitalize his musical conceptions, and define his rhythms. Frauenheim likes to play with detached tones, and often finds a beautiful line or a cluster of chords, but thereby forsakes the more important artistic unity of the larger works as in the Beethoven and the Schumann. His attachment to present day music is largely to blame for these effects, but with his fine technique he could easily remedy such faults.

Of enormous interest was the introduction of Mompou's "Charmes." Whether this Portuguese has gone to the jungle to find these primitive rhythms, or whether they are the makings of his own reason and emotion we are not aware, but certainly they all strike a sympathetic chord in any musical mind, and recall the crude beginnings of music among the medicine men or our own Indians.

The audience was very responsive, and the encores were a brilliant reading of Schumann's "Aufschwung," a gay Portuguese folk tune of Mompou, DeFalla's "Fire Dance," and Debussy's "Jeu de Feu."

J. FRED LISSFELT.

65 PIANOS LOANED FREE

Sixty-five Pianos (Grands, Players and Uprights, both new and used instruments) will be placed in homes of Pittsburgh and vicinity and they may be used until we need them—which will be an indefinite time. We have discontinued eight of our large branch stores, and are placing these instruments in our "Frederick's Annex," located at 915 Liberty Avenue. Instead of storing and holding these pianos for the regular price, we are going to slaughter the prices and take our loss now. If you have ever thought of buying a piano, now is the time. We do not wish to place our instruments in storage and all Pianos not sold outright will be placed in the homes of families who are interested in owning a piano in the immediate future, and for the valuable advertising we will receive by having good families use them. We reserve the right to select the homes in which these pianos are to be placed.

Positively No Charge For Anything

No cartage, no rent or any expense whatever. You must call at the store to make your selection. There are no strings to this offer, which comes but once in a lifetime.

AT CHRISTMAS OF ALL TIMES THE BEST PLACE TO SHOP

CANADIAN AIDS SEAL SALE

Frederic Heath, Canadian government trade commissioner to the United States, speaks tonight in the interest of the Christmas Seal sale now being conducted by the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh. Heath's address will be broadcast by station WCAE at 6:55 p. m.

"Tuberculosis since the beginning of history has stood out as one of the most dreaded of diseases," Dr. C. Howard Marcy, medical director of the league, said in an address broadcast last night by station KQV. "Until about 25 years ago it defied solution. At that time it was exacting a toll of more than 200,000 lives a year in this country alone. Here this number has steadily been reduced to 90,000 per year and at the present time is medical history.

"The success of the anti-tuberculosis movement is due in no small part to the co-operation of the public," Dr. Marcy said. "The hearty acceptance of the Tuberculosis Christmas Seal has made possible a nation-wide organization which includes every state and county, and practically every community in the United States. The sole purpose of this organization is to protect you and your family. Whether you realize it or not, its many activities are in constant operation for your protection."

VALLEY SAVINGS HALF MILLION

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Dec. 3.—Allegheny Valley banks will have released $542,628.90 in this trading district when Christmas savings checks are mailed within the next week to 10,656 club members. The Logan Trust Company will swell that amount by $29,000 to be mailed to 360 insured thrift club members.

Springdale National and Springdale Trust Company have mailed $38,000 to 475 Christmas Club members. Tarentum banks will mail $200,000 to over 5,000 members, while on December 7, New Kensington, Arnold and Parnassus banks will mail $394,628.90 to 7,081 members.

TRAFFIC LIGHT VALUE CITED

[illegible] officials of the Better Traffic committee have advised Council [illegible] the downtown traffic signal [illegible] has proved its value in [illegible] 22 per cent more traffic [illegible] was directed by cornermen [illegible] permitting traffic to move [illegible] per cent faster than under the [illegible] system.

The committee asked Council to take favorable action on a pending ordinance prohibiting taxicabs from cruising and urging the companies to establish a central station to replace isolated ones.

Council also was asked to consider further the proposed elimination of numerous left turns and a recommendation from the committee for the codification of traffic regulations.

Death of Worker Puzzles Officers

STEUBENVILLE, O., Dec. 3.—Whether Michael Mech, 40, structural iron worker found dead on the Steubenville-Mingo boulevard, was the victim of a hit-and-run driver or was killed by robbers, police have been unable to determine. Mech's skull was fractured. He had drawn his pay but a short time before being found but no money was found on his body.

Plan Postoffice For Uhrichsville

UHRICHSVILLE, O., Dec. 3.—A bill to appropriate $85,000 for a postoffice building here was introduced today by Congressman C. B. McClintock, of Canton.

Landlady Saves Pair Overcome By Gas

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 3.—Thomas Flynn, 65, and Edward O. Hacker, 45, both of Uniontown, are in a serious condition in the hospital following a narrow escape from asphyxiation while asleep in a rooming house at Clarksville. The two men had turned up a gas fire in their room and shut the windows.

Their landlady, Mrs. J. A. Virgin, alarmed by their non-appearance for breakfast, found both men unconscious.

Fabricator Looks For Record Orders

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 3.—In an announcement to his trade, a leading fabricator in this district expresses belief that 1930 will produce a larger volume of business, in dollars and cents, in fabricated steel, than ever before. This interest is making its steel commitments accordingly. The company expects to establish new records in 1930 in the sale and distribution of its steel products for building construction, roads and bridges.

WOMAN HURLED FROM CAR, DIES

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 3.—Brutally beaten, then hurled from an automobile and left to die in the snow, Mrs. Nellie Wattins-Church was found on a byroad near here yesterday morning by two truck drivers.

Coroner Daniel Hanley stated his belief that the woman had been attacked by one or more men. Discolorations about the throat and head led to the theory that she had been beaten and strangled.

The body was partially disrobed when found, one shoe and the woman's coat being found some distance from the body. Both knees were badly lacerated as though the victim had been dragged or had crawled over the frozen ground.

Identification was established late Monday afternoon by John Casosky, claiming to be the divorced husband of the woman.

Wheeling Mason, Salesman, Dies

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 3.—Clinton Ruble, 60, past master of Ohio Masonic Lodge No. 1, died at his home. Mr. Ruble was for many years a traveling salesman for the H. J. Heinz Company, Pittsburgh, and the Freedom Oil Company.

Marienville Gets Electric Service

TIONESTA, Pa., Dec. 3.—The electric line has been strung from Lucinda to Marienville, and a dozen electricians are wiring houses there.

Fair Stockholders Approve Land Sale

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 3.—At the annual meeting of stockholders of the New Castle Fair Association, directors were elected, the sale of 100 acres of unused farm land approved and encouraging reports received of efforts being made to pay off the $22,000 indebtedness. The directors re-elected for three years are: A. H. Fullerton, Robert Stoner, James E. Ellis, G. J. Forrest and W. H. Atkinson. To fill vacancies caused by resignations on the board of directors, County Commissioner T. J. McCullough and John Crowl were elected for two years and Thomas McNees for one year.

Christmas at Mellor's
604 Wood St., Pittsburgh, Pa.

The Perfect Gift

For any member of your family . . . or for your family as a group . . . there is only one perfect gift . . . and that is a fine Grand Piano selected at Mellor's, where only instruments of unsurpassable tonal quality and superfine workmanship are displayed.

Only a fine Grand Piano can add to your home a distinction, charm and beauty that no other single article could possibly convey.

Among the world-famous instruments that are exclusively shown at Mellor's, you'll find the Piano that is best suited for your family's gift surprise this Christmas . . . here you can determine your choice of one of the world's finest makes. But instead of waiting until the holiday rush is in full swing, we suggest that you come in now for a demonstration which will not obligate you in the least. For when you listen to the music played on either the Steinway, the Duo-Art Reproducing Piano, the Steck, Vose, Mellor or Chauncey, you will agree with us that the one "Perfect Gift" is a Grand Piano.

And it's really surprising how little money you need to buy one of these fine instruments. Prices range from $495 upwards. Terms as low as ten per cent down payment, balance over two years.

RELIEF FOR STOMACH ILLS

And other health-destroying ailments that have kept thousands of sufferers in misery and despair now seen in modern discovery BLOOD CELL PROTEIN SERUMS. How little we think the stomach controls High Blood Pressure and most all supposedly incurable diseases! Every organ in the body receives its allowance and maintenance from the stomach. Why do we impose on it? Nobody cares much—because it has to take what you give it and say nothing until some future date. You get a message from the kidneys—Bright's Disease, Hardening of the Arteries; a message from the Hear—Myocarditis, with what you call Rheumatism produced by toxins in the blood stream; Stiff Joints and painful Muscles. The Liver always trying to do what the Stomach fails to accomplish. Give up the fight and the patient drifts into Anemia. The time has come to stop drugging and abusing this wonderful organ that can digest all but itself. Don't you believe it is time to give some special thought to these facts and eliminate this stomach drugging, which you know is wrong, neglecting the only cure and effective avenue of medication—the blood stream? BLOOD CELL PROTEIN SERUMS are used universally in the treatment of these supposedly incurable diseases (35,000 given in Pittsburgh past 7 years) and can be had only at the Village Asks State Oust Gas Company

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 3.—(AP.) The village council of New Waterport, Columbiana County, asked the State Utilities Commission to exclude the Cauffield Gas Company, of Johnstown, Pa., from doing business in the village. The council claimed that the company had failed to provide an adequate supply of gas and represented that its contract had been abrogated July 2, 1929.

The council asked the commission to require the company to remove its mains from the village streets so that another company could provide service for the place.

10,000 Rabbits Killed in Centre

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Dec. 3.—If the skins of all the rabbits killed in Centre County during the month's hunting season which just closed had been preserved there would have been enough to wrap up all the cubes which might be born in Centre County during the next three or four years.

Rabbits have been plen. It is estimated that the kill in the county was not less than 10,000.

Traction Line Plans $3,750,000 Program

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 3.—New construction, equipment and other capital items for 1930 by the Pennsylvania-Ohio system in Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio will require approximately $3,750,000, it was stated by C. S. McCalla, vice president and general manager.

New Feature Makes Debut On Radio Tonight

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

"PAINTING THE CLOUDS WITH SUNSHINE" and "Where the Sweet Forget-Me-Nots Remember" will be a part of the Rieck Revellers' program over KDKA at 7:15 tonight when this feature makes its debut.

Sacred Songs, usually heard at 7:15, will go on at 7:30. Homer Rodeheaver's favorite, "In the Garden," will be included.

Nan Halpern

Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey inimitable comedians, who appear in "Rio Rita," will perform on the RKO hour, WCAE at 10:30, as a special courtesy for the management of the Sheridan Square Theater. Nan Halpern, singing comedienne; Peter Higgins, Irish tenor; Margaret Schilling, soprano, and Arthur Lake, motion picture star, may appear on this program.

Ernest Hutcheson, the famous pianist, will be guest of the Eveready Hour, WCAE at 9, matching classical music against Paul Whiteman, who plays on the Old Gold Hour over WJAS at the same hour.

An affaire d'amour will reach its crescendo at 7:45 over WCAE when a romantic young blade proposes to his love. Virginia Harmon and Clarke Moss will play the parts in this popular feature.

NEW WCAE CHRISTMAS

The new 1,000-watt transmitter of WCAE will be on the air before Christmas, it was announced yesterday by Jesse L. Kaufmann, following the signing of contracts for construction work. Work will be started today. The new transmitter will be installed in the Gimbel warehouse on the South Side, taking the place of the 500-watt transmitter now being used.

We Now Present

"We have static electricity in our studios, too," every station in the city hastened to explain yesterday after reading our little ditty on the $5,000 shock one may get free of charge by trotting across the WJAS rug and then touching metal.

Very true. And Louis Kaufman who thought the yarn ordinary, has a kid brother, Ted Kay, who sometimes wears rubber gloves when at work in the KQV studios.

Lou Don Bestor and Mr. Albert, the "maitre dee" at the William Penn, initiated us into the Italian Room Lunch Club yesterday. We enjoyed the initiation, particularly special privilege No. 1 of paying the bill. Well, who knows, maybe the password, "Where's Albert?" may save us embarrassment some night . . . then things will be even.

OH!

Herbert McGee at telephone, "Give me COurt four, oh, oh, oh," meaning of course COurt four thousand.

Once again Cheerio informs us that the birds in his morning program from WEAF are the real thing and not wafer whistles.

KDKA had G5SW, Chelmsford, England, with the 7 o'clock chimes very clearly at 2 p. m., Pittsburgh time, yesterday.

Bill Munday, the "Georgia Drawl," whose voice has described football games through the NBC system this season, has never heard a football game broadcast.

TODAY'S TID BIT:

Chain and local programs broadcast by WBRM run the station approximately $35,000 a week. The studio orchestra of 14 pieces alone averages a cost of $156 per man.

HOOVER'S MESSAGE CALLS FOR QUICK TAX REDUCTION

Urges Congress Tighten Dry Enforcement Legislation

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

The Constitution requires that the President shall from time to time give to the Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient. In compliance with that requirement, I would report that during the past year the United States has continued its onward progress; our people have found additional employment and additional comfort; we have carried further as the savings of our people have permitted the conveniences and comforts of life; we have carried on our government at lower cost per capita; we have maintained the highest standards of honor in our international relations; we have contributed to the advancement of the world in many directions. In Haiti we have established a firm foundation for self-government; we have withdrawn the Marines from Nicaragua, and have left behind us a government which we sincerely hope will be maintained. We have made more progress in the solution of the problems of electric power development than at present exists in any other country. We have carried forward the limitation of armaments by example and by negotiation. We have made considerable progress in the solution of the problems of waterways development. We have carried out our foreign policy in China consistently with the Washington Conference, which we hope also will be ratified.

VETERAN DIPLOMATS

It is my desire to establish more friendly understanding and relationships with the Latin American countries by strengthening the diplomatic missions to those countries. It is my hope to secure men long experienced in our diplomatic service, who speak the languages of the peoples to whom they are accredited, as chiefs of our diplomatic missions in those states. I shall send to the Senate at an early date the nominations of several such men.

The Congress has by numerous wise and foresighted acts in the past few years greatly strengthened the character of our representation abroad. It has made liberal provision for the establishment of suitable quarters for our foreign staffs in the different countries. In order, however, that we may further develop the most effective force in this, one of the most responsible functions of our government, I shall recommend to the Congress more liberal appropriations for the work of the State Department. I know of no expenditure of public money from which a greater economic and moral return can come to us than by assuring the most effective conduct of our foreign relations.

U. S. at Peace
Foreign Relations With Powers Amicable

We are not only at peace with all the world but the foundations for future peace are being substantially strengthened. To promote peace is our long-established policy. Through the Kellogg-Briand pact a great moral standard has been raised in the world. By it 54 nations have covenanted to renounce war and to settle all disputes by pacific means. Through it a new world outlook has been inaugurated which has profoundly affected the foreign policies of nations. Since its ratification we have initiated new efforts not only in the organization of the machinery of peace but also to eliminate dangerous forces which produce controversies amongst nations.

In January, 1926, the Senate gave its consent to adherence to the Court of International Justice with certain reservations. In September of this year the statute establishing the court has, by the action of the nations signatory, been amended to meet the Senate's reservations and to go even beyond those reservations to make clear that the court is a true international court of justice. I believe it will be clear to everyone that no controversy or question in which this country has or claims an interest can be passed on by the court without our consent at the time the question arises. The doubt about advisory opinions has been completely safeguarded. Our adherence to the International Court is, as now constituted, not the slightest step toward entry into the League of Nations. As I have before indicated, I shall direct that our signature be affixed to the protocol of adherence and shall submit it for the approval of the Senate with a special message at some time when it is convenient to deal with it.

Naval Armament
Reduction Negotiations With Britain

In the hope of reducing friction in the world, and with the desire that we may reduce the great economic burdens of naval armament, we have joined in conference with Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, to be held in London in January, to consider the further limitatioin and reduction of naval arms. We hold high hopes that success may attend this effort.

At the beginning of the present administration the neighboring state of Mexico was beset with domestic insurrection. We maintained the embargo upon the shipment of arms to Mexico, but permitted the duly constituted government to procure supplies from our surplus war stocks. Fortunately, the Mexican government, by its own strength, successfully withstood the insurrection with but slight damage. Opportunity of further peaceful development is given to that country. At the request of the Mexican government, we have since lifted the embargo on shipment of arms altogether. The two governments have taken further steps to promote friendly relationships and so solve our differences. Conventions prolonging for a period of two years the life of the general and special claims commissions have been concluded.

In South America we are proud to have had part in the settlement of the long-standing dispute between Chile and Peru in the disposal of the question of Tacna-Arica.

The work of the commission of inquiry and conciliation between Bolivia and Paraguay, in which a representative of this government participated, has successfully terminated an incident which seemed to threaten war. The proposed plan for final settlement as suggested by the neutral governments is still under consideration.

Good Will Government Successful In Latin America

This government has continued its efforts to act as a mediator in boundary difficulties between Guatemala and Honduras.

A further instance of profound importance in establishing good will was the inauguration of regular air mail service between the United States and Caribbean, Central American and South American countries.

We still have marines on foreign soil, in Nicaragua, Haiti and

U. S. Defense
Army and Navy Kept in Efficient State.

To preserve internal order and freedom from encroachment is the first purpose of government. Our Army and Navy are being maintained in a most efficient state under officers of high intelligence and zeal. The extent and expansion of their numbers and equipment as at present authorized are ample for this purpose.

We can well be deeply concerned, however, at the growing expense. From a total expenditure for national defense purposes in 1914 of $267,000,000, it naturally rose with the Great War but receded again to $612,000,000 in 1924, when again it began to rise until during the current fiscal year the expenditures will reach to over $730,000,000, excluding all civilian services of those departments. Programs now authorized will carry it to still larger figures in future years. While the remuneration paid to our soldiers and sailors is justly at a higher rate than that of any other country in the world, and while the cost of subsistence is higher, yet the total of our expenditures is in excess of those of the most highly militarized nations of the world.

Upon the conference shortly to be held in London will depend such moderation as we can make in naval expenditure. If we shall be compelled to undertake the naval construction implied in the Washington arms treaty as well as other construction which would appear to be necessary if no international agreement can be completed, we shall be committed during the next six years to a construction expenditure of upward of $1,200,000,000 besides the necessary further increase in costs for annual upkeep.

Army Expansion
Personnel of Regulars Totals 250,000

After 1914 the various Army contingents necessarily expanded to the end of the great war and then receded to the low point in 1924, when expansion again began. In 1914 the officers and men in our regular forces, both Army and Navy, were about 164,000; in 1924 there were about 256,000, and in 1929 there were about 250,000. Our citizens' army, however, including the National Guard and other forms of reserves, increase these totals up to about 299,000 in 1914, about 672,000 in 1924 and about 728,000 in 1929.

Under the Kellogg pact we have undertaken never to use war as an instrument of national policy. We have, therefore, undertaken by covenant to use these equipments solely for defensive purposes. From a defense point of view our forces should be proportioned to national need and should, therefore, to some extent be modified by the prospects of peace, which were never brighter than today.

It should be borne in mind that the improvement in the National Guard by federal support begun in 1920 has definitely strengthened our national security by rendering them far more effective than ever heretofore. The advance of aviation has also greatly increased our effectiveness in defense. In addition to the very large program of air forces which we are maintaining in the Army and Navy, there has been an enormous growth of commercial aviation. This has provided unanticipated reserves in manufacturing capacity and in indus-

Finances Sound
Public Debt Cut, Annual Budget Reduced

The finances of the government are in a sound condition. I shall not burden this message with detailed evidences and recommendations in the form of a budget message. I may however summarize our position briefly. The public debt on June 30 this year stood at $16,931,000,000, compared to the maximum in August 1919 of $26,596,000,000. Since then it has been reduced by a total of $2,350,000,000. In the budget to be submitted the total appropriations recommended for the fiscal year 1931 are $3,830,445,231 as compared to $3,976,141,651 for the present fiscal year. The present fiscal year, however, includes $150,000,000 for the Federal Farm Board, as to which no estimate can as yet be determined for 1931.

Owing to the many necessary burdens assumed by Congress in previous years which now require large outlays, it is with extreme difficulty that we shall be able to keep the expenditures for the next fiscal year within the bounds of the present year. Economies in many directions have permitted some accommodations of pressing needs, the net result being an increase, as shown above, of about one-tenth of 1 per cent above the present fiscal year. We can not fail to recognize the obligations of the government in support of the public welfare but we must coincidentally bear in mind the burden of taxes and strive to find relief through some tax reduction. Every dollar so returned fertilizes the soil of prosperity.

Tax Reduction
Treasury Surplus Enables Slash in Levies

The estimate submitted to me by the Secretary of the Treasury and the Budget Director indicates that the government will close the fiscal year 1930 with a surplus of about $225,000,000 and the fiscal year 1931 with a surplus of about $123,000,000. Owing to unusual circumstances, it has been extremely difficult to estimate future revenues with accuracy.

I believe, however, that the Congress will be fully justified in giving the benefits of the prospective surpluses to the taxpayers, particularly as ample provision for debt reduction has been made in both years through the form of debt retirement from ordinary revenues. In view of the uncertainty in respect of future revenues and the comparatively small size of the indicated surplus in 1931, relief should take the form of a provisional revision of tax rates.

I recommend that the normal tax rates applicable to the incomes of individuals for the calendar year 1929 be reduced from 5, 3 and 1½ per cent to 4, 2 and ½ per cent, and that the tax on the income of corporations for the calendar year 1929 be reduced from 12 to 11 per cent. It is estimated that this will result in a reduction of $160,000,000 in income taxes to be collected during the calendar year 1930. The loss in revenue will be divided approximately equally between the fiscal years 1930 and 1931. Such a program will give a measure of tax relief to the maximum number of taxpayers, with relatively larger benefits to taxpayers with small or moderate incomes.

Foreign Debts
Year Brings Completion Of Settlements Near

The past year has brought us near to completion of settlements of indebtedness of foreign governments to the United States.

The act of Congress approved February 4, 1929, authorized the settlement with the government of Austria along lines similar to the terms of settlement offered by that government to its other relief creditors. No agreement has yet been concluded with that government, but the form of agreement has been settled and its execution only awaits the government of Austria securing the assent by all the other relief creditors of the terms offered. The act of Congress approved February 14, 1929, authorized the settlement with the government of Greece, and an agreement was concluded on May 10, 1929.

The government of France ratified the agreement with us on July 27, 1929. This agreement will shortly be before the Congress and I recommend its approval.

The only indebtedness of foreign governments to the United States now unsettled is that of Russia and Armenia.

COMMITTEE'S PLAN

During the past year a committee of distinguished experts under American leadership submitted a plan looking to a revision of claims against Germany by the various governments. The United States denied itself any participation in the war settlement of general reparations and our claims are comparatively small in amount. They arise from costs of the army of occupation and claims of our private citizens for losses under awards from the Mixed Claims Commission established under agreement with the German government. In finding a basis for settlement it was necessary for the committee of experts to request all the governments concerned to make some contribution to the adjustment and we have felt that we should share a proportion of the concessions made.

The State and Treasury departments will be in a position shortly to submit for your consideration a draft of an agreement to be executed between the United States and Germany providing for the payments of these revised amounts. A more extensive statement will be submitted at that time.

The total amount of indebtedness of the various countries to the United States now funded is $11,579,465,885. This sum was in effect provided by the issue of United States government bonds to our own people. The payments of the various governments to us on account of principal and interest for 1930 are estimated at a total of about $239,000,000 for 1931 at about $236,000,000, for 1932 at about $246,000,000. The measure of American compromise in these settlements may be appreciated from the fact that our taxpayers are called upon to find annually about $475,000,00 in interest and in addition to redeem the principal of sums borrowed by the United States government for these purposes.

Alien Property
Seized Cash and Goods Being Returned

The wise determination that this property seized in war should be returned to its owner has proceeded with considerable rapidity. Of the original seized cash and property (valued at a total of about $625,000,000), all but $111,566,700 has been returned. Most of the remainder should be disposed of during the next year.

The country has enjoyed a large degree of prosperity and sound progress during the past year with a steady improvement in methods of production and distribution and consequent advancement in standards of living. Progress has, of course, been unequal among industries, and some, such as coal, lumber, leather and textiles, still lag behind. The long upward trend of fundamental progress, however, gave rise to over-optimism as to profits, which translated itself into a wave of uncontrollable speculation in securities, resulting in the diversion of capital from business to the stock market and the inevitable crash. The natural consequences have been a reduction in the consumption of luxuries and semi-necessities by those who have met with losses, and a number of persons thrown temporarily out of employment. Prices of agricultural products dealt in upon the great markets have been affected in sympathy with the stock crash.

Fortunately, the Federal Reserve system had taken measures to strengthen the position against the day when speculation would break, which together with the strong position of the banks has carried the whole credit system through the crisis without impairment. The capital which has been hitherto absorbed in stock-market loans for speculative purposes is now returning to the normal channels of business. There has been no inflation in the prices of commodities; there has been no undue accumulation of goods, and foreign trade has expanded to a magnitude which exerts a steadying influence upon activity in industry and employment.

Business Aid
Prompt Action Taken to Offset Fear

The sudden threat of unemployment and especially the recollection of the economic consequences of previous crashes under a much less secured financial system created unwarranted pessimism and fear. It was recalled that past storms of similar character had resulted in retrenchment of construction, reduction of wages, and laying off of workers. The natural result was the tendency of business agencies throughout the country to pause in their plans and proposals for continuation and extension of their business, and this hesitation unchecked could in itself intensify into a depression with widespread unemployment and suffering.

I have, therefore, instituted systematic, voluntary measures of co-operation with the business institutions and with state and municipal authorities to make certain that fundamental businesses of the country shall continue as usual, that wages and therefore consuming power shall not be reduced, and that a special effort shall be made to expand construction work in order to assist in equalizing other deficits in employment. Due to the enlarged sense of co-operation and responsibility which has grown in the business world during the past few years the response has been remarkable and satisfactory. We have canvassed the Federal government and instituted measures of prudent expansion in such work that should be helpful, and upon which the different departments will make some early recommendations to Congress.

I am convinced that through these measures we have re-established confidence. Wages should remain stable. A very large degree of industrial unemployment and suffering which would otherwise have occurred has been prevented. Agricultural prices have reflected the returning confidence. The measures taken must be vigorously pursued until normal conditions are restored.

Agriculture
Gross Farm Income Shows Situation Better

The agricultural situation is improving. The gross farm income as estimated by the Department of Agriculture for the crop season 1926-27 was $12,100,000,000; for 1927-28 it was $12,300,000,000; for 1928-29 it was $12,500,000,000, and estimated on the basis of prices since the last harvest the value of the 1929-30 crop would be over $12,650,000,000. The slight decline in general commodity prices during the past few years naturally assists the farmers' buying power.

The number of farmer bankruptcies is very materially decreased below previous years. The decline in land values now seems to be arrested and rate of movement from the farm to the city has been reduced. Not all sections of agriculture, of course have fared equally, and some areas have suffered from drought. Responsible farm leaders have assured me that a large measure of confidence is returning to agriculture and that a feeling of optimism pervades that industry.

MARKETING ACT

The most extensive action for strengthening the agricultural industry ever taken by any government was inaugurated through the farm marketing act of June 15 last. Under its provisions the Federal Farm Board has been established, comprised of men long and widely experienced in agriculture and sponsored by the farm organizations of the country. During its short period of existence the board has taken definite steps toward a more efficient organization of agriculture, toward the elimination of waste in marketing, and toward the upbuilding of farmers' marketing organizations on sounder and more efficient lines. Substantial headway has been made in the organization of four of the basic commodities—grain, cotton, livestock and wool. Support by the board to co-operative marketing organizations and other board activities undoubtedly have served to steady the farmers' market during the recent crisis and have operated also as a great stimulus to the co-operative organization of agriculture. The problems of the industry are most complex, and the need for sound organization is imperative. Yet the board is moving rapidly along the lines laid out for it in the act, facilitating the creation by farmers of farmer-owned and farmer-controlled organizations and federating them into central institutions, with a view to increasing the bargaining power of agriculture, preventing and controlling surpluses, and mobilizing the economic power of agriculture.

Tariff Pledge
Called Special Session Of Congress

The special session of Congress was called to expedite the fulfillment of party pledges of agricultural relief and the tariff. The pledge of farm relief has been carried out. At that time I stated the principles upon which I believed action should be taken in respect to the tariff:

"An effective tariff upon agricultural products, that will compensate the farmer's higher costs and higher standards of living, has a dual purpose. Such a tariff not only protects the farmer in our domestic market but it also stimulates him to diversify his crops and to grow products that he could not otherwise produce, and thus lessens his dependence upon exports to foreign markets. The great expansion of production abroad under the conditions I have mentioned renders foreign competition in our export markets increasingly serious. It seems but natural, therefore, that the American farmer, having been greatly handicapped in his foreign market by such competition from the younger expanding countries, should ask that foreign access to our domestic market should be regulated by taking into account the differences in our costs of production. * * *

ECONOMIC SHIFTS

"In considering the tariff for other industries than agriculture, we find that there have been economic shifts necessitating a readjustment of some of the tariff schedules. Seven years of experience under the tariff bill enacted in 1922 have demonstrated the wisdom of Congress in the enactment of that measure. On the whole it has worked well. In the main our wages have been maintained at high levels; our exports and imports have steadily increased; with some exceptions our manufacturing industries have been prosperous. Nevertheless, economic changes have taken place during that time which have placed certain domestic products at a disadvantage and new industries have come into being, all of which create the necessity for some limited changes in the schedules and in the administrative clauses of the laws as written in 1922.

"It would seem to me that the test of necessity for revision is, in the main, whether there has been a substantial slackening of activity in an industry during the past few years, and a consequent decrease of employment due to insurmountable competition in the products of that industry. It is not as if we were setting up a new basis of protective duties. We did that seven years ago. What we need to remedy now is whatever substantial loss of employment may have resulted from shifts since that time. * * *

"In determining changes in our tariff we must not fail to take into account the broad interests of the country as a whole, and such interests include our trade relations with other countries."

Views Stand
No Condition Arises to Change Principles

No condition has arisen in my view to change these principles stated at the opening of the special session. I am firmly of the opinion that their application to the pending revision will give the country the kind of a tariff law it both needs and wants. It would be most helpful if action should be taken at an early moment, more especially at a time when business and agriculture are both co-operating to minimize future uncertainties. It is just that they should know what the rates are to be.

Even a limited revision requires the consideration and readjustment of many items. The exhaustive inquiries and valuable debate from men representative of all parts of the country which is needed to determine the detailed rates must necessarily be accomplished in the Congress. However perfectly this rate structure may be framed at any given time, the shifting of economic forces which inevitably occurs will render changes in some items desirable between the necessarily long intervals of congressional revision. Injustices are bound to develop, such as were experienced by the dairymen, the flaxseed producers, the glass industry, and others, under 1922 rates. For this reason, I have been most anxious that the broad principle of the flexible tariff as provided in the existing law should be preserved and its delays in action avoided by more expeditious methods of determining the costs of production at home and abroad, with executive authority to promulgate such changes upon recommendation of the Tariff Commission after exhaustive investigation. Changes by the Congress in the isolated items such as those to which I have referred would have been most unlikely both because of the concentrations of oppositions in the country, who could see no advantage to their own industry or state, and because of the difficulty of limiting consideration by the Congress to such isolated cases.

NO CONFLICT

There is no fundamental conflict between the interests of the farmer and the worker. Lowering of the standards of living of either tends to destroy the other. The prosperity of one rests upon the well-being of the other. Nor is there any real conflict between the East and the West or the North and the South in the United States. The complete interlocking of economic dependence, the common striving for social and spiritual progress, our common heritage as Americans, and the infinite web of national sentiment, have created a solidarity in a great people unparalleled in all human history. These invisible bonds should not and can not be shattered by differences of opinion growing out of discussion of a tariff.

Buildings
$300,000,000 Authorized For Projects

Under the provisions of various acts of Congress $300,000,000 has been authorized for public buildings and the land upon which to construct them, being $75,000,000 $225,000,000 for the country at large. Excluding $25,000,000 which is for the acquisition of land in the so-called "triangle" in this city, this public building legislation provides for a five-year program for the District of Columbia and between an eight and nine year program for the country at large. Of this sum approximately $27,400,000 was expended up to June 30 last, of which $11,400,000 has been expended in the District and $16,000,000 outside.

Even this generous provision for both the District of Columbia and the country is insufficient for most pressing governmental needs. Expensive rents and inadequate facilities are extravagance and not economy. In the District even after the completion of these projects we shall have fully 20,000 clerks housed in rented and temporary war buildings which can last but a little longer.

I therefore recommend that consideration should be given to the extension of authorizations both for the country at large and for the District of Columbia again distributed over a term of years. A survey of the need in both categories has been made by the Secretary of the Treasury and the Postmaster General. It would be helpful in the present economic situation if such steps were taken as would enable early construction work.

An expedition and enlargement of the program in the district would bring about direct economies in construction by enabling the erection of buildings in regular sequence. By maintaining a stable labor force in the city, contracts can be made on more advantageous terms.

The earlier completion of this program which is an acknowledged need would add dignity to the celebration in 1932 of the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of President Washington.

In consideration of these projects which contribute so much to dignify the national capital I should like to renew the suggestion that the Fine Arts Commission should be required to pass upon private buildings which are proposed for sites facing upon public buildings and parks. Without such control much of the effort of the Congress in beautification of the capital will be minimized.

Waterways
Ohio Canalization Spurs Development

The development of inland waterways has received new impulse from the completion during this year of the canalization of the Ohio to a uniform 9-foot depth. The development of the other segments of the Mississippi system should be expedited and with this in view I am recommending an increase in appropriations for rivers and harbors from $50,000,000 to $55,000,000 per annum, which, together with about $4,000,000 per annum released by completion of the Ohio, should make available after providing for other river and harbor works a sum of from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 per annum for the Mississippi system and thus bring it to early completion.

Conflict of opinion, which has arisen over the proposed floodway from the Arkansas River to the Gulf of Mexico via the Atchafalaya River has led me to withhold construction upon this portion of the Mississippi flood control plan until it could be again reviewed by the engineers for any further recommendation to Congress. The other portions of the project are being vigorously prosecuted and I have recommended an increase in appropriations for this from $30,000,000 of the present year to $35,000,000 during the next fiscal year.

Expansion of our intracoastal waterways to effective barge depths is well warranted. We are awaiting the action of Canada upon the St. Lawrence waterway project.

Highways
Increased Federal Aid Recommended

There are over 3,000,000 miles of legally established highways in the United States, of which about 10 per cent are included in the state highway systems, the remainder being county and other local roads. About 626,009 miles have been improved with some type of surfacing, comprising some 63 per cent of the state highway systems and 16 per cent of the local roads. Of the improved roads about 102,000 miles are hard surfaced, comprising about 22 per cent of the state highway systems and about 8 per cent of the local roads.

While proper planning should materially reduce the listed mileage of public roads, particularly in the agricultural districts, and turn these roads back to useful purposes, it is evident that road construction must be a long-continued program. Progress in improvement is about 50,000 miles of all types per annum, of which some 12,000 miles are of the more durable types. The total expenditures of Federal, state and local governments last year for construction and maintenance assumed the huge total of $1,660,000,000.

Federal aid in the construction of the highway systems in conjunction with the states has proved to be beneficial and stimulating. We must ultimately give consideration to the increase of our contribution to these systems, particularly with a view to stimulating the improvement of farm-to-market roads.

President Also Stresses Need for Speedy Tariff Action

Postoffice
Annual Deficit Mounts Above $80,000,000

Our Postoffice deficit has now increased to over $80,000,000 a year, of which perhaps $14,000,000 is due to losses on ocean mail and air mail contracts. The department is making an exhaustive study of the sources of the deficit with view to later recommendation to Congress in respect to it.

The Postoffice quarters are provided in part by the federal construction, in part by various forms of rent and lease arrangements. The practice has grown up in recent years of contracting long term leases under which both rent and amortization principal cost of buildings is included. I am advised that fully 40 per cent could be saved from many such rent and lease agreements even after allowing interest on the capital required at the normal government rate. There are also many objectionable features to some of these practices. The provision of adequate quarters for the Postoffice should be put on a sound basis.

A revision of air mail rates upon a more systematic and permanent footing is necessary. The subject is under study, and if legislation should prove necessary the subject will be presented to the Congress. In the meantime I recommend that the Congress should consider the desirability of authorizing further expansion of the South American services.

Aviation
Daily Air Trasportation 90,000 Miles

During the past year progress in civil aeronautics has been remarkable. This is to a considerable degree due to the wise assistance of the federal government through the establishment and maintenance of airways by the Department of Commerce and the mail contracts from the Postoffice Department. The government-improved airways now exceed 25,000 miles—more than 14,000 miles of which will be lighted and equipped for night-flying operations by the close of the current year. Airport construction through all the states is extremely active. There are now 1,000 commercial and municipal airports in operation with an additional 1,200 proposed for early development.

Through this assistance the nation is building a sound aviation system, operated by private enterprises. Over 6,400 planes are in commercial use, and 9,400 pilots are licensed by the government. Our manufacturing capacity has risen to 7,500 planes per annum. The aviation companies have increased regular air transportation until it now totals 90,000 miles per day—one-fourth of which is flown by night. Mail and express services now connect our principal cities, and extensive services for passenger transportation have been inaugurated, and others of importance are imminent. American air lines now reach into Canada and Mexico, to Cuba, Porto Rico, Central America, and most of the important countries of South America.

Railways
Freight Traffic Volume Sets Record

As a whole, the railroads never were in such good physical and financial condition, and the country has never been so well served by them. The greatest volume of freight traffic ever tendered is being carried at a speed never before attained and with satisfaction to the shippers. Efficiencies and new methods have resulted in reduction in the cost of providing freight transportation, and freight rates show a continuous descending line from the level enforced by the World War.

We have, however, not yet assured for the future that adequate system of transportation through consolidations which was the objective of the Congress in the transportation act. The chief purpose of consolidation is to secure well-balanced systems with more uniform and satisfactory rate structure, a more stable financial structure, more equitable distribution of traffic, greater efficiency, and single-line instead of multiple-line hauls. In this way the country will have the assurance of better service and ultimately at lower and more even rates than would otherwise be attained. Legislation to simplify and expedite consolidation methods and better to protect public interest should be enacted.

Consideration should also be given to relief of the members of the commission from the necessity of detailed attention to comparatively inconsequential matters which, under the existing law, must receive their direct and personal consideration. It is in the public interest that the members of the commission should not be so pressed by minor matters that they have inadequate time for investigation and consideration of the larger questions committed to them for solution.

As to many of these minor matters, the function of the commission might well be made revisory, and the primary responsibility delegated to subordinate officials after the practice long in vogue in the executive departments.

Outstanding Points In Hoover's Message

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Here are some outstanding passages in President Hoover's annual message to Congress:

WE ARE not only at peace with all the world, but the foundations for future peace are being substantially strengthened.

THE test of the rightfulness of our decisions is whether we have sustained and advanced the ideals of the American people.

WE NEED to re-establish faith that the highest interests of our country are served by insistence upon swift and even-handed administration of justice to all offenders, whether rich or poor.

THE first duty of the President under his oath is to secure the enforcement of the laws.

OUR laws are made by the people themselves; theirs is the right to work for their repeal; but until repeal it is an equal duty to observe them and demand their enforcement.

WE STILL have Marines on foreign soil. In a large sense we do not wish to be represented abroad in such manner.

TO PRESERVE internal order and freedom from encroachment is the first purpose of government.

WE CANNOT fail to recognize the obligations of the government in support of public welfare, but we must coincidentally bear in mind the burden of taxes and strive to find relief through some tax reduction.

THERE is no fundamental conflict between the interests of the farmer and the worker. Nor is there any real conflict between the East and the West or the North and the South.

I DO not favor the operation by the government of either power or manufacturing business except as an unavoidable by-product of some other major public purpose.

'ENFORCEMENT FAR FROM SATISFACTORY'--PRESIDENT

Would Shift Detection To Department Of Justice

18 Lines Now Operated By Board

Under the impulse of the merchant marine act of 1928 the transfer to private enterprise of the government-owned steamship lines is going forward with increasing success. The Shipping Board now operates about 18 lines, which is less than half the number originally established, and the estimate of expenditures for the coming fiscal year is based upon reduction in losses on government lines by approximately one-half. Construction loans have been made to the amount of approximately $75,000,000 out of the revolving fund authorized by Congress and have furnished an additional aid to American shipping and further stimulated the building of vessels in American yards.

Desirous of securing the full values to the nation of the great effort to develop our merchant marine by the merchant marine act soon after the inauguration of the present administration I appointed an interdepartmental committee, consisting of the Secretary of Commerce, as chairman, the Secretary of the Navy, the Postmaster General, and the chairman of the Shipping Board, to make a survey of the policies being pursued under the act of 1928 in respect of mail contracts; to inquire into its workings and to advise the Postmaster General in the administration of the act.

In particular it seemed to me necessary to determine if the result of the contracts already let would assure the purpose expressed in the act, "to further develop an American merchant marine, to assure its permanence in the transportation of the foreign trade of the United States, and for other purposes," and to develop a co-ordinated policy by which these purposes may be translated into actualities.

Mail Awards
Government Contracts Over $12,000,000

In review of the mail contracts already awarded it was found that they aggregated 25 separate awards imposing a governmental obligation of a little over $12,000,000 per annum. Provision had been imposed in five of the contracts for construction of new vessels with which to replace and expand services. These requirements come to a total of 12 vessels in the 10-year period, aggregating 122,000 tons. Some other conditions in the contracts had not worked out satisfactorily.

That study has now been substantially completed and the committee has advised the desirability and the necessity of securing much larger undertakings as to service and new construction in future contracts. The committee at this time is recommending the advertising of 14 additional routes, making substantial requirements for the construction of new vessels during the life of each contract recommended. A total of 40 new vessels will be required under the contracts proposed, about half of which will be required to be built during the next three years. The capital cost of this new construction will be approximately $250,000,000, involving approximately 460,000 gross tons. Should bidders be found who will make these undertakings, it will be necessary to recommend to Congress an increase in the authorized expenditure by the postoffice of about $5,500,000 annually. It will be most advantageous to grant such an authority.

A conflict as to the administration of the act has arisen in the contention of persons who have purchased Shipping Board vessels that they are entitled to mail contracts irrespective of whether they are the lowest bidder, the postoffice, on the other hand, being required by law to let contracts in that manner. It is urgent that Congress should clarify this situation.

Bank System
Revision of Law Urged Upon Congress

It is desirable that Congress should consider the revision of some portions of the banking law.

The development of "group" and "chain" banking presents many new problems. The question naturally arises as to whether if allowed to expand without restraint these methods would dangerously concentrate control of credit, and wether they would not in any event seriously threaten one of the fundamentals of the American credit system—which is that credit which is based upon banking deposits should be controlled by persons within those areas which furnish these deposits and thus be subject to the restraints of local interest and public opinion in those areas. To some degree, however, this movement of chain or group banking is a groping for stronger support to the banks and a more secure basis for these institutions.

The growth in size and stability of the metropolitan banks is in marked contrast to the trend in the country districts, with its many failures and the losses these failuers have imposed upon the agricultural community.

The relinquishment of charters of national banks in great commercial centers in favor of state charters indicates that some conditions surround the national banks which render them unable to compete with state banks; and their withdrawal results in weakening the national banking system.

It has been proposed that permission should be granted to national banks to engage in branch banking of a nature that would preserve within limited regions the local responsibility and the control of such credit institutions.

All these subjects, however, require careful investigation, and it might be found advantageous to create a joint commission embracing members of the Congress and other appropriate Federal officials for subsequent report.

Electric Power
Recommends Extension Of Regulation

The Federal Power Commission is now comprised of three cabinet officers, and the duties involved in the competent conduct of the growing responsibilities of this commission far exceed the time and attention which these officials can properly afford from other important duties. I recommend that authority be given for the appointment of full-time commissioners to replace them.

It is also desirable that the authority of the commission should be extended to certain phases of power regulation. The nature of the electric utilities industry is such that about 90 per cent of all power generation and distribution is intrastate in character, and most of the states have developed their own regulatory systems as to certificates of convenience, rates, and profits of such utilities. To encroach upon their authorities and responsibilities would be an encroachment upon the rights of the states. There are cases, however, of interstate character beyond the jurisdiction of the states. To meet these cases it would be most desirable if a method could be worked out by which initial action may be taken between the commissions of the states whose joint action should be made effective by the Federal Power Commission with a reserve to act on its own motion in case of disagreement or nonaction by the states.

Radio Control
Zone Appointments Should Be Abolished

I recommend the reorganization of the Radio Commission into a permanent body from its present temporary status. The requirement of the present law that the commissioners shall be appointed from specified zones should be abolished and a general provision made for their equitable selection from different parts of the country. Despite the effort of the commissioners, the present method develops a public insistence that the commissioners are specially charged with supervision of radio affairs in the zone from which each is appointed. As a result there is danger that the system will degenerate from a national system into five regional agencies with varying practices, varying policies, competitive tendencies, and consequent failure to attain its utmost capacity for service to the people as a whole.

Muscle Shoals
Government Operation Nat Favored.

It is most desirable that this question should be disposed of. Under present conditions the income from these plants is less than could otherwise be secured for its use, and more especially the public is not securing the full benefits which could be obtained from them.

It is my belief that such parts of these plants as would be useful and the revenues from the remainder should be dedicated for all time to the farmers of the United States for investigation and experimentation on a commercial scale in agricultural chemistry. By such means advancing discoveries of science can be systematically applied to agricultural need, and development of the chemical industry of the Tennessee Valley can be assured.

I do not favor the operation by the government of either power or manufacturing business except as an unavoidable by-product of some other major public purpose.

Any form of settlement of this question will imply entering upon a contract or contracts for the lease of the plants either as a whole or in parts and the reservation of facilities, products or income for agricultural purposes. The extremely technical and involved nature of such contracts dealing with chemical and electrical enterprises, added to the unusual difficulties surrounding these special plants, and the rapid commercial changes now in progress in power and synthetic nitrogen manufacturer, lead me to suggest that Congress create a special commission, not to investigate and report as in the past, but with authority to negotiate and complete some sort of contract or contracts on behalf of the government, subject, of course, to such general requirements as Congress may stipulate.

Boulder Dam
Satisfactory Progress On Contracts Made

The Secretary of the Interior is making satisfactory progress in negotiation of the very complex contracts required for the sale of the power to be generated at this project. These contracts must assure the return of all government outlays upon the project. I recommend that the necessary funds be appropriated for the initiation of this work as soon as the contracts are in the hands of Congress.

Conservation of national resources is a fixed policy of the government. Three important questions bearing upon conservation of the public lands have become urgent.

Conservation of our oil and gas resources against future need is a national necessity. The working of the oil permit system in development of oil and gas resources on the public domain has been subject to great abuse. I considered it necessary to suspend the issuance of such permits and to direct the review of all outstanding permits as to compliance of the holders with the law. The purpose was not only to end such abuse, but to place the government in position to review the entire subject.

CONSERVATION PROBLEM

We are also confronted with a major problem in conservation due to the overgrazing on public lands. The effect of overgrazing (which has now become general) is not only to destroy the ranges but by impairing the ground coverage seriously to menace the water supply in many parts of the West through quick run-off, spring floods and autumn drought.

We have a third problem of major dimensions in the reconsideration of our reclamation policy. The inclusion of most of the available lands of the public domain in existing or planned reclamation projects largely completes the original purpose of the Reclamation Service. There still remains the necessity for extensive storage of water in the arid states which renders it desirable that we should give a wider vision and purpose to this service.

To provide for careful consideration of these questions and also of better division of responsibilities in them as between the state and Federal governments, including the possible transfer to the states for school purposes of the lands unreserved for forests, parks, power, minerals etc., I have appointed a Commission on Conservation of the Public Domain with a membership representing the major public land states, and at the same time the public at large. I recommend that Congress should authorize a moderate sum to defray their expenses.

Social Service
Government Gives Out Information

The Federal Government provides for an extensive and valuable program of constructive social service, in education, home building, protection to women and children, employment, public health, recreation, and many other directions.

In a broad sense Federal activity in these directions has been confined to research and dissemination of information and experience, and at most to temporary subsidies to the states in order to secure uniform advancement in practice and methods. Any other attitude by the federal government will undermine one of the most precious possessions of the American people; that is, local and individual responsibility. We should adhere to this policy.

Federal officials can, however, make a further and most important contribution by leadership in stimulation of the community and voluntary agencies, and by extending Federal assistance in organization of these forces and bringing about co-operation among them.

As an instance of this character, I have recently, in co-operation with the Secretaries of Interior and Labor, laid the foundations of an exhaustive inquiry into the facts precedent to a nation-wide White House conference on child health and protection. This co-operation movement among interested agencies will impose no expense upon the government. Similar nation-wide conferences will be called in connection with better housing and recreation at a later date.

COMMITTEE NAMED

In view of the considerable difference of opinion as to the policies which should be pursued by the federal government with respect to education, I have appointed a committee representative of the important educational associations and others to investigate and present recommendations. In co-operation with the Secretary of the Interior, I have also appointed a voluntary committee of distinguished membership to assist in a nation-wide movement for abolition of illiteracy.

I have recommended additional appropriations for the Federal employment service in order that it may more fully cover its co-operative work with state and local services. I have also recommended additional appropriations for the Women's and Children's Bureaus for much-needed research as to facts which I feel will prove most helpful.

Public Health
Co-operation With States Recommended

The advance in scientific discovery as to disease and health imposes new considerations upon us. The nation as a whole is vitally interested in the health of all the people; in protection from spread of contagious disease; in the relation of physical and mental disabilities to criminality, and in the economic and moral advancement which is fundamentally associated with sound body and mind. The organization of preventive measures and health education in its personal application is the province of public health service. Such organization should be as universal as public education. Its support is a proper burden upon the taxpayer. It cannot be organized with success, either in its sanitary or educational phases, except under public authority. It should be based upon local and state responsibility, but I consider that the Federal Government has an obligation of contribution to the establishment of such agencies.

COMPETENT UNITS

In the practical working out of organization, exhaustive experiment and trial have demonstrated that the base should be competent organization of the municipality, county or other local unit. Most of our municipalities and some 400 rural counties out of 3,000 now heve some such unit organization. Where highly developed, a health unit comprises at least a physician, sanitary engineer, and community nurse, with the addition in some cases, of another nurse devoted to the problems of maternity and children. Such organization gives at once a fundamental control of preventive measures and assists in community instruction. The Federal Government, through its interest in control of contagion, acting through the United States Public Health service and the state agencies, is in the part and should in the future concern itself with the development particularly in the many rural districts which are unfortunately far behind in progress. Some parts of the funds controlled under the Sheppard-Towner Act through the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor have also found their way into these channels.

I recommend to the Congress that the purpose of the Sheppard-Towner Act should be continued through the Children's Bureau for a limited period of years, and that the Congress should consider the desirability of continuing the use of federal funds by the states to the building up of such county or other local units, and that such outlay should be positively co-ordinated with the funds expended through the United States Public Health Service directed to other phases of the same county or other local unit organization. All funds appropriated should, of course, be applied through the states, so that the public health program of the county or local unit will be efficiently co-ordinated with that of the whole state.

U. S. Prisons
Penal Institutions Are Overcrowded

Closely related to crime conditions is the administration of the Federal prison system. Our Federal penal institutions are overcrowded, and this condition is daily becoming worse. The parole and probation systems are inadequate. These conditions make it impossible to perform the work of personal reconstruction of prisoners so as to prepare them for return to the duties of citizenship. In order to relieve the pressing evils I have directed the temporary transfer of the Army Disciplinary Barracks at Leavenworth to the Department of Justice for use as a Federal prison. Not only is this temporary but it is inadequate for present needs.

We need some new Federal prisons and a reorganization of our probation and parole systems; and there should be established in the Department of Justice a Bureau of Prisons with a sufficient force to deal adequately with the growing activities of our prison institutions. Authorization for the improvements should be given speedily with initial appropriations to allow the construction of the new institutions to be undertaken at once.

Immigration
Calls Restriction Sound National Policy

Restriction of immigration has proved a sound national policy. Our pressing problem is to formulate a method by which the limited number of immigrants whom we do welcome shall be adapted to our national needs.

I have been opposed to the basis of quotas now in force and I have hoped that we could find some practical method to secure what I believe should be our real national objective, that is, fitness of the immigrant as to physique, character, training and our need of service. Perhaps some system of priorities within the quotas could produce these results and at the same time enable some hardships in the present system to be cleared up. I recommend that the Congress should give the subject further study in which the executive departments will gladly cooperate with the hope of discovering such method as will more fully secure our national necessities.

Veterans
Government Will Care For Disabled

It has been the policy of our Government almost from its inception to make provision for the men who have been disabled in defense of our country. This policy should be sustained. Originally it took the form of land grants and pensions. This system continued until our entry into the World War. The Congress at that time inaugurated a new plan of compensation, rehabilitation, hospitalization, medical care and treatment, and insurance, whereby benefits were awarded to those veterans and their immediate dependents whose disabilities were attributable to their war service. The basic principle in this legislation is sound.

In a desire to eliminate all possibilities of injustice due to difficulties in establishing service connection of disabilities, these principles have been to some degree extended. Veterans whose diseases or injuries have become apparent within a brief period after the war are now receiving compensation insurance benefits have been liberalized. Emergency officers are now receiving additional benefits. The doors of the Government's hospitals have been opened to all veterans, even though their diseases or injuries were not the result of their war service. In addition adjusted service certificates have been issued to 3,433,300 veterans. This in itself will mean an expenditure of nearly $3,500,000,000 before 1945, in addition to the $600,000,000 which we are now appropriating annually for our veterans' relief.

GENEROUS DEALING

The administration of all laws concerning the veterans and their dependents has been upon the basis of dealing generously, humanely and justly. While some inequalities have arisen, substantial and adequate care has been given and justice administered. Further improvement in administration may require some amendment from time to time to the law, but care should be taken to see that such changes conform to the basic principles of the legislation.

I am convinced that we will gain in efficiency, economy and more uniform administration and better definition of national policies if the Pension Bureau, the National Home for Volunteer Soldiers and the Veterans Bureau are brought together under a single agency. The total appropriations to these agencies now exceed $800,000,000 per annum.

CIVIL SERVICE

Approximately four-fifths of all the employes in the executive civil service now occupy positions subject to competitive examination under the civil service law.

There are, however, still commanding opportunities for extending the system. These opportunities lie within the province of Congress and not the President. I recommend that a further step be taken by authorization that appointments of third-class postmasters be made under the civil service law.

Reorganization
Government Departments Must Be Shifted

The subject has been discussed for [illegible] years. It is [illegible] society by both political parties. It has [illegible] executive departments and bureaus and commissions. It has [illegible] executive and administrative [illegible] the executive of the civil [illegible] have been made [illegible] necessity of some administration [illegible] economical policies and of relief to the citizen from oppressive harassment in its relations with a multitude of scattered governmental agencies. But the presentation of any specific plan often enlarges opposition from every official whose authority may be curtailed or who fears his position is imperiled by such a result of bureaus and departments which wish to maintain their authority and activities, of citizens and their organizations who are solely interested, or who are inspired by fear that their favorite bureau may in a new setting be less subject to their influence or more subject to some other influence.

TWO PRINCIPLES

It seems to me that the essential principles of organization are two in number. First, administrative activities of the same major purpose should be placed in groups under single-headed responsibility; second, all executive and administrative functions should be separated from boards and commissions and placed under individual responsibility, while quasi-legislative and quasi-judicial and broadly advisory functions should be removed from individual authority and assigned to boards and commissions. Indeed, these are the fundamental principles upon which our government was founded, and they are the principles which have been adhered to in the whole development of our business structure, and they are the distillation of the common sense of generations.

OVERLAPPING DUTIES

For instance, the conservation of natural resources is spread among eight agencies, in five departments. They suffer from conflict and overlap. There is no proper development and adherence to broad national policies and no central point where the searchlight of public opinion may concentrate itself. These functions should be grouped under the direction of some such official as an assistant secretary of conservation. The particular department or cabinet officer under which such a group should be placed is of secondary importance to the need of centralization. The same may be said of educational services, of merchant marine aids, of public works of public health, of veterans' services, and many others, the component parts of which are widely scattered in the va-

Prohibition
Enforcement Far from Satisfactory

The first duty of the President under his oath of office is to secure the enforcement of the laws. The enforcement of the laws enacted to give effect to the eighteenth amendment is far from satisfactory and this is in part due to the inadequate organization of the administrative agencies of the federal government. With the hope of expediting such reorganization, I requested on June 6 last that Congress should appoint a joint committee to collaborate with executive agencies in preparation of legislation. It would be helpful if it could be so appointed. The subject has been earnestly considered by the Law Enforcement Commission and the administrative officials of the government. Our joint conclusions are that certain steps should be taken at once. First, there should be an immediate concentration of responsibility and strengthening of enforcement agencies of the federal government by transfer to the Department of Justice of the federal functions of detection and to a considerable degree of prosecution, which are now lodged in the Prohibition Bureau in the Treasury. Second, provision should be made for relief of congestion in the federal courts by modifying and simplifyig the procedure for dealing with the large volume of petty prosecutions under various federal acts. Third, there should be a codification of the laws relating to prohibition to avoid the necessity which now exists of resorting to more than 25 statutes enacted at various times over 40 years. Technical defects in these statutes that have been disclosed should be cured. I would add to these recommendations the desirability of reorganizing the various services engaged in the prevention of smuggling into one border patrol under the coast guard. Further recommendations upon the subject as a whole will be developed after further examination by the Law Enforcement Commission, but it is not to be expected that any criminal law will ever be fully enforced so long as criminals exist.

'CAPITAL MODEL'

The District of Columbia should be the model of city law enforcement in the nation. While conditions here are much better than in many other cities, they are far from perfect, and this is due in part to the congestion of criminal cases in the Supreme Court of the District, resulting in long delays. Furthermore, there is need for legislation in the District supplementing the national prohibition act, more sharply defining and enlarging the duties and powers of the District commissioners and the police of the District, and opening the way for better cooperation in the enforcement of prohibition between the District officials and the prohibition officers of the federal government. It is urgent that these conditions be remedied.

Law Observance
Even-Handed Justice for Rich and Poor

No one will look with satisfaction upon the volume of crime of all kinds and the growth of organized crime in our country. We have pressing need so to organize our system of administering criminal justice as to establish full vigor and effectiveness. We need to re-establish faith that the highest interests of our country are served by insistence upon the swift and even-handed administration of justice to all offenders, whether they be rich or poor. That we shall effect improvement is vital to the preservation of our institutions. It is the most serious issue before our people.

Under the authority of Congress I have appointed a National Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement, for an exhaustive study of the entire problem of the enforcement of our laws and the improvement of our judicial system, including the special problems and abuses growing out of the prohibition laws. The commission has been invited to make the widest inquiry into the shortcomings of the administration of justice and into the causes and remedies for them. It has organized its work under subcommittees dealing with the many contributory causes of our situation and has enlisted the aid of investigators in fields requiring special consideration. I am confident that as a result of its studies now being carried forward it will make a notable contribution to the solution of our pressing problems.

WEED OUT INEFFICIENCY

Pending further legislation, the Department of Justice has been striving to weed out inefficiency wherever it exists, to stimulate activity on the part of its prosecuting officers, and to use increasing care in examining into the qualifications of those appointed to serve as prosecutors. The department is seeking systematically to strengthen the law enforcement activities week by week not by spectacular displays but by [illegible] pressure, by removal of [illegible] officials and by encouragement to the vigilant. During the course of these efforts [illegible] that in some districts [illegible] to the [illegible] of criminal dockets, [illegible] to delays and inefficiency in prosecutions have been lack of sufficient forces in the offices of United States attorneys, clerks of courts and marshals. These conditions tend to clog the machinery of justice. The last conference of senior circuit judges has taken note of them and indorsed the department's pending requests for improvement. Increases in appropriations are necessary and will be asked [illegible] in order to reinforce these offices.

Public Support
Good Citizenship Basis Of Order

The orderly administration of the law involves more than the mere machinery of law enforcement. The efficient use of that machinery and a spirit in our people in support of law are alike essential. We have need for improvement in both. However much we may perfect the mechanism, still if the citizen who is himself dependent upon some laws for the protection of all that he has and all that he holds dear, shall insist on selecting the particular laws which he will obey, he undermines his own safety and that of his country. His attitude may obscure, but it cannot conceal, the ugly truth that the lawbreaker, whoever he may be, is the enemy of society. We can no longer gloss over the unpleasant reality which should be made vital in the consciousness of every citizen, that he who condones or traffics with crime, who is indifferent to it and to the punishment of the criminal, or to the lax performance of official duty, is himself the most effective agency for the breakdown of society.

LAW AND CITIZENSHIP

Law cannot rise above its source in good citizenship—in what right-minded men most earnestly believe and desire. If the law is upheld only by government officials, then all law is at an end. Our laws are made by the people themselves; theirs is the right to work for their repeal; but until repeal it is an equal duty to observe them and demand their enforcement.

I have been gratified at the awakening sense of this responsibility in our citizens during the past few months, and gratified that many instances have occurred which refuted the cynicism which has asserted that our system could not convict those who had defied the law and possessed the means to resist its execution. These things reveal a moral awakening both in the people and in officials which lies at the very foundation of the rule of law.

The test of the rightfulness of our decisions must be whether we have sustained and advanced the ideals of the American people; self-government in its foundations of local government; justice whether to the individual or to the group; ordered liberty; freedom from domination; open opportunity and equality of opportunity; the initiative and individuality of our people; prosperity and the lessening of poverty; freedom of public opinion; education; advancement of knowledge; the growth of religious spirit; the tolerance of all faiths; the foundations of the home and the advancement of peace.

Flint Vote Approves City Manager, Board

FLINT, Mich., Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Approval of a new city charter providing for the commission-manager form of government was given by electors of Flint Monday. The vote was 5,171 to 3,824. Under the new charter a commission of nine members will be elected by the city at large, ward boundaries being wiped out. The commissioners will choose a mayor and a mayor pro tem.

2 OUTSTANDING Overnight Trains

Theater Guild Delights With Shaw's 'Pygmalion' Acted by a Perfect Cast

By GEORGE SEIBEL

BERNARD SHAW at his most amusing and the Theater Guild at their most exhilarating is what the large and fashionable audience at the Nixon encountered last night when "Pygmalion" was produced. This is the play in which Shaw, who must always be didactic, professes to be trying to teach the English people how to speak English.

George Seibel

Probably the most difficult task he ever undertook, as it is something they have been trying to learn since the time of Chaucer. But what of that—he succeeds in teaching his audience a vast number of things, he pokes fun at middle class morality and at upper class manners, and in the end leaves everybody wondering what the end is.

Shaw himself, knew that the play was not over, and wrote a sequel which the curious may read.

But we are not concerned with that. After the long argument between Eliza and Professor Higgins at the close of the fifth act, the audience is quite willing to accept any temporary solution. No ♦ that the argument isn't as interesting as Shaw can make it, and the entertainment—but the audience is already [illegible] that Eliza will be too late for her father's wedding and that they themselves will be too late for the theater train.

No Other Could

It may be doubted whether any other playwright, dead or living, could make so much out of mere talk as Bernard Shaw. He is humorous, whimsical, witty and satirical, and anybody else would seem long-winded.

Shaw is the most agreeable of bores and the wisest of clowns.

Fun Film

Lili Dorsay supports Will Rogers in "They Had to See Paris," comedy film showing on the screen of the Aldine.

OIL GUSHES, ROGERS SEES GAY PAREE IN ALDINE

By Clarence E. Grundish

Will Rogers, cowboy comic, gets a lot of wisecracks and some plain philosophy out of his system down in the Aldine this week. The occasion is the presentation of his all-talk picture, "They Had to See Paris." The story—as a movie—isn't much to get excited over. But with Rogers in prominence it does create a fair amount of entertainment and a larger amount of laughter.

Mr. Rogers appears as Pike Peters, a garage owner in a small Oklahoma town, who finds himself a millionaire when oil is struck on his land. And this oil is struck right before your eyes—you see it gushing and spilling down a slope and over the feet of the town's inhabitants, who turned out in flivvers, buggies and what-not to witness the event.

Being a millionaire doesn't thrill Mr. Peters much. But it does thrill Mrs. Peters. Off to Paris she hies her husband, a daughter and a son and herself. She wants her husband to get "culture" and a "background." She wants the children to make good marriages.

Ready to Go Home

Pike is ready to go home as soon as they arrive in the French capital. He is bored. But not so the rest of the family. The son begins going to the gay places with the mademoiselles. The daughter gets to running around with a Marquis. And Mrs. Peters buys a chateau and a full dress suit for Pike. She also hires a valet for him. And when Pike sees the open spaces of that chateau's lobby, which look the size of an Oklahoma meadow, he calls out the trains as if he were in a railroad station. And when he sees the full dress make-up and the valet, he rebels. "I'll put on my own pants," he says.

All through the story action, which isn't so very active at times, Mr. Rogers periodically lets go with the wisecracks and some ironic bits of plain philosophy. Wealth, modern parents, American tourists and congressmen are included among his verbal fodder. Children do bad enough in picking their own sweethearts without any assistance from the parents, is one of his thoughts. Another is that if a father just can keep his children out of jail nowadays he has met his obligations. Incidentally, a serious note may be found behind all this, with Mr. Rogers in the role of champion for the younger generation—a role which he handles well.

That Tenor Voice!

He seems to delight in taking a slap at Wealth and Culture. "You don't need culture if you have money," he says. Or again, when in a gay Parisian cafe, "So this is culture." Then he has a line that "you could shoot half of the sons of millionaires and no one would miss them but the chorus girls."

Getting back to the story, it finally arrives at the point where Mr. Peters puts across the idea that he is running around with Parisian women. This is too much for Mrs. Peters and she prepares to hie herself, her husband and her children back to Oklahoma. Which is just what Mr. Peters wants.

The cast includes Irene Rich, Owen Davis, Jr., Marguerite Churchill and Fifi Dorsay. A couple of incidental songs are presented during the unfolding of the story with Mr. Rogers coming in on a chorus with a tenor voice that, by his own admission, took 19 years to qualify it for "Sweet Adeline."

'The Leper,' Dramatic Play, Given Attentive Hearing By Large Pitt Audience

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

OLD Hippocrates, himself, the father of medicine, said also to have been the father of the Hippocratic oath, a pledge of men of medicine to hold inviolate professional secrets relative to matters coming to their knowledge in the consulting room of a physician, would have had his fidelity to the ethics of his profession most severely tested had he found himself in the same dilemma as the doctor in "The Leper," play by George Seibel, dramatic critic of the Sun-Telegraph, presented by the George Sharp Players in the Pitt last night.

Mr. Seibel's play does not give ♦ names to the characters in the program, although they call each other by their names in the action of the drama. So we may as well identify them as the playwright does, as The Doctor, His Sister, The Girl, Her Mother, The Preacher and The Other Man. The latter and The Doctor are in love with The Girl. But the Other Man learns from The Doctor that certain symptoms which he has considered trivial, are an indication of his unfitness for the role of a bridegroom.

Doctor's Predicament

The Doctor's predicament comes when The Other Man refuses to believe him and accuses The Doctor of being actuated by jealousy and of taking advantage of his professional standing to become a successful rival for the hand they both desire. It is complicated, too, by the fact that Her Mother considers The Other Man, who happens to be a wealthy mine owner, quite a proper match for her daughter, especially when it develops later that she has lost her fortune in an unwise investment.

So there you are—the professional code of honor and the love borne by the adherent of that code for The Girl. So The Doctor lets the code go hang, and small blame to him. He shatters it rather gently at first, attempting by insinuation to make the girl's mother see the danger her daughter is in, and succeeds only in placing himself in a false light. Then he enlists the aid of His Sister and her sweetheart, The Preacher. This adds to the drama but helps not a whit. In fact, it but adds to the determination of The Girl to choose her own husband and leads to her natural belief that they are busybodies taking unwarranted liberties by their interference.

Ethics to Winds

Yet, in the end, all turns out as The Doctor, guided not alone by love, but the higher virtue than that of ethics, wishes. He throws ethics to the winds altogether and the impediment to the marriage is revealed.

Now all of this may have a rather clinical sound, but the play itself is composed of the old, old-fashioned human passions, failings and virtues, with plentiful dashes of romance and comedy. They merely are placed in an unusual setting, a setting that might have been considered a bit daring a few years ago, but which escapes that category in the present day of frankness.

Possibly due to first night confusion the George Sharp Players did not give the lines and situations their full value. Little muffs of the ball, to adopt the mode of expression of the athletically inclined preacher, did not escape the audience, and appeared to be more significant than similar lapses would in another play, for this is one in which the drama must be drama and the comedy must be comedy. And ever so slight a muddling of the drama is apt to make it comedy.

Audience Attentive

Nevertheless the large audience was attentive and interested and its applause indicated that it was well satisfied with the presentation of "The Leper," which evidently made an impression similar to that of its original presentation in the same theater a number of years ago.

The play introduced a new leading woman, Lillian Hammond, in the part of The Girl, and she did very well. Others were Harland Tucker, very serious as The Doctor; Robert Fiske, rather snarling as The Other Man; Mabel Kroman, smiling Mabel as The Sister; Hugh Banks, mixing a baseball complex with the heavenly calling of The Preacher; and Alice Ann Baker, The Mother with an eye to the main chance.

Different

Mary Pickford is a different Mary in the Penn this week. Instead of a curly-haired tomboy she is a Shakespearean heroine in the film version of "The Taming of the Shrew," in which she is co-starred with Douglas Fairbanks.

A PRODUCT OF NATIONAL DAIRY

Stage and Screen News

That Overgrown Boy

Elliott Cabot plays Higgins, that overgrown boy, with full appreciation of the delicate psychology involved. Here is a character it is hard to believe in. He is the most preposterous of Shaw's eternal talkers.

Cabot gives him the only possible interpretation that makes him seem human. He gives him the one touch of irresponsibility needed to make him endurable.

Otherwise we should be inclined to throw slippers and things at him as Eliza does.

Eliza is the third of the rich and racy characterizations in this "Pygmalion." Frieda Inescort, last seen here as Portia when Arliss played Shylock, is delicious as the flower girl and trebly delicious as the fine lady. Her facial comedy and the "sanguinary element in her conversation" are rendered without any semblance of clowning.

There is no love-making, nothing of the conventional business of the theater, either in this part or any other. In fact, Shaw is about as inept at love-making as was Richard Mansfield, the first exponent of Shaw in America.

But there is something else in "Pygmalion"—something so many dramatists and so many plays are without.

The Unknown Quantity

That mysterious X is ideas—ideas about life, society, duty, destiny, personality, ethics.

Shaw is able to interest us in these ideas. We may forget the realistic rainstorm that opens the play and drives its people under the portico of the church in Covent Garden. We may forget the rare acting of such players as Percy Waram, Ruby Hallier and Jane Wheatley—but Shaw has driven home his ideas and we can never forget that phonetic perfection doesn't spell polite manners, and that six months may be all that separates a flower girl from a duchess.

But the actors, like "Pygmalion," must put the breath of life into these ideas. Which is what they did at the Nixon last night—in a fashion we seldom have seen surpassed.

FARCE OF SHAKESPEARE WITH NEW FRILLS ON PENN SCREEN

Shakespeare wrote "The Taming of the Shrew" as a farce, and Douglas Fairbanks went him several better. The talking picture at the Penn Theater this week, in which Mary Pickford is Katherine the Shrew, while Douglas is Petruchio, who tames her, is not presented in modern dress. Aside from that, it is as modern as Barnum or Forepaugh—it is a circus, with the clowns in all three of the rings.

Douglas not only has a horse which Don Quixote would envy him, but a dog that contributes a series of very realistic barks to the action. He (Douglas) eats apples at the altar, and wears a boot as if it were a hat. Every suggestion in Shakespeare that could be worked into some wild antic is taken advantage of.

More Noise Than Poetry

We are even treated to a homecoming where Mary in her wedding finery sits down in a mud puddle where she is joined by the pigs of the family. It is more noise than poetry from beginning to end.

But Douglas Fairbanks furnishes a surprise in his reading. He has a good voice and puts the Shakespearean lines, what is left of them, across very well.

Add to this the impressive settings, which are gorgeous enough for a grand historical pageant, and obscure the farce somewhat—and we have a very strenuous attempt to do justice to the Bard as justice is understood in Hollywood.

Faust as a Side Line

To make the classic bill still more so, we have the Prison Scene from "Faust" at the close of the stage show, sung and played rather well, with Marguerite wafted heavenward while Faust and Mephisto disappear into the nether regions, lit up by red fire.

And Elias Breeskin plays the "1812" overture of Tschaikowsky, while realistic battle scenes are shown on the screen, with ringing bells and all.

In the midst of these diversions, Charles King appears in person to sing "The Wedding of the Painted Dolls" and some other song hits from "The Broadway Melody." He and Nat Nazarro bring the show a little closer to earth again from the classic heights of Gounod and Shakespeare.

But maybe the Gentleman from Stratford would not recognize his work after Douglas and Mary got through with it.

Shavian

Frieda Inescort plays the leading feminine role in the Theater Guild presentation of George Bernard Shaw's comedy, "Pygmalion," in the Nixon.

'DISRAELI,' 'RIO RITA' REMAIN SECOND WEEK

Two photoplays are being presented here for a second week. One is George Arliss' "Disraeli," which is the Grand presentation. The other is the picturization of Flo Ziegfeld's "Rio Rita," being offered in the Sheridan Square.

Helen Menken Comes To Alvin Next Week

Helen Menken, remembered for her performance in "Seventh Heaven," comes to the Shubert Alvin for an engagement opening next Monday night, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday, in a new play, "The Infinite Shoeblack," by Norman MacOwan. She is supported by Leslie Banks and a cast including three other members of the original London company.

Emsworth Club To Repeat Play

A farce, "Mail Order Brides," will be repeated tonight by the Woman's Civic Club of Emsworth in the Emsworth school auditorium. It was presented last night to a large audience. The cast includes Mrs. J. V. Sevin, Mrs. J. L. Meador, Mrs. C. H. Cook, Mrs. H. H. Lloyd, Mrs. H. E. Gingrich, Mrs. A. A. Bowdle, Mrs. R. P. Ripper, Mrs. Howard Rodgers, Mrs. M. M. Laird, Mrs. O. H. Chambers, Mrs. J. R. Metz and Mrs. R. D. Carfer.

Sinclair Leaves Jail, Talks in Metrotone

The departure from a Washington jail of Harry F. Sinclair is one of the many interesting subjects seen and heard in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. How New Yorkers travel to the Canadian "oasis" of Montreal, by giant aeroplane is another interesting picture. Aboard the great ship, the travelers pass the time at luncheon, bridge and dancing. Dr. Thomas G. Masaryk, 80-year-old founder and president of the Czecho-Slovakia republic, who has devoted his life to helping the downtrodden, sends a message of good cheer and friendship to the people of the United States. Notre Dame is shown in a grid-iron battle and this is followed by a baseball classic in Japan.

The marriage of a New York couple in an airplane and their leap into space with parachutes for their 'honeymoon," is shown in Fox Movietone News. There are also scenes made from the world's highest inhabitable structure, the Chrysler Building, in New York, with a trip from the bottom to the top, 1,048 feet in the sky. Many other interesting subjects also are shown.

HATS off to the Byrd men! They have reached the South Pole by airplane! New names are being written on the pages of the world's history.

In his famous book "Skyward," Byrd wrote . . . "like wars, expeditions into polar regions are won by preparations" . . . and characteristic of the Byrd expedition was the great care given to the choice of supplies for this South Pole trip. The expedition selected every item with greatest care for the comfort and well-being of the men.

Over the South Pole with the Byrd men flew Nestlé's Milk Chocolate—just as it flew over the North Pole in 1926 . . . because Nestlé's delivers the goods. Here is a delicious milk chocolate that provides, in compact form, concentrated, easily digested food. Food to supply bodily warmth . . . quick energy . . . to fight against the iciness of penetrating polar winds.

So, in the triumphant flight across the dazzling, white wilderness of the South Pole, Nestlé's flew with the Byrd expedition . . . again an important part of the emergency ration.

RULING ON RUM CARS AWAITED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Two phases of the powers of the federal government in prohibition enforcement, affecting seizure of automobiles carrying liquor and the issuance of liquor manufacturing permits, will be passed upon by the Supreme Court.

The automobile case was brought by the Richbourg Motor Company of North Carolina. The case has aroused wide-spread interest in the automobile industry, especially in connection with the sale of cars on time payment plans.

If an automobile is seized under the prohibition laws, the manufacturer or agent holding a lien on it would be able to protect his interest as he later could obtain the car if title to the machine was established. On the other hand, should the car be seized under the internal revenue law, the government could not be compelled to give it up.

In the case involving the setting of definite expiration dates on permits, the government lost in the lower federal courts in New York, which held in a number of cases that the prohibition bureau had no right to interfere as it proposed with permits it had granted, taking the view that the prohibition act conferred no such authority. The lower courts also held invalid the order which the Secretary of the Treasury and the Federal Prohibition Commission had issued in October, 1927, containing such regulations.

Vasconcelos in U. S.; Hits Revolt Rumor

NOGALES, Ariz., Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Jose Vasconcelos, defeated candidate for the presidency of Mexico in the recent elections, arrived at the International Line here yesterday and crossed into the United States.

Coincident with his appearance, Vasconcelos quieted rumors of a revolution against the successful candidate, President-elect Pascual Ortiz Rubio, but asserted that he was "not defeated but cheated."

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

"LOST ALL INTEREST IN LIFE—"

"In Germany," said Mr. Chas. Fritz, of Canonsburg, Pa., "before we came over here, I always went regularly to the Turnverein and I was the best all-around 'turner' in our society. I liked to wrestle, and I could throw any man in our village within twenty-five pounds of my weight.

"But after we moved to America and I went to work in the mines, my strength left me, as the water and food here did not agree with me. You can't pull a German, or any other European, up by the roots and expect him to be strong and hearty right away in a new soil and a new climate. I got weak all over and I lost interest in life. I had to take physics every night to get my bowels to move and I grew thinner and thinner every month. We had a 'Turnverein' here in town but I was ashamed to go there. I had a young lady friend but was too embarrassed to take her to dances and by and by she dropped me. I had strange thoughts at night and sometimes I wished I was dead. Then I met the World's Tonic representative and he explained to me how this valuable new medicine is made from strengthening plants and herbs brought from different parts of the world. Therefore, it could help give my system what I used to get from my own native German soil and climate.

"I tried World's Tonic and it worked like magic. I felt like a new man almost right away and in a few weeks I had most of my old strength back again. My bowels now move regularly. The gas does not form on my stomach any more. My blood and skin have cleared up and I now can eat any of the American foods and relish them in the same way that I used to relish them back in the old country. Nowadays I go to the Turnverein twice a week. I wrestle every Wednesday night and it takes a good man to throw me. I am not shy any more and have got my young lady sweetheart back again. She's grateful, too, to World's Tonic for giving me back my strength. We are going to be married next month."

World's Tonic is on sale at Dow's (formerly McCulloch's), also May's, Mayflower, and other modern drug stores. (B-34)

Hunters Make Record Deer Haul

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

WE HAVE a complaint that there is nothing in this space to interest housewives. Tomatoes are (approximately) fifteen cents a pound this week.

MISS GEORGETT PASSEDOIT sits at her desk surrounded by hundreds of paintings in the international art exhibit. Her business is to deal with those who would buy the paintings. Several times during this exhibition would-be purchasers have asked her if there any nice paintings for $35.

Speaking of art, House-painter John Kane's "Homestead Mills" won 47 votes in the contest to decide the most popular painting in the exhibition. The winner of the contest, James Chapin, received more than 496 votes and the winner of first prize in the exhibition itself had 60 admirers.

'Art of Thinking' Topic for Lecture

Abbe Ernest Dimnet, author of "The Art of Thinking," and other books, will deliver the fourth lecture of the Y. M. and W. H. A. series in the "Y" building, Bellefield avenue, tonight. The subject of the lecture will be "The Art of Thinking." The lecture will be one of a series of ten arranged by the lectures committee of the association of which Charles H. Joseph is chairman. Following the lecture, to which the public is invited, there will be an open forum. The next lecture will be December 17, by Dr. Lewis Browne.

120 KILLED IN FORBES FOREST

18,000 Nimrods Roaming Westmoreland; Northern Forests Yield Much Game

By ALBERT GOUGH,
Staff Correspondent.

FRONT LINE, FORBES FOREST, Pa., Dec. 3.—The second day's rataplan of rifles in the mountain deer country between Donegal, on the south, and New Florence on the north, boded ill for the bucks who ventured out of the safety of the game refuge today.

The record-breaking army of red-capped nimrods which invaded the Chestnut and Laurel ridges' hunting grounds brought down 120 deer yesterday. Conservative figures at the headquarters of State Game Warden at Ligonier this morning estimated the number of hunters in this territory at somewhere between 15,000 and 18,000. They came in droves, filling hunting lodges, camps and hotels. Yesterday's bag was one of the largest for an opening day for this district.

ONE INJURED

Only one casualty was recorded. F. M. Naugle, of Laughlintown, suffered wounds in the face when his gun exploded while he was manipulating the bolt to inject another cartridge after missing a deer in the hills back of his home.

"The total of 16,721 hunting licenses were issued in Westmoreland County alone," declared R. H. McKissick, county game protector, "Of this number, I believe, at least 10,000 are hunting deer in these hills. Added to these are several thousand more from neighboring counties. Most of our visiting hunters come from the Pittsburgh district."

Most of the killings were made by one-day hunters. Of the 120 animals slain only two remained in camps tonight, others being taken home by the hunters. The number killed yesterday was 17 more than the opening day last year, and this number probably will be increased when reports from hunters in the vicinity of Jones Mill and Donegal are received late today. Hunters believe the first day's kill may reach 150.

"BALD FACE" DEER

Two 12-point bucks were brought into Forbes Forest. One was killed near Rector, and one in the mountains above Waterford. An unusual kill was made by Lawrence Graham, 18, a high school boy of Pleasant Unity, who shot a "bald face deer," a rare specimen in this section. It was his first hunting trip.

John S. Clifford, Ligonier hotel manager, who started out at daybreak with T. J. Laughrey, 73, one of the oldest hunters in the mountains, shot a nine-point buck estimated to be about 18 years old. It weighed 250 pounds.

Only six illegal killings were reported. Samuel Hall, of Derry, appeared at a warden's office and admitted having shot a doe and was fined $50, the customary fine for hunters confessing illegal killings. Otherwise the fine would have been $100. Harry Byers, of Greensburg, won the day's prize for missing the greatest number

JUDGE QUIZZES CONSTABLES ON CLUBS

125 Asked About Lawlessness In County Upon Making Returns; 30 Report Raids

Judge Thomas J. Ford, of Criminal Court, questioned about 125 constables of Allegheny County regarding gambling and violations of the liquor laws, when they made their returns yesterday, 30 reporting they had made raids or informations.

The court wanted to know particularly about the activities of various clubs. The questions revealed that some informations which have been made are now before the grand jury for consideration. Assistant District Attorney Andrew Park also engaged in the questioning.

FAILS TO APPEAR

Mr. Parks found that the constable from the First Ward, Pittsburgh, was about the only one who failed to appear. The "Blind Men's Parade" in any event revealed that constables are a little more active than they have been regarding the reporting of law violations.

Prior to handing in their reports the annual meeting of the Constables' Beneficial Association of Allegheny County was held in the Court House.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The following officers were chosen: E. P. Murray, Millvale, president; Earl R. Cross, Fifth Ward, Pittsburgh, first vice president; A. L. Scheleidenm, Twenty-sixth Ward, second vice president; Fred Boehmer, Twenty-ninth Ward, treasurer; Ross F. Shaffer, Glenfield, recording secretary; Harry C. Cohn, Fourteenth Ward, Pittsburgh, financial secretary. Tipstaffs stood guard at the meeting room door while the constables were in session.

97 KILLED HERE IN NOVEMBER

Fatal accidents were more numerous than usual in November, "No Accident Month," the report of Coroner W. J. McGregor reveals.

The toll of life listed follows:

Six persons killed by accidental discharge of firearms incidental to the hunting season; 16 by falls, 34 by automobiles, 13 by burns, 3 by drowning, 4 by trains, 1 by electrocution, 12 in the mills, 7 by poison, including carbon monoxide, 1 from football.

"In view of the November record I urge all persons who may be going hunting to observe utmost care in handling weapons, and also that sidewalks be kept free of ice and snow, to reduce the number of fatal falls," said Coroner McGregor.

Seven murders, 3 of them held justifiable, were recorded, of a total of 278 of sudden or violent death investigated.

CENSUS VALUE DISCUSSED

Value of census information for manufacturers and distributors was discussed yesterday at a conference of community representatives from throughout the Tri-State district, in the William Penn Hotel.

The meeting, preceded by a luncheon, was called by the Advisory Committee on Manufactures, appointed by Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont. The committee's purpose is to advise the Bureau of Census on the material to be gathered in the forthcoming census of manufactures and distribution and to acquaint manufacturers of the necessity of supplying accurate information.

John E. Palmer, representing the Census Bureau, presided. He explained to the representatives the need of correct data to aid the keener competition that is harrassing distribution. The census will eliminate waste in production and distribution, he said.

Truck Hits Auto Suit Asks $35,000

Catherine Wasson and J. C. Wasson, her husband, of Penn Township, filed suit in Common Pleas Court against William C. Beck, of Butler County, asking $35,000 for personal injuries to Mrs. Wasson. A car in which she was a passenger, driven by her son, was struck by an automobile owned by Beck on Butler street extension August 26, 1928, throwing her against the front seat, breaking ribs and causing other serious injuries, Mrs. Wasson alleged.

GUILTY AT 65, MERCY URGED

Nickolas G. Klaus, 65, was found guilty of violating the prohibition act and his place at 110½ Electric avenue, East Pittsburgh, adjudged a common nuisance today when a sealed verdict was opened in federal court.

The jury recommended to Judge Nelson McVicar that Klaus be given the extreme mercy on account of his age. Klaus was tried yesterday, charged with sale and possession of liquor and maintaining a common nuisance.

Victim of Gangsters Leaves $10,000 Estate

Patrick J. McCann, victim of an alleged First Ward gang shooting affray on Fifth avenue, left an estate worth $10,000 by his will offered for probate. After a bequest of $1,000 to his mother, the estate is given to his widow, Catherine McCann. Michael Kelly, First Ward politician, arrested following the shooting, claimed it was done in self-defense, according to police.

Constable Accuses Mine Head of Attack

Acting on the complaint of Deputy Constable Frank Kossan, of Library, who charged that he was attacked by Supt. William Phillips on the Pittsburgh Coal Company property at Mine No. 10 Saturday, county detectives today started an investigation. Kossan stated that when he went to the mine property to serve a subpena on Harry Neff, a mine boss, Phillips ordered him away and then struck him with a bolt. He also charged that Phillips took his gun.

Afraid of Sleep Wants Off Jury

Duncan C. Calhoun, Negro, of Pennsylvania avenue, Coraopolis, asked in Common Pleas Court to be excused from jury service.

"I'm afraid I'll fall asleep in the jury box," he said.

"Don't worry; we'll see to that," Judge James B. Drew replied.

Calhoun then pleaded he was hard of hearing. Judge Drew spoke to him in a normal tone. Calhoun answered.

"We'll take a chance on you," the court decreed.

MOTOR CAUSES FACTORY FIRE

Damage estimated at $5,000 resulted last night when fire, believed to have been caused by an overheated motor, broke out in the battery room in the plant of the McKinney Manufacturing Company, at Liverpool and Metropolitan streets.

A watchman discovered the blaze in the room on the second floor of the three-story brick structure. An automatic sprinkling system set off a still alarm and additional companies were summoned a short time later.

After a two-hour battle the firemen, hampered by dense smoke, extinguished the flames. A number of motors and the plant's telephone system were damaged.

BEGIN SURVEY FOR ASSEMBLY

The Rev. Dr. Lewis Seymour Mudge, stated clerk of the Presbyterian Assembly, will be honor guest this evening at a dinner conference under the auspices of the Men's Club of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Mudge comes to Pittsburgh to make a survey incident to the entertainment in this city next year of the General Assembly. He is paying particular attention to Pittsburgh's ability to house the large delegation which will attend this important gathering and during the day, with the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomsen Kerr and a group of Shadyside members, is visiting the various hotels for that purpose.

This evening the dinner, which will begin at 6:30 o'clock, will be held in the church parlors and will be served by a committee of women of the congregation consisting of Miss Clara Jennings, chairman; Mrs. James C. Burt, Mrs. Wilbur Schenk, Mrs. Franklin B. Roberts, Mrs. Charles W. Ridinger, Jr., and Mrs. George W. Lyon.

After dinner Dr. Mudge will deliver a short address. This in turn will be succeeded by a moving picture exhibition.

Prisoners Admit Intent To Launch Crime Career; Identification Attempted

Four alleged slot machine bandits, arrested in Mulberry way near Twenty-ninth street early this morning, were held for investigation by the detective bureau when arraigned today before Police Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Penn Avenue Police Court.

The prisoners, William Hodill, 22, of 2122 Lucine street, Overbrook; Robert Sibbet, 19, and Richard Sibbett, 18, brothers, of 312 North Atlantic avenue, and Howard Sibbett, 29, an uncle of the two boys, testified at the hearing that they intended to rob slot machines.

Robert, who had a blackjack in his possession when arrested, and Howard Sibbett, admitted at the hearing that they robbed a restaurant owned by Daniel McCaffery, 2847 Penn avenue, two weeks ago, securing a radio set.

Police have asked F. E. Pickering, manager of the White Linen Supply Company, who was robbed of $1,488 Saturday to attempt to identify the four men as those who held him up.

MOTHER KILLED, $15,000 ASKED

For the death of Mrs. Margaret Dunlap, their mother, six children, Mary, James, George and John Dunlap and Mrs. Martha Alliott and Mrs. Nettie Sample, asked $15,000 damages of Kathleen McKenzie in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court. Mrs. Dunlap, an aged woman, was crossing Beaver avenue, Glenfield, on the way to her home on Kilbuck street, Glenfield, December 28 last, when struck by an automobile driven by defendant, the suit alleged. Mrs. Dunlap died February 23, 1929.

Talks on German Religious Liberty

The second lecture of a series of talks on Catholic achievements of the country will be given tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock by the Rev. Howard J. Carroll in the Sacred Heart High School. The subject will be "The Struggle for Religious Liberty in Germany," citing Bismark's attempt to annihilate the church in Germany.

Ex-Burgess to Speak Before Kiwanis Club

Lions to Be Hosts To Pitt Gridders

Members of the Pitt football team will be guests of the Lions' Club of East Liberty at the organization's weekly meeting tomorrow. A special program is being arranged, many members being graduates of the University of Pittsburgh.

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question: A famous architect recently said that a woman's beauty is in proportion to her utility. Do you believe this?

MISS ELSIE E. HARDING, McKees Rocks, assistant manager: "Clothes make the woman, not utility. I think if I went down to a big department store and they dressed me all up, I'd be beautiful. Certainly one can be beautiful without being useful."

E. E. Harding

MISS ALMA JOHNSON, Beltzhoover, saleslady: "I believe he's right. Unless you work and take exercise, you can't be healthy. You must be healthy to be beautiful. So unless you work, you can't be strong and healthy or beautiful."

Alma Johnson

GEORGE L. HOSSFELD, Patchamplon typist: 'My experience has been that when a woman takes up housework, or gets a job, she forgets her beauty. That doesn't mean, however, that she loses it. But you don't have to be useful to be beautiful. In fact, the most beautiful woman is probably not so useful."

G. L. Hossfeld

MRS. ALMEDA HUFF, North Side, waitress: "A woman can't sit around all day and be beautiful. Nowadays, a woman's ability to be active is a necessary part of her beauty. Cold cream won't bring out beauty that isn't there. Exercise or work will bring it out. Utility is necessary to modern beauty."

Mrs. A. Huff

MRS. JOHN MILLS, West View, housewife and saleswoman: "Utility has nothing to do with beauty. A lot of useless women are beautiful. A woman can certainly be beautiful without being useful."

Mrs. John Mills

MISS GEORGINA SHILADY, East End, modiste: "The most beautiful women are the least useful. Beautiful women spend all their time 'fixing up.' The busy girl, who works or keeps house, hasn't the time to 'doll up.' The best working girls are the ones who spend the least time powdering their noses and rouging their cheeks. But the best working girls aren't the most beautiful, by any means. It takes too much time to be beautiful."

Chinaman Found Guilty In Opium Smuggling

Yee Song, 32, Chinese laundryman of 520 Third avenue, accused of smuggling opium into the county jail for a fellow countryman, was found guilty in Federal Court today. The charges against him were possession and concealment of opium.

The jury, which retired to its deliberations yesterday noon, returned a sealed verdict.

Song was accused of smuggling opium to one Yee Lai, who had been sentenced to two years for violating the narcotic act. Harry Rager, jail guard, testified that 200 grains of the stuff were concealed in a basket of food delivered by Song for Lai.

Song, according to the testimony, was arrested one week later when he appeared at the jail with another basket for Lai, and was turned over to Government Narcotic Agent W. T. Duffey. No opium or other drugs were found in the second basket, it was testified. Song, according to government agents, at the time of the alleged offense, was employed at Lai's laundry at 2029 Fifth avenue.

The regular session of Congress opened, to investigate what was done at the last session.

This session is also to relieve the farmer again, relieve him of any encouragement that he might have received during the last one.

One thing, Mr. Hoover is not responsible for the holding of this session. Got to blame the founders of the Constitution for it. Can't lay this one on him. That last one cured him.

LAUDS OFFICER WHO SHOOTS FUGITIVE

Patrolman Ralph S. Bigley, who last night shot dead an alleged bandit following a Black street hold-up, was personally complimented today by Peter P. Walsh, superintendent of police.

Co-incidentally, Walsh issued an order instructing police to shoot to kill any bandit caught in the act of holding up a citizen or business establishment.

WILL BAIT THUGGERY

"It's the only efficient way to break up the extensive business of thuggery and robbery," Walsh said.

The dead man, believed to be Theodore Brown, 30, of Aiken avenue, was shot to death by Patrolman Ralph S. Bigley while he and two companions fled from the policemen at Avondale and Heth avenues, the police report said. The Negroes arrested said they were James Burrell, 21, of 712 North Atlantic avenue, and Walter Scott, 21, of 524 Fannel street. The man killed was shot through the heart, and pronounced dead at Pittsburgh Hospital.

KILLING FOLLOWS HOLDUP

The shooting and capture followed by 30 minutes the holdup of Max Keyser, of 5517 Black street, who was robbed of $12.30 by three Negroes as he was placing his car in his garage in the rear of his home.

After the robbery Keyser ran into his home and telephoned East End police. Patrolmen Bigley and Charles Nixon responding, began scouring the neighborhood.

PRISONER CONFESSES

They came upon three Negroes at Avondale street and Heth avenue. The patrolmen called for them to halt. Instead they ran down Avondale street, with Patrolmen Nixon and Bigley in pursuit. The officers opened fire and Brown fell.

Burrell, after being placed in a cell, admitted participating in the Keyser holdup, and said he had taken part in more than a half dozen holdups of women in the East End, according to police. Several hours later Walter Scott, 21, a Negro, of 524 Fannel street, was arrested. He admitted he was with Brown and Burrell, police said. Five other Negroes were taken to the police station for questioning.

FATE OF SHIP'S CREW VEILED

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Uncertainty today veiled the fate of the British freighter Norwich City, wrecked Saturday off Gardner Island, in the Phoenix group, 1,800 miles southwest of Hawaii. The freighter carried a crew of 34.

Supposedly speeding to the apparently doomed ship was the steamer Lavington Court, which was expected to reach the Norwich City yesterday, but had not reported today.

A dispatch to the Associated Press Sunday from Apia quoted a radio message from the Norwich City as saying: "If the ship holds out until daylight we may make shore, but a heavy sea is running." Nothing has been heard from the ship since.

Robbers Ransack Homewood House

Forcing a rear cellar window in the home of Robert Brown, at 7341 Monticello street, thieves late yesterday ransacked the house and escaped with $25 in cash and jewelry valued at $115, police were informed.

THINKING IT OVER — By Hal Coffman

"JUST ACROSS THE STREET"

The young lady that O. Henry described was tempted to make whoopee.

The girl shown here by Mr. Coffman does not even have Lord Kitchener's portrait for protection.

Tired out by late hours at the office, she thinks of joining the cheerful party across the street, forgetting reality for a few brief hours in the glamor of youth, drink, pleasure.

You can't blame her for that.

Mr. Coffman's drawing, like O. Henry's story, is unfinished.

We are at liberty to wonder what the girl decides, this evening and other evenings.

It would be interesting to see her ten, twenty, thirty years hence.

Her decision means much to herself.

And MUCH MORE to her descendants, if she has any, as she should have.

HONOR 'CHUTE VICTIM HERE

Plans were being made today for military honors at the funeral tomorrow of Sergt. Louis G. Pallaye, of Hazelwood, killed when his parachute failed to open as he leaped from an airplane at Brooks Field, Tex., last Wednesday. The body arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday and was taken to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Pallaye, of 8 Kansas avenue, Hazelwood.

Sergt. Pallaye was born in Hazelwood, attended Fifth Avenue High School, and played tackle on the school's football team.

Funeral services will be held in the St. Elias' Greek Catholic Church tomorrow morning, with interment in Calvary Cemetery.

LOUISIANA JOB FIGHT FOILED

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—State militiamen, hastily mobilized by Gov. Huey P. Long as Robert S. Maestri prepared to assume charge of the State Conservation Department office, returned to civilian pursuits today, the need for their services apparently having passed with the peaceable retirement of V. K. Irion, former conservation head. Irion surrendered his post yesterday after losing a court battle for the office.

For months the title to the Conservation Department office had been tied up in litigation, with Irion, appointee of the late Gov. Henry Fuqua, in physical possession to the exclusion of Maestri, appointee of Gov. Long. Recently the State Supreme Court upheld the claim of Maestri.

Attorneys for Irion, who claimed he was not legally removable at this time, asked Chief Justice Charles A. O'Neil for a writ of supersedas, which would have permitted an appeal to the Federal Court.

Nails His Doors Against Thieves, Also Wife

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Louis Vandiver nailed up all the doors of his house. He was afraid he might fall asleep and burglars get in.

Mrs. Vandiver had him placed on probation. She complained the practice was inconvenient, because the doors were nailed while she was outside.

FIND MAN DEAD FROM POISON

The body of Earle DeLacey Addis, 38, an interior decorator, of Sharon, was found in bed in his room in the Roosevelt Hotel last night by employes of the hotel.

On a dresser, deputy coroners said, they found six empty vials which had contained a drug which Addis was believed to have swallowed. Letters addressed to his mother, Mrs. Josephine Addis, of 440 Thornton avenue, Sharon, and to a friend stopping at a downtown hotel, indicated, morgue attaches said, that Addis ended his life because he was "unhappy and tired of life."

In both missives, Addis, who had registered at the hotel Sunday, begged forgiveness.

Investment Manager And $47,245 Missing

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Mississippi Valley Trust Company officials announced here that W. J. Lavery, manager of the Chicago Investment Branch of the Mississippi Valley-Merchants State Trust Company, has been missing for more than a week and that a check of his accounts in Chicago disclosed a shortage of $47,245. A search is being made for him.

CHURCH CALLS SNODGRASS

The First Christian Church, Montgomery avenue and Arch street, North Side, has extended a call to the Rev. Dr. Ray E. Snodgrass, of Maryville, Mo., who recently concluded a six months' evangelistic campaign in behalf of the Disciples of Christ in Allegheny County.

Dr. Snodgrass, in conjunction with Ralph Pollock, singer, held tabernacle services in McKeesport, North Side, and Carnegie, in addition to a two weeks' series of meetings in the First Church. He has the call under consideration and is expected to make known his decision soon.

Man Robbed of $175 In South Side Holdup

Two bandits robbed William Cohen, of 21 Reed street, of $175 at Josephine and South Eighteenth streets, last night. The thugs, with caps drawn over their eyes, escaped in an automobile.

Weather Conditions.

The high pressure area that produced the cold wave over this section moved southwestward and is now centered over Texas. This unusual movement carried the cold weather far southward. The low pressure area that appeared over the Canadian Northwest yesterday morning moved eastward along the border, and is now centered north of Lake Superior. It is causing cloudy weather over the upper Mississippi valley and eastward, and light snowfall over the lower lakes, Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia and Western Pennsylvania. Moderately heavy rains occurred over the Atlantic Coast states yesterday and last night.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling. The Allegheny pools are frozen over, and the river is frozen over above Warren. Between Warren and Kittanning there is much shore ice. The Youghiogheny and the Cheat are frozen, and the Youghiogheny is gorged below West Newton. Stage at Franklin is 2.1 feet; Lock No. 7, 11.5; Pittsburgh, 11.9; Dam No. 2, 8.4; Dam No. 6, 9.0; Dam No. 9, 7.9, and Dam No. 12, 5.3. The dams are up.

SCIENCE NEEDED IN BUSINESS, EXPERT SAYS

Industrial Leaders Attend Conference Staged By Census Bureau Officials

There is a great need of scientific management of business America, Francis D. Tyson, professor of economics at the University of Pittsburgh, told local industrial leaders in the William Penn Hotel yesterday. Prof. Tyson, whose address was relative to the forthcoming United States census of manufacturers and distribution declared that business in America has maintained a steady progress since 1923.

The conference yesterday followed a luncheon tendered by representatives of the United States Census Bureau and was one of 17 gatherings being held throughout the country.

CENSUS EXPLAINED

Approximately 50 business men of this district and from neighboring states were present, at which government representatives explained the purpose of the census. Albert J. Stowe, manager of the commerce division of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, presided.

In addition to Prof. Tyson, the speakers were John E. Palmer, chief of the United States Census Information Bureau, and Edwin B. George, head of the Philadelphia office of the United States Department of Commerce.

DATA CONFIDENTIAL

The industrial leaders were assured by Palmer that the information compiled by manufacturers and business firms would not be divulged. He said the government was a disinterested party, insofar as the census was concerned, and that the movement was primarily to help business in general. The schedule must be filled out by the manufacturer or distributor and sent immediately to the Census Bureau in Washington. Forms will be sent out in January.

HOLD 3, FREE 2 IN STABBING

Pedro Ciacelli, 29, of 300 Tarragonia street, Bon Air, was in a serious condition today in South Side Hospital with stab wounds, and five men were under arrest as a result of a fight in Ciacelli's home last midnight. Those under arrest said they were Bartholomew Dandri, 30; Mike Cicillo, 35; Anthony Pizzi, 31; Pete Feticiti, 40, and John Barbombi, 43, all of 121 Schuckert street. They were charged with being suspicious persons.

Following a hearing today Dandri was held without bail for a further hearing. Cicillo and Pizzi were held in $1,000 bail and Feticiti and Barbombi were discharged.

When taken to the hospital, Cicillo was identified by Ciacelli as the man who held him while Dandri slashed him with a knife, according to police.

Patrolman John L. Shaughnessy said that when he forced his way into the house where the fight was in progress, Dandri attempted to stab him with an icepick.

APPROVE BONDS AT MT. LEBANON

Mt. Lebanon Township commissioners at their meeting held last night in the Washington public school passed ordinances finally increasing bond indebtedness for the township to the amount of $377,000.

The issues were approved by the voters of the township at a recent election. The issues were for the improvement and landscaping of the public park, $100,000; additional land for the park, $9,000; additional storm sewers, $50,000; additional trunk sewers, $36,500; paving street connections, $7,500; addition to the municipal building, now under construction, $50,000, and floating debts, $124,000.

The report submitted by the building inspector, George J. Irwin, showed an increase of $68,457 in building costs from the year of 1928. For this year, there were 492 permits issued at an estimated cost of $5,755,484.

Mr. Irwin, who had been acting township manager, was appointed manager by the solons.

A. A. Geary was appointed a policeman. He succeeds Theodore Carrington, resigned.

STATE, COUNTY POLICE UNIFIED

A police tie-up between Allegheny county and other counties of the state, through the medium of the state police was started today.

County detectives inaugurated the communication system with the installation of three "printers"—telephonic machines similar to news printing machines, on which messages of interest to police will be transmitted from other sections of Western Pennsylvania.

The telegraph transmitter, registered in many police and dective headquarters, will keep state and county police informed as to the activities of criminals, instruct communities to watch for criminals, send over descriptions of escaped felons, stolen automobiles, and otherwise unify state-wide pursuit of malefactors.

Three operators will be appointed to care for the Allegheny county machines when the county commissioners meet and authorize their employment.

STUYVESANT VAN VEEN AT HIS EASEL

CITY INTERESTS YOUNG ARTIST

Stuyvesant Van Veen, 19, of New York City, youngest painter ever to have a canvas hung in the International Exhibition at Carnegie Institute, was in Pittsburgh today.

"From the artist's point of view it is an interesting city," he said. "I walked along the river at half-past one this morning. The glow in the sky—the silhouettes of the mills—they were marvelous! The bridges! The way the city is laid out on hills! It is fascinating."

"What is the trend in art?" Van Veen was asked.

"The Carnegie International represents contemporary art. It seems to me it is trying to straddle the fence. More and more people are coming to appreciate modern art. But there is still an element that demands pretty pictures—nice colors—and they must be satisfied. But it is unfortunate that any artist has to cater to them, for they do not make for advancement in fine art."

He left the College of the City of New York last Christmas to give all his time to painting.

Besides his canvas at the Carnegie International, entitled "Below Queensborough Bridge," he has three other paintings on exhibition at the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts in Philadelphia.

CARRIED FROM SMOKE-FILLED UPPER FLOOR

Parents Save Youngsters; Firemen Take Out Other Victim by Aid of Ladder

Mrs. Chris Emch was rescued by firemen and carried down a ladder from her apartment in the duplex dwelling at 260-62 McKee Place early today, and three children of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Duffy were carried out by their parents when fire broke out in the basement of the building.

The duplex was filled with suffocating smoke which cut off the stairways for Mrs. Emch and the children.

Other occupants had fled to the street through hallways which the smoke had not reached.

The Duffy children were Charles, Jr., aged 9; James, 6, and Elizabeth Ann, 5. The flames were confined to the first floor, occupied by Herman H. Adam.

32 MOTORISTS FACE HEARING

Continuing their drive against motorists accused of violating traffic laws, local and state highway patrolmen yesterday arrested 32 persons. These arrests brought the total to 288 in the drive which began a week ago.

The alleged violators will be arraigned before Alderman T. D. Jones, 2 Carson street. Most of those arrested yesterday were stopped at Oliver avenue and Smithfield street.

After January 1 no machine will be allowed to operate without 1930 license plates, Marshall also declared.

HILL TOP ASKS ENGINE HOUSE

Residents of Duquesne Heights today pointed to the funeral of Edwards Williams, 12, and Frederick Williams, 10, to support their request that a fire engine house be reopened on Duquesne Heights.

The Williams children were burned to death Saturday when flames destroyed their home at 611 Sweetbriar street. Today services were held for them in St. Mary's of the Mount Catholic Church. They were laid to rest in Calvary Cemetery.

President Joseph A. Heyl, of the Duquesne Heights Civic Association, announced that the association had asked Mayor Kline and Council to hear its request to reopen Engine House No. 20, formerly at Grandview avenue and Sweetbriar street, which was abandoned seven years ago.

Mr. Heyl pointed out that 90 per cent of the homes on Duquesne Heights are of frame construction.

DURANT URGES MORALITY AIDS

Will Durant, student of morals, suggested a reversion to the customs of the past if marriage is to be restored to its former high plane and industrial revolutions are to be counteracted. His proposals:

Public betrothal with the wedding six months later.

Young marriages—that of men and women as soon as they reach maturity.

Presentation of dowries to make this possible economically.

Marriage in church, so that the ceremony would make it an event to impress the mind and memory.

Enough children—but children at any rate.

Divorce when the children are economically independent, and then by mutual agreement.

This solution for the immorality of the present day caused by women's independence and man's historic double-standard in practice was given an audience of about 500 in Carnegie Music Hall last night. Durant talked in the first of a series of lectures under the auspices of the Unitarian Laymen's League.

He discussed the history of morals, traced the cause of a number of the morality and immorality conditions and characteristics back to the "hunting age" when men were nomads. The industrial revolution, he said, has again made men nomads with the resulting destruction of the home and other established customs.

Jailed for Stealing Roomer's Shirt, Cash

'Electric Eye' Detects Gas Fumes in Tunnel

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—A detector called an "electric eye" which records the presence of carbon monoxide and other gases, haze and dust in the atmosphere was under test here in the Holland Tunnel under the Hudson River between New York and New Jersey.

The "eye" was designed to record the microscopic motes to which the human eye is insensitive. It employs a photo-electric cell. By means of an electric wire it moves a pencil in an office a half a mile away, tracing a record showing when the pure air in the tube is beginning to be impure.

The record lies before the tunnel superintendent, so that he may speed up the fans or put extra fans into operation to clear the tunnel of obnoxious fumes.

The detector is under development by engineers of the General Electric Company. It must undergo further exhaustive tests before it is accepted as adequate.

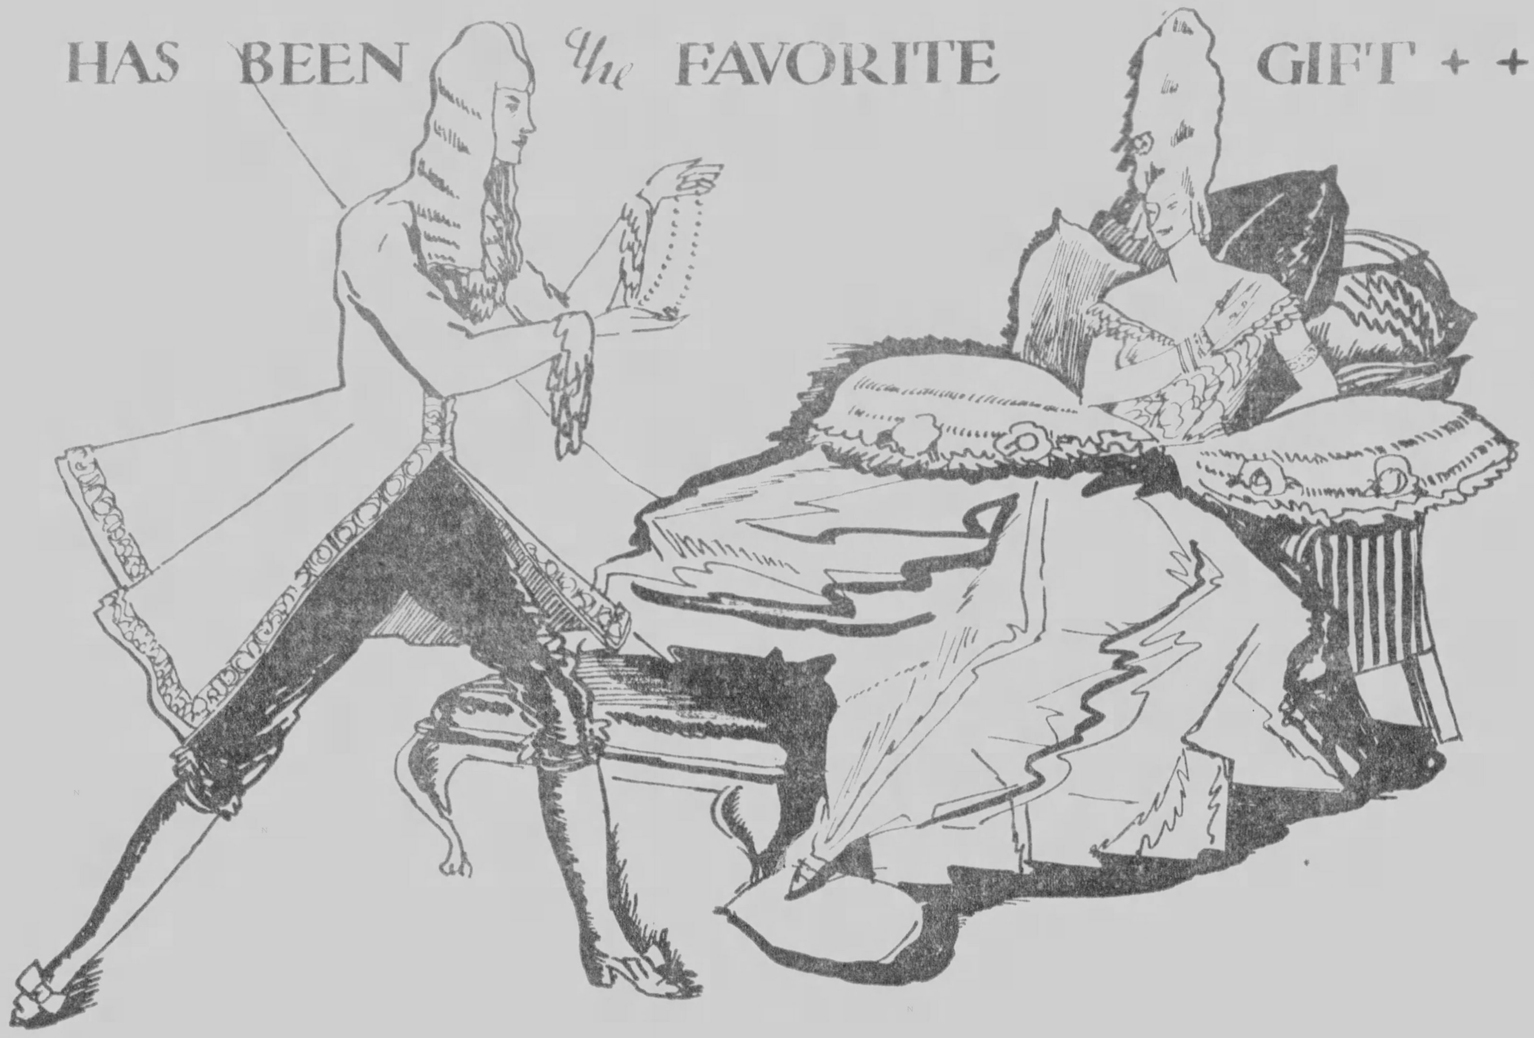
+ + + + DOWN THROUGH the AGES JEWELRY

HAS BEEN the FAVORITE GIFT + + + + + + +



THE fascination for jewelry dates prior to all records of history. Every race of every civilization in history has been influenced by the possession of gold and precious stones.

It was only natural that the exchange or presentation of gifts of such value should come to signify the giver's greatest devotion. That heritage has been handed down through the ages and today the gift of jewelry has the same significance as in the days of old.

Simplify your Christmas shopping this year. Give gifts of Jewelry. It is symbolic of the sentiment you wish to express. Jewelry is always appropriate, useful, enduring and appreciated.

Pittsburgh jewelers have ready for your selection innumerable gifts of every description—each one a triumph of the jeweler's craftsmanship. They are telling you about these precious gifts in their advertisements in the Sun-Telegraph. Read what they have to suggest.

BIG NAMES GO TO SCRAP HEAP

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—A chain letter, designed to spread the slogan "Cross Crossings Carefully," which had crossed the Atlantic twice and bore the names of numerous persons of world-wide prominence, rested in the waste basket of the State Capitol here today.

The letter came to Milton H. Welling, Utah secretary of state, from Fred E. Lukens, Idaho secretary of state, and carried signatures of Charles G. Dawes, Bernard Shaw, Henry Ford, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Dorothy Dix, Lady Hay, Aristide Briand and Ramsay Macdonald.

Replying to Lukens, Welling endorsed the slogan but denounced the chain letter system.

"I hoped that the fellow who invented it was dead and damned long ago," he wrote. "Judging by the pedigree which accompanied your request to me, the greatest men in the world today feel that they would be justified in resorting to this method of approving a most wholesome slogan. I accept the slogan 100 per cent, but what I do with this chain letter business is going to be a profound secret which I shall share only with my conscience and the waste basket in my office."

Family Driven From Home by Flames

Tony Vito and his family were driven to the street when flames, blamed on a defective flue, caused damage estimated at $100 to his home at 8 Pius street this afternoon.

BYRD'S CRITIC ANSWERED

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—The New York Times, commenting upon dispatches saying Commander Byrd's description of the South Polar area had been challenged by Maj. Tryggve Gran, said today:

"None of the New York Times dispatches from Little America has ever told of Commander Byrd conning upon traces of the camps of Capt. Amundsen and Capt. Scott.

"By Capt. Amundsen's own record of the position of his base Framheim—Commander Byrd has been able to go to the approximate site, and Little America is located not far from it.

"Capt. Amundsen's book tells of the woodwork of his hut and the heroic task of his carpenters. Radiating from the house were now tunnels and caverns.

"As for the mountains reported by Commander Byrd on the Polar flight they were between 86 and 87 degrees and south of that the commander described the terrain as an 'almost limitless plateau.' Thus Maj. Gran would be correct in assuming that there were no ranges south of 88 degrees."

Holdup Man Finds No Money, Steals Victim's Beard

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Sam Lehrer, who cultivated a seven-inch beard and found it useful with the mercury flirting with zero, was robbed of his prized whiskers this morning.

Lehrer, employed by a window display company, was confronted by a Negro holding a long knife when he opened the offices at 5:30 a. m. The Negro searched Lehrer and, finding no money or jewelry, caught hold of his beard and whacked it off. "I'll sell this for a quarter," the Negro shouted back as he ran from the building.

Mexican Medal Awarded Air Ace

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—The National Association of Aeronautics has decided to award to Col. Roberto Fierro, air ace, the "Emilio Carranza" medal for 1928, in reward for his nonstop flights from Mexicali, Lower California, to Mexico City, and from Mexico to Cuba. The medal is regarded as the highest award given annually to air heroes.

OPEN NEW ROAD ON FRIDAY

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 3.—Division Engineer T. C. Frame announced that 15 miles of new concrete road between Tidioute and Irvineton will be opened to traffic on Friday. This road leads from the Roosevelt highway at Irvineton to the Lakes-to-Sea highway at Shippenville, Clarion County, and is a north-and-south link that opens up a wide area of forest land.

A detour on 13 miles of the road between Tidioute and Irvineton will be removed Friday. The new highway runs parallel to the east bank of the Allegheny river along the national forest in Warren County, and is one of the most scenic drives in the state.

Railroad Head Goes On Trial in Fraud

COLUMBUS, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—D. P. Rudemann, president of the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railroad, faced a hearing before Federal Judge Benson Hough today on charges that the railroad falsely billed shipments of coal.

The indictment contains 25 counts, alleging coal was billed to a fictitious destination over another railroad, and that the rates were split between the two roads. A $450,000 fine is possible.

A not guilty plea was entered for Rudemann June 21. He has been at liberty under $25,000 bond.

Club Women Hear Plays Discussed

TWENTIETH CENTURY CLUB members again demonstrated their interest in the things of the theater when they turned out in large numbers for Leighton Rollins' talk on current plays yesterday morning. Mr. Rollins, who established the Surry (Me.) Playhouse and Workshop and, before that, the "Try-Out Theater" at Wellesley, and who is one of the foremost Little Theater directors in the country, spoke very entertainingly of many New York attractions, dividing them into three general classes: crime-wave pulp comedies and sex plays.

Baldepston's "Berkeley Square," Michael Flavin's tragic "The Criminal Code," "The Silver Tassie," with its wonderful humor and its one scene built on the outlines of the Mass; "Journey's End" and its stark simplicity, and the work of the Civic Repertory Theater, the Theater Guild and the Provincetown Players were discussed. The last named Mr. Rollins said, are doing dreadful things badly.

There are ripples of laughter from the time the curtain goes up until its fall, he remarked concerning "Strictly Dishonorable," and he was most enthusiastic over Evelyn Laye in Noel Coward's latest play, "Bitter Sweet." The "thrillers," "Rope's End" and "The Subway Express" and the frothy but beautifully acted "Candle Light," were commented on also and "Sons O'Guns," which Pittsburgh had early last month under the title "Carry On," was another play over which Mr. Rollins waxed most enthusiastic as was also "Many Waters," which the Church and Drama Society "saved." The speaker prophesied that "Dark Hour," by Don Marquis, to be produced in the spring would be the play of the century.

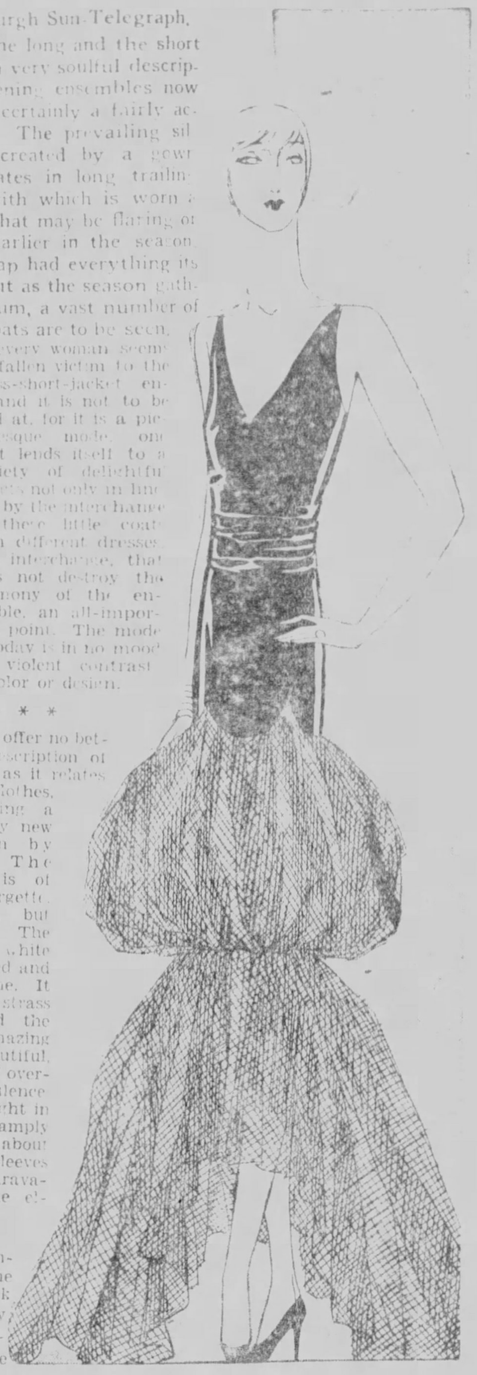
SHORT COATS BEING WORN WITH NEW LONG DRESSES

Sketched in Paris



Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Dec. 3.—The long and the short of it, may not be a very soulful description of the lovely evening ensembles now being worn, but it is certainly a fairly accurate one. The prevailing silhouette is created by a gown that terminates in long trailing draperies, with which is worn a short coat, that may be flaring or straight. Earlier in the season the long wrap had everything its own way, but as the season gathers momentum, a vast number of short coats are to be seen.

In fact every woman seems to have fallen victim to the long-dress-short-jacket ensemble, and it is not to be wondered at, for it is a picturesque mode on that lends itself to a variety of delightful effects not only in line but by the interchange of these little coats with different dresses and interchange, that does not destroy the harmony of the ensemble, an all-important point. The mode of today is in no mood for violent contrast in color or design.

WE can offer no better description of the mode as it relates to evening clothes, than by showing a sketch of a very new ensemble shown by Jacky Rouff. The trailing gown is of heavy white georgette, beautifully cut, but simply made. The short coat is of white panne velvet lined and collared in ermine. It is brocaded in strass and pearls and the effect is both amazing rich and beautiful, without an air of overpowering opulence. The coat is straight in line, and being amply wide, wraps well about the figure. The sleeves flare quite extravagantly below the elbow.

IN marked contrast is the gown in black ... created by Mme Jenny for Mlle Marguerite Templey of the Theater Palais Royal. The upper part is entirely of heavy black satin draped close to the figure, the lower part, puffed in a rather exaggerated but oddly interesting fashion, is of black tulle. The decolletage is "V" shaped both in back and front. To confirm our impression that this is indeed an era of languorous and graceful femininity, Mlle Templey completes the striking ensemble of her costume by carrying a romantic fan of sweeping dimensions.

IT was a large and enthusiastic audience that enjoyed Ruth Breton's magnetic personality and superb technique yesterday when she and her violin appeared before the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club. The great depth and virility of this young woman's tone was apparent throughout her varied program, which included compositions from Lalo's "Symphony Espagnole" to simpler things of Cyril Scott and an old Irish air. Miss Betty Baker was an unusually sympathetic accompanist. After the recital, which was in the Sewickley Theater, Miss Breton was guest of honor at an informal tea in the home of Mrs. Marcus W. Stoner, the club president.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Mary Patricia Dawn, young and beautiful, is in love with Guy Elliott, handsome aviator. Guy is perfecting a plane which old William Bryce is to manufacture. Pat meets Bryce's widowed daughter-in-law and wonders if Guy is intrigued by Barbara's beauty. Bryce sends Tom Burns, a workman, to jail for attempted robbery. Pat has gay times with Lee Templeton, young college student. Pat's father is stricken with pneumonia and dies. The family considers giving up the big house because of the heavy expenses. Guy, hoping to help the Dawns, tries to urge Bryce to manufacture his plane. He learns the old man has lost a fortune. Mrs. Dawn gives her life savings to Bryce to invest. Guy, fearing Bryce may use the money to cover his own losses, tries to recover it. Bryce reluctantly surrenders the bonds, swearing vengeance on Guy. He discontinues financing the airplane factory, but holds Guy to his contract which prevents another concern from selling Guy's plane.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXIII.

THE men were gathered outside the shops. They had ceased working and wore their street clothes. They had a somber, menacing aspect.

The moment Guy entered the foreman approached with a grin: "What's the low down, Elliott? You tell us to keep on working. You're no sooner off the grounds than the sheriff arrives and locks up the place. Attaches the whole works in Bryce's name. Where do WE get off?"

In a cold shock, Guy stared at the shut doors. A man emerged from the group: "Sorry, Mr. Elliott. This is just a technical procedure. Mr. Bryce has no wish to embarrass you."

"No! None whatever!"

"But he has invested an enormous amount of money in this plant. As you have the controlling interest, he must, of course, protect himself."

"And as you undertook to keep the men at work this extra day, despite the written and posted notice, you are, of course, responsible."

"You personally are liable for the wages."

"Are my liabilities any of your business, Mr. Fisher?"

"I'm merely protecting my client."

"If you're protecting Bryce," said Guy, pulling out a check book, "tell him he'll think twice before he shoots his next round—at ME! Because I fire back. And with dum-dums!"

The whole yard heard the threat.

Guy went into his workroom. He cleared out the drawers, tied up blue prints and designs. These were all HIS. Yes—three years of his life buried in them.

And these three years of passionate achievement were now stolen from him. He couldn't use them. Another man could calmly take possession of these three years of his life!

He became almost weak with fury. The black cold wall of his anger grew until he could no longer think beyond it.

One thing only was clear in his thought — William Bryce would NOT be allowed to get away with this outrage.

In this blazing resentment, he dashed off an answer to Carl Brunner. "Tied up with Bryce on the patents. He will release me. In ONE week I'll have exclusive control. Wire details later."

He had no idea how he was going to force Bryce. But somehow, lawfully or otherwise, he would make the man glad enough to release him! He went to the door and whistled. Jim didn't answer. This made him profane. He couldn't endure to have the dog absent when he wanted him.

Again and again he whistled. Half an hour longer he waited. But the workroom became unendurable. It echoed with his hopes; with his fervors—even with the dreams that had often stolen into these working hours—the glimpses of Pat's glowing eyes, the touch of her sweet lips.

He reached for his hat and went out, slamming the door. It was 2 o'clock.

At 4 o'clock that same afternoon—that Monday in October—little Billie Bryce played in the park with his nurse.

The woman sat on a bench with other nurses watching the children as they went down the slide or as they dug in the sandbox.

"I'm a soldier," said the little fellow seriously. "There's my trench over there behind the tree. When I say 'Fire' you have to charge."

Sophie nodded. She was a big, clumsy woman and glad enough when the young soldier finally announced: "Now, I've got to dig in. You don't charge till I tell you."

It was a clear, sunny day but cold. At four-thirty Sophie got up, put her sewing in a bag and called: "Come on now, soldier!"

The boy didn't answer.

Sophie called again. Then she went over to the trench. Billy wasn't there.

Hiding somewhere, of course. Always up to these tricks. A bit wearily, Sophie looked in all the favorite retreats — under the slide—behind the netting of the tennis court, over there in that clump of trees.

A little alarmed now, she began to call very loudly. Another nurse helped.

Finally Sophie became angry. "Billy," she called hotly, "come now! Your mother will be mad. It's late! Billy, Billy—"

The whole park now rang with the frightened call. But no child answered.

The two women turned to each other with white faces and panic-filled eyes. They wasted precious moments creeping under bushes, running again and again over the same ground, shouting the same distracted "Billy, Billy."

It was five-fifteen and the sun was setting. Almost immediately the light began to fade.

"Oh, good God," said Sophie, clinging to the other nurse's hand, "where can he be?"

They went back and forth to the end of the grassy square—out to the street. Their shouting was now a clamor.

"Are you looking for a little boy in a white suit?" a woman came up and asked.

"Yes!"

"I saw him. About an hour ago. He was walking with a man in a brown suit. They got into a gray sedan."

"Did the boy have light hair?"

"Yes. Golden hair, and he wore no hat."

Sophie clapped her hands over her face. Finally, and almost fainting, she asked: "Was it a big gray car?"

"I don't think so—not so very big."

"But you're not sure—it might have been a big gray limousine?" She almost implored the woman to say that it was a big car.

For this might be the answer. Barbara Bryce might have come in her great silver limousine. Perhaps she had become indignant finding the child playing alone . . . and she had sent the chauffeur to get her son. She was taking this cruel way of teaching the nurse a lesson.

Dear God—if only this might be the answer!

Scarcely able to form a syllable, Sophie reached William Bryce's home. There in front of the door was the big silver limousine. She pressed her finger on the bell—rang frantically. She could not steady her hand to use her key.

"Billy, Billy—he's here—you came and got him?" Sophie gasped.

Seeing their wild looks, she dropped swooning to the floor. The terrible news was in their ears. Some one had come to the park and lured their child, their little golden-haired Billy, away.

At about the same hour Pat waited at Mill's Field. It was cold now and she climbed into the cabin of Guy's proud, shiny, new plane. Any moment he would be along.

She felt happy. She recalled the sparkling words of yesterday—"Pat, dear—next week, perhaps, we'll take to the air for the long, long flight. On $500 a month we can do it—not so, sweet?"

She was glad for this resilience of his. Let Bryce do his darndest—he'd never down that tall, shining spirit of her brown and happy lover's.

She wondered dreamily what had happened at the plant this Monday. Bryce had, of course, paid up the week's wages. Perhaps it was all blown over now.

And in any case, there was that other beautiful chance with the Botfield Company.

She sank down, deep and happy in her pleasant speculations. How sweet this dream of hers. Little more than a year ago it had seemed so far, far beyond her wildest hopes. That day when Guy came down like a God from the very skies to her.

How miraculously happy she was that evening.

Pat smiled—dreamily on—her eyes half closed.

Suddenly the motor was started—men were tuning up the plane. She poked her head from the cabin. The mechanic recognized her and said: "Mr. Elliott had orders telephoned from the plant. He ordered the motor tuned up. He'll be here any moment now."

Pat nodded. She listened to the roar and throttle.

Now the sun had set—now the light was fading. Only a short flight tonight.

Now it was almost dark—and then, abruptly, without a word to her, the plane went zig-zag down the field.

He was in the cockpit. She made out his shoulders. She climbed up and touched him.

HIGH NOON

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

PRETTY woman does not watch ole Father Time's clock through the A. M. of life. But at high noon she begins to wish the hands would stand still. Time would fall asleep, and for her at least the brightness of hair and eyes would linger. High noon! She puts on a rosey finger then and crooks it about the black hands of the clock, and waits. But, fragile as they are, steadily they move on under her anxious fingers. At first Gloriette laughs.

Says she, "Heavens—it's only one tee-ninecy grey hair. I've got years and years to go before I'm among the ancient inhabitants. Only one tiny wrinkle at the corner of my eye—and it's a laughing one! I'd love to find out how to keep the clock at high noon, for life's a gay parade then. But even if my rose-leaf complexion gets past the hour, it will be a long time before my spirits are. But, oh lordie, isn't it terrifying to have to grow old!" If Gloriette is "Gertie" she says, "Ain't it fierce!"

The Beauty Salons think they know how anxious Gloriette grows as the clock-hands move on. But nobody but Gloriette's own soul knows what goes on there when the clock stands about the middle of the afternoon of this short little day of life. Gloriette may be no butterfly. She may have a fund of philosophy and humor to help her over the first realization that she can no longer ever be listed among those fresh, pretty things called GIRLS. She may be big of soul, no end sensible. But she has her fright, her bad time, her little bit of rough going when anguish makes her very soul ache. "A gran'mother! That's all right. Nobody wants to be a girl when they are a dear old gran'mother. If I could jump from noon to night I wouldn't mind. But I'd give up ten years at the end if I could use them to stay thirty for that long!"

Is it because this Age adores YOUTH, lays flowers at its shrine, glorifies it, wants it, I wonder? . . . . but, do you know, GLORIETTE isn't the only one. GEORGE is almost as bad! Take up a canvass of all the wives who have heard "George" say, "How old am I, anyway. I am thirty-five? Gosh, I thought I was thirty-four. Are you sure? Well I feel twenty—and I don't look over twenty-five. I never will be an old grouch. It runs in my family to stay young. I mean to be a boy all my life!"

Poor, George, he is trying to hold back the hands of the clock. George doesn't know, or it would make it easier for him, that it is only the youth-SPIRIT in a man that a woman loves. Most men are much handsomer in the afternoon of their lives than ever they were at high noon. Lines in a man's face give it an interest that, alas, they never give to a woman's. At least in her lovers' eyes!

The happiest woman and man, at that uncomfortable three P. M. of life, when they find that the clock will not stand still, and that they as well as the rest of the world, must pass high noon and go on, must some day BE old, and some day even die, is that couple who have a child or children. Who can suffer so much over herself and her years, a silver hair and a wrinkle, when she has a child to adore and dream for? NELL BRINKLEY.

How to Keep Well

Health Plans for a Great Metropolis

ONE of the first studies of its kind ever made was that recently presented by the Welfare Council of New York City. It relates to the future development of the health facilities of the city. This was called a "health inventory" and provided for "100 per cent protection of the entire population."

DR COPELAND

This report covers the proposed work to be carried on by the various organized agencies, clinics, home visiting and health education staffs.

Such an endeavor will, without doubt, be far-reaching in its effect upon the physical and moral life of the people of the entire community. It will tend to promote better health and happiness in the home, the lengthening of the span of life and an advance in every phase of human efficiency.

Among the many promotional lines of health work in any city, none are more important than preventive measures for the care of children. As this report outlines, there will be increased facilities for work with babies, with children of pre-school age and with school children.

The mortality rate shows that of the 70,000 who die in the city annually, 7,000 are babies. Hope for the future of the race can only be assured by the greatest care of the children. The employment of the most efficient methods of preventing disease, of health promotion of infants, and child welfare covering every phase of the field of modern medicine, will lessen this astonishing death rate.

Huge sums have been spent on curative measures. These are of immeasurable benefit, but even more important is the preventive health work outlined by the Welfare Council.

Physicians in their private practice give gratuitously in large measure, not only toward the health of their own patients, but that of the community as well. They are looked to more and more and depended upon because by their skill and knowledge the sick are cured and the community aided by the prevention of future illness.

The health problems of the great population of more than six million people are tremendous. They can be adequately taken care of only by proper co-ordination of all the health agencies with the co-operation of the family doctor.

City-wide health education will be carried on in the schools, the churches, and through the medium of the public press. Parent teacher groups will have great influence in improving health conditions in the homes. This plan speaks well for the future of the city and for the health of the coming generations.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

The Kinellos Start Nibbling at the "Tiger Trap" Bait

WHEN Harry Underwood had gone from the room, obeying the telephoned call from the hotel office, there settled upon the rest of us one of those silences which are described as capable of being felt. The remark flung back over his shoulder that "they think they have a nibble at the bait" brought home to the rest of them, I think as to me, the seriousness of the situation which confronted us. Hovering around this old-fashioned hotel were birds of prey bent upon the life of Prince Georges and perhaps on Mary's as well. The plans for foiling them appeared to be flawless, but I knew the possibilities that something unforeseen might deliver their intended victims into their hands.

We spoke but little, indeed, while he was gone, and when he came back after a long interval our only words were tense queries as to what had happened.

"They're flirting with the bait," he said, "although they haven't taken it yet. You see, the hotel is prepared for anything, and they have arranged a place for me so that I can see anyone who comes in to apply for a room. I have a pretty good line on those fellows, and when one of them appears I am going to signal the room clerk to give him that vacant room next the tiger trap.

"The circus began just after we got in," he went on, after a pause. "A well-dressed young chap came in, asked for a room, registered, and—what the hotel people were looking for at my suggestion—took an extra long time to write his name. He evidently was checking up on our party, the numbers of our rooms, and so on. When he was taken to his room he said he didn't like it, tried to pick a quarrel with the room clerk, refused any other room and departed, having served his mission. He'll never be seen around here again."

"You have us all registered under our right names" Princess Olina asked with a little gasp.

"Not you and Prince Georges," Mr. Underwood returned with a gallant little bow. "You are registered as Miss Lincoln and Mr. Jackson, which are no disguise at all to the men hunting you. Nor do I want them to be. Purposely I have left a trail as wide as the proverbial barn door, and they appear to be finding it."

"Is there someone up there now?" Princess Olina asked with a little shudder.

"Yes, but he isn't the fellow we're laying for," Mr. Underwood said more patiently than he usually submits to questioning. But I knew that the innate chivalry of the man was intrigued by Olina's plight. "He's just another one coming in to spy out the land. The clerk sent for me because he asked for a balcony room high up. Now, of course, that's a most natural request—they're the charm of the old place—but still I want to see everyone who makes such a request. And the minute I lamped this foreign-looking chap I put him down as one of their lookouts. They are altogether too foxy to keep the real killer around here any longer than is necessary."

Olina shivered again, and I saw that Mary's face was colorless and strained. That Lillian saw what I did I realized when she spoke to her husband peremptorily:

"That's enough creepiness for one day," she said. "Are you leaving that fellow up there alone?"

"As far as his room is concerned, yes. The house detective is behind a bureau in ours watching the balcony to see what the new lad will do. I'm going up now and play sleuth myself. I have a peephole between the two rooms which even the house detec-a-tive doesn't know about. Oh, I'm some boy, I am!"

He strolled out nonchalantly, having himself loosened the tension his inadvertent reference to the killer had caused. We were all laughing at him as he left us, but after a bit the Princess Olina put another question.

"Isn't there danger for Mr. Underwood up there now alone?" she asked.

"Not a bit now," Lillian answered cheerily, and I wondered how much she was stretching the truth. She would have given the same answer, I knew, if she had known that her husband faced the danger of death in his trip to the "tiger trap."

The telephone rang again and I answered it.

I repeated the message to Lillian.

"Have them send it up," she said, and when the letter had come she looked over at me after a hasty perusal and signaled me to come into her room, a signal that between us meant that there was an urgent message for me.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

The Ring Bearer

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it proper to have a ring-bearer at an informal afternoon church wedding?

2. Should a little girl or boy act as ring-bearer?

3. Are decorations necessary for such an occasion? If so, what should compose decorations? A READER.

THE ring-bearer has gone somewhat out of fashion and one never sees a ring-bearer now in a well-planned cosmopolitan wedding. However, it is correct to have one if you wish. But don't you think that ring-bearers add a too theatrical touch to a wedding, especially an informal wedding?

2. The ring-bearer is usually a boy.

3. It is not necessary to decorate for a wedding, if the bride prefers not to. If decorations are desired, palms and some other greenery may be used as a background for, say, the autmun leaves or chrysanthemums or any other kind of flowers of large form.

Mourning Notes

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Is it proper to immediately notify a small circle of friends by a simple hand-written note when some one in the family has passed away?

2. What kind of paper should be used? CLAIRE.

YES, such a note is the best of form. Plain white letter paper, the double-sheeted kind, is in perfect taste. "Mourning paper" black bordered, is not much used nowadays, and the plain white variety is beyond criticism.

A Helpful Diet

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. When eating a food cocktail, soup or dessert, should the spoon be rested in the cup containing the food or on the flat plate used as an underlining?

2. When there is no underlining plate and the sherbet cup is set directly on the table, is it then proper to leave the spoon in the cup? MELISS.

REST the spoon on the plate underneath.

2. Yes, then there is no alternative.

An Introdutcion

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When a man is introduced to a young lady, should he shake hands or just bow? JOY

HE SHOULD not shake hands unless the lady extends her hand. The gentleman always waits for the lady to make the first move as to handshaking.

Usually both bow and say, "How do you do?"

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, December 4

ACCORDING to the planetary configurations in force this may be a day of perturbed conditions, with affairs generally agitated and confused. There will be activity enough but complications and perplexity are in attendance, and there may be loss or unwelcome expenditures of funds especially in new ventures.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of activity but one of possible turmoil and confusion. There may be intriguing or treacherous conditions, especially in new projects, and the finances are in jeopardy.

A child born on this day will be clever and active but may have to make many adjustments to meet success in life.

FINN AND SLADE WEIGHED AS HITTERS

TREASURER SAM DREYFUSS, of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club, in company with President-Manager Wade Killefer and Vice President Victor Klinker, of the Mission club in the Pacific Coast League, left this morning to attend the minor league convention scheduled to open in Chattanooga, Tenn., tomorrow, and local fans will await with interest the outcome of their conference with Manager Jewel Ens on the proposed sale of Second Baseman Mickey Finn and Shortstop Gordon Slade to the Pirates by the Missions.

Jewel Ens

Killefer and Klinker, as announced in the Sun-Telegraph, came to Pittsburgh yesterday, informed Pirate officials they had learned new infield material was desired here, and asked if the Pittsburgh club would be interested in a deal for Finn or Slade, or both, on cash terms. The Buc bosses said they would put the matter entirely up to Manager Ens, and accordingly Treasurer Dreyfuss, Killefer and Ens will hold a conference during the Chattanooga meeting, at which time a decision will be reached.

IF Ens wants either or both players, in the belief that the acquisition would give the Corsairs greater strength around the midway than they are at present able to boast, a deal probably will be closed at once. The Pirate skipper's decision will hinge on what he thinks of the batting possibilities of Finn and Slade.

Both players are admittedly good fielders, but whether either could hit up to requirements against big league pitching is a question. It is believed Ens will choose Finn as the better bet if he decides to take either man. Mickey is the best second sacker on the Coast, and according to Bull Brown, local umpire, who has worked in that circuit, is also smart at the plate.

LAST Saturday's unsuccessful tussle with Notre Dame did not end the season's work for the Army football team, as the Soldiers have yet to make a trip to the Pacific coast for a game with Pop Warner's Stanford team at Palo Alto, Cal., on December 28.

That will be the final game for two of the most prominent figures in the history of football at West Point, as Biff Jones is to retire as coach and Red Cagle, one of the greatest halfbacks in the country in recent years, will be making his farewell appearance as a player.

Biff Jones

WARNER personally scouted the Generals during the battle in New York last Saturday, so the Old Fox is certain to have his Stanford team well schooled to meet the Army's plays. Last year he brought his Cardinals across the continent and swamped the Cadets in New York, 26 to 0. The fact that the Army is making the long trip to the Coast for the first time shows a vast change in football conditions at West Point. Time was when the Soldiers left home only once in a season, that for the game with the Navy in Philadelphia or New York. But this year they went to Cambridge to meet Harvard, to New Haven to play Yale, to Urbana to oppose Illinois, to New York to tackle Notre Dame, with the Coast trip to follow.

ELEVEN players died from injuries suffered in football games during the season for which the regular schedules have just been concluded. Two of the fatalities occurred in this section, the victims being Frank Murphy, 16, of Pittsburgh, and Elmer Drury, 21, of McKeesport.

The others fatally hurt were Percy Lee, Mississippi College; Chester Torgerson, 23, Luther College; Alfred Serdin, 14, Perth Amboy; Russell Savanage, 16, Pittsfield (Mass.) High School; George Haddad, 19, Washington; Thomas O'Shea, 18, Passaic High School; Charles Haymer, 17, Jasonville, Ind.; James Stevens, 13, Saratoga Springs, and Alexander Robb, Jr., 19, Collingswood, N. J. With the exception of 1926, when nine players were killed, this year's total is the lowest since 1913. Seventeen fatalities occurred in 1927, and 18 in 1928.

NOTRE DAME will be hard hit in a football way by graduation. No fewer than six star regulars of this year's great team will be lost before another season arrives, those who have finished their college gridiron careers being the fleet-footed halfback, Jack Elder, hero of the Army game and leading scorer of the team, Jack Cannon perhaps the best guard in the country; Capt. John Law, guard; Tim Moynihan, center; Ted Twomey, tackle, and John Colrick, end.

Jack Elder

This means the sweeping away of almost the entire set of forwards, and the great line that has been such a huge factor in the team's success. Starting at left end, five men in a row will be lost, leaving only the right tackle and right end. But leave it to Knute Rockne to come up with a new flock of stars. He rarely fails. Notre Dame breeds 'em, apparently.

LANCING at six different Sunday newspapers, the reader's eye was greeted by these glaring headlines: "Elder's 100-Yard Run Beats Army"—"Elder's 99-Yard Run Wins for Notre Dame"—"Elder Sprints 98 Yards to Victory"—"Elder's 97-Yard Run Lets Irish Triumph"—"Elder Makes 96-Yard Run"—"Elder's 95-Yard Run Defeats Army." Seemingly there was a slight difference of opinion in the press box. Continued headline reading might have eventually led the reader to conclude that Elder had been thrown back over his own goal line.

ACCORDING to Ned Brown, of all the gifts and souvenirs received by William Muldoon at the testimonial dinner in his honor on the occasion of his 85th birthday anniversary, the one that pleased him most was a blackthorn walking stick that had once been his own property and that carried a lot of prize-ring history.

The blackthorn was brought to this country originally from Ireland by New O'Baldwin, heavyweight champion of his land in his day. O'Baldwin turned it over to John C. Heenan when the latter claimed the championship, and Heenan next gave it to Muldoon himself when the latter was the world heavyweight wrestling champion. Muldoon presented it to Joe Coburn when Joe was at his fistic peak, Coburn gave it to Tom Gould in 1884. And now it has come back to Muldoon.

AS a result of the extra strain placed upon goalkeepers by the new hockey rules, the Pittsburgh club, among others, is considering the advisability of carrying an extra net guardian, and one of the candi-

BUCS CRIPPLED FOR TILT WITH MAROONS

MONTREAL, Dec. 3.—The Montreal Maroons, traveling at top speed, rule heavy favorites to defeat the crippled Pittsburgh Pirates in their National Hockey League game here tonight.

Harold Darragh and Herb Drury, two of the veteran stars of the Steel City squad, were absent when the visitors arrived here today. Darragh is out with two cracked ribs and a facial infection, and Drury has a broken hand. In view of the fact that Darragh is one of the main cogs in the Pirates' starting front line, and Drury the key man in the offense of the second front line, the Maroons anticipate little trouble in stopping the attack of the invaders.

MAROONS IN TOP FORM

In two of their last three games the local puckmen have taken the measure of the Boston Bruins and Ottawa Senators, respective leaders of the American and International Groups of the National League. They appear to be hitting on all cylinders and they have driven to within three points of the circuit lead.

Every member of the Maroon squad is in fine form, and they are confident that they can repeat the 5-2 triumph which they scored in Pittsburgh's opening game of the season.

HAWKS NEXT FOR BUCS

At the finish of their game here, Manager Frank Frederickson will hustle his Bucs back to Pittsburgh for their meeting with the Chicago Hawks at Duquesne Garden Thursday night. The Pirate pilot reports that he expects Darragh to be back in the lineup by that time. The probable lineup for tonight's game:

Pirates	Pos.	Maroons
Miller	G	Hebenton
McCaffrey	R.D.	Duncan
MacKinnon	L.D.	Boucher
Fredericksen	C	Stewart
White	R.W.	Selbert
Miller	L.W.	H. Smith

Sparks, Pirates; R. Smith, Lowrey, Barton, Jarvis, Biden and Manners, Maroons; Ward, Northcott, Phillips, Robinson, Trottier, Munro and Wilcox.

MACK GIVES UP THREE A'S FOR MAHAFFEY

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, today announced he had sent Jimmy Cronin, shortstop; Walter French, outfielder, and Steve Yerkes, pitcher, to the Portland, Ore., club.

They go to Portland in exchange for Leroy Mahaffey, star right-handed pitcher, who came to the world champions a short time ago from the Portland club.

Mack also announced he had sent Newhall Morse, an outfielder, back to the Des Moines club.

RIEGELS BEST ON COAST

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Roy Riegels, California captain and center, who last year made his famous gridiron dash—in the wrong direction, this year overcame as great a mental handicap as any player has labored under to smash his way through a spectacular season. He has been named the popular choice of the field in The Associated Press all-Coast team.

Three University of California stars and as many from the University of Southern California won places on the 1929 all-Coast eleven. St. Mary's, Stanford, Oregon, Washington, and Washington State each placed one man. More than 20 sports writers, coaches and officials from all parts of the Far West aided in the selections.

The selections follow:

FIRST TEAM.

Ends—Tappaan, Southern California, and Muller, Stanford.
Tackles—Ackerman, St. Mary's, and Colbert, Oregon.
Guards—Schwarz, California, and Bargar, Southern California.
Center—Riegels, California.
Quarterback—Difficth, Southern California.
Halfbacks—Lom, California, and Hafford, Washington.
Fullback—Schwartz, Washington State.

Ends—Norton, California, and Ebding, St. Mary's.
Tackles—Schwegler, Washington, and Christensen, Oregon.
Guards—Shields, Oregon, and Hansen, Washington State.
Center—Heinecke, Stanford.
Quarterback—Saunders, Southern California.
Halfbacks—Stennett, St. Mary's, and Moffatt, Stanford.
Fullback—Smalling, Stanford.

HOPPE HERE FRIDAY

Willie Hoppe, famous billiard player, will appear in exhibition games Friday afternoon and night at the Ellis Recreation parlors in Diamond street. He will compete with the best local cue stars in balkline and three-cushion matches.

SKIBO SQUAD LEAVES ON SATURDAY

By JESS CARVER.

The football situation is well in hand over at old Carnegie Tech's pride and joy, proud of their record against New York University, Thanksgiving Day, began practice on the snow-covered gridiron of the Tartan Bowl yesterday afternoon for the game with Southern California in Los Angeles. The Skibos have five more days for work at home, as they entrain Saturday night for the long journey westward.

A week ago few would have given a dime for Tech's chances of doing anything spectacular against either N. Y. U. or Southern California. Now the situation is just the reverse. The Skibos looked so good taking New York, apparently having found the right combination, that it is the opinion of the best critics that it will be a real ball game on the Coast.

The boys will drill daily in the Bowl, even staging a workout Saturday afternoon, the day of departure.

JUST A THOUGHT

Harry Stuhldreher, the astute young coach at Villanova, is a chap given much to the arduous task of thinking. At a fanning bee (one of 10,234) in the Pennsylvania in New York last week, he got the floor away from Bob Zuppke and came out with the following chatter.

"College football in the future is going to be a two-team affair. The public almost demands it. You have to develop an offensive team and then work out a separate defensive eleven. I'm planning to do this at Villanova and I think other schools will have to do the same thing if they are going to get by . . . both from a standpoint of color and playing success."

The idea may not be o. k., but you must give Harry credit for doing a bit of thinking.

IT WAS 99

No two writers agreed on the yardage covered by Jack Elder in his touchdown dash against the Army. Some said 98, some 95, some 96 and others 100. This correspondent called it 99, and the movies of the game showed that Jack had leaped from just behind the goal and that his left foot came down on the one yard mark.

Just a boost for the local boy.

Detroit, Michigan Relations Renewed

DETROIT, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Officials of the University of Detroit and Michigan State College agreed last night to continue athletic relations and the Detroit eleven will play Michigan State at East Lansing again next year.

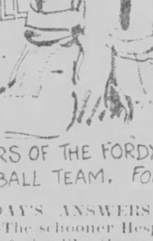
Announcement of this attitude was made after officials of the athletic departments of the two schools had conferred in the office of Charles E. Dorais, athletic director of the University of Detroit.

Sutherland Guest At Huntingdon

Dr. John B. (Jock) Sutherland, University of Pittsburgh football coach, will be among the honored guests at a banquet to be given the members of the Huntingdon High School football team tonight at Huntingdon.

FLYNN LEASES ARENA FOR SUMMER

Pittsburgh will have an open-air arena for professional boxing next summer, under an arrangement just closed between Francis Flynn, proprietor of Flynn's gymnasium and promoter of the boxing shows at the Moose Temple last winter and this, and the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., of the North Side.



Francis Flynn

Under the contract, which consists of a four months' lease, Flynn will stage weekly shows in the open-air arena of the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C. on the lot adjacent to its clubhouse in California avenue, North Side. The arena will seat upwards of 4,000 persons and can be enlarged if necessary. It was used for amateur shows last summer.

EVIVES OUTDOOR SPORT

There has been no open-air professional boxing in Pittsburgh in years, due to a lack of facilities. The new Meyers Bowl, at North Braddock, was a huge success last summer, most of the Pittsburgh fans flocking there for Monday night shows.

Flynn also announced today the signing of Irish Kane, formerly of Cleveland, a well-known trainer and second of boxers, as manager of his gymnasium, effective at once. Kane has handled Billy Wallace and other famous mittmen and it is believed he will prove quite an asset to the local quarters. One of his proteges, Jack DeNeri, of Cleveland, has been signed to box Young Angelo, of Swissvale, in the semi-

HORWEEN STAYS AT HARVARD

CAMBRIDGE, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Arnold Horween, head coach of the Harvard varsity football team since 1926, has agreed to return next season, which promises to be one of the brightest in the Crimson's long gridiron history. It was understood that William B. Bingham, director of Harvard athletics, had no great difficulties persuading Horween again to drop his Chicago business interests for the fall of 1930. During the past three years, Horween has never accepted Bingham's reappointment offer with such promptness.

During Horween's four years, Harvard has won 17 football games, lost 13 and tied two. He established his own system when he assumed control and this, according to Director Bingham, has resulted in an improvement each season.

Horween will have Benjamin Ticknor, of New York, as his team leader next season. This brilliant center, whose play during the past season entitled him to all-America team consideration, was elected captain yesterday afternoon when the players who participated in the Yale game, sat for the official team photograph.

FREEMAN STOPS MANLEY IN FIFTH

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

They grow their citizens tough in the hard coal region around Wilkes-Barre, Pa., but hardly tough enough to stand up under the two-fisted lacings that welterweight punchers like Tommy Freeman, who hails from Erie when he loses and is claimed by Cleveland when he wins, hand out. And that is why the customers went home early at Motor Square Garden last night, for Freeman was in there with Jack Manley, of Wilkes-Barre, in the scheduled 10-round main bout and it was so one-sided that Referee Al Graybet finally signaled for Tommy to cease firing after two minutes of bar-punching in the fifth round.

Manley, a nice, light-haired, young fellow, stated when no one else could be induced to take on Freeman here, proved to be just a game, willing and durable lad. Round after round he took everything Freeman jolted at him which was plenty, and kept coming back for more. He was not out his feet once in the battle, if such it could be called, but he was rocked badly a number of times and just before the end was bleeding from the nose and a cut over his right eye. The crowd was beginning the demand that something be done about the slaughter when the referee did the proper thing, halting it.

Freeman weighed 148 pounds and Manley was a pound heavier.

EDWARDS STOPS BEATTY

Two of the preliminaries also ended in technical knockouts, and with seven of the eight bouts in the preceding two shows in the Garden ring resulting similarly, this gives the East End arena a total of 10 such finishes in its last dozen fights, something of a record.

AMATEUR BOUTS TONIGHT

The Twenty-seventh Ward A. C. stages another of its indoor amateur shows tonight in St. Andrew's Lyceum Hall, North Side. The card of bouts follows: 112 pounds, Tony Manny vs. Jackie Wilson; 118 pounds, Joey Leonard vs. Billy Hatch; 126 pounds, Johnny Hazel vs. Joey Gaudy and William Kemper vs. Marty Flaherty; 135 pounds, Jackie Leonard vs. Young Marino and Chuck Mullins vs. Larry Sims, and 175 pounds, Lincoln Page vs. Tony Bassone.

Eddie Shea boxes Young Montreal, King Tut meets Joey Kaufman and Jimmy Hackley battles Lou Terry at St. Louis tonight. Pete Sanstol boxes Sammy Farber in Brooklyn. Joe Monte and Jack Gagnon clash at Portland, Me. Nick Testo meets Gorilla Jones at Akron and K. O. Christner takes on Les Kennedy at Los Angeles.

Between Rounds

Chet Smallwood, of Akron, knows Mark Twain, of Detroit, in the semi-final to Testo-Jones bout at Akron tonight. Jack Jordan and Patsy Perone are in another bout on the same card.

Joe Reno, of Trenton, N. J., has been substituted for Chesaya Lee as Herbie Freeman's opponent at Erie Friday night. Freeman also is booked against Bermondsey Billy Wells, of England, at Minneapolis next Tuesday night.

DICKENS VICTOR

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Perr Dickens, Milwaukeean who holds the National amateur three-cushion billiard title, last night came through the first hump of a challenge match with a 50-to-31 victory in 19 innings over Max Stimson, of Milwaukee, Western champion. Two more blocks remain to be played. Dickens' high run was 5 and [illegible].

MANLEY BOWS TO FREEMAN

one of those light-haired young fellows, fought a plunking, right against Allen Beatty, Negro, of McKeesport, in the scheduled eight-round semi-final, during which Allen about tired ring commanding until the latter finally tired and also became sick from the body pounding and crumpled down in a heap after 2 minutes 50 seconds of the fifth round. He was through for the evening and the referee did not even bother to count over him. It was a fairly close fight until the final round, which was an interesting one, too. Boards weighed 151½ pounds and Beatty 150¼.

Andy Anderson of the East End boxed Frankie Moran in a six-round semi-final, the only battle over the limit. It was a rang tooter, each American fighter scoring a knockdown. Moran weighed 138½ pounds and Anderson, a welterweight, 144½.

BALINT SCORES KNOCKOUT

Red Hartley, South Side redhead, had little trouble in the six-round opener when the referee, Red Robinson, had to stop the bout to save him from further punishment with only [illegible] seconds to go in the third round. A count would have enabled him to go the route, but he was trying to weather a [illegible] storm on his feet and couldn't get his hands up to protect his face and was in danger of serious injury and the announcer acted wisely. Hartley started off like a whirlwind, carrying the first two rounds, but Balint rocked him with a right to the jaw in the third and was out in front over the remainder of the distance. Both weighed 128 pounds.

Al Gravley and Red Robinson alternated as referee. Only a fair-sized crowd turned out. It was announced that Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, and Farmer Joe Cooper, of Terre Haute, Ind., will be the main-boaters next Monday night.

LEIFIELD MADE A. A. PILOT

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 3.—(AP.)—The first of several prospective managerial appointments was announced today at the Minor League Baseball Convention when R. J. Connery, president of the St. Paul club, announced that his American Association Club would be managed next year by Albert (Lefty) Leifield, former Pirate pitcher. Major League scout and last year manager of the Oklahoma City Club of the Western League.

GRID LEADER

WILLIE DAVIES EASILY WINS OVER HUAT

TORONTO, Dec. 3.—Willie Davies, Charleroi Tom-tit, defeated Le Gros Huat, of France, on points in a 10-round flyweight contest at the Coliseum here last night. The bout was scheduled for 10 rounds, the fourth round of the elimination series for the world championship.

It was a thrilling fight with Davies [illegible] on the receiving end, [illegible] courage coupled with superior ring generalship pulled him through and he won handily. For the first four rounds he had the Frenchman [illegible], refusing to let him get set. In the second round Davies met his opponent with two rights to the jaw in quick succession. He quickly repeated the performance and riled the [illegible] faced Frenchman, who retaliated with a series of rights to the body. It was apparent to all that Davies was hurt.

It was the minimum of ease with which he was able to come out of dancer that puzzled Huat.

WILLIE LOSES SEVENTH

Huat took the seventh round by a narrow margin when he gave his opponent a thorough lambasting. In this round Davies took a punch to the kidney and slipped to the floor, but did not take a count. His courage brought him a great ovation from the 10,000 spectators. After the seventh, Huat never was in the picture. While he landed often he missed more and always appeared foolish. In the last round, Davies rushed from his corner sparred for a second and then let go twice. The blows were effective, but Huat, cornered, came back and had him in the ropes only to watch his prey duck away to safety. The judges gave Davies six rounds, Huat two, with two rounds even. The weights were Davies 111½, Huat 112.

ANDREWS WINS

Heavy Andrews, clowning welterweight of Erie, Pa., dropped a close six-round bout to Patsy Pollock, of Winnipeg. Smiling in the thick of the melee, with blows raining on him thick and fast, Andrews, by his sportsmanship, took the crowd's fancy. He preferred to wait and beam on his opponent, who was all business. However, whenever he landed, the blows hurt the Winnipeg boy and made him wince. The Erie boy's best round was the last when he landed six in a row to the jaw and then commenced to toy with Pollock.

RODGERS REPEATS KAYO

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa., Dec. 2.—Any doubt of Jackie Rodgers, of Pittsburgh, having the high sign on Carl Cavelli, of Canton, O., was removed here last night in the Junction Park pavilion when the Negro clouter knocked the Italian cold in the second round of their scheduled 10-round fight. Jackie's victory demonstrated that the fight in the Moose Temple in Pittsburgh a short time ago, in which Rodgers won by a knockout in three rounds, was no fluke.

In the first round, Rodgers jabbed Cavelli all over the ring and had one eye in bad shape. In the second, the Pittsburgher cut loose with a terrific attack and caught Cavelli with a hard left that sent him to the canvass. He came up at the count of nine, only to be met by a driving right and the show was over.

Bus Hardy, of Beaver Falls, added to his laurels by taking the decision from Jackie Coogan, of Canton, O., in the semi-final of six rounds. Coogan started out strong, but Hardy cut him down and won with a whirlwind finish that had the Youngstown fighter in poor shape at the end of the scrap.

An accident brought the second fight to an early end. Johnny Morgan, of Beaver Falls, and Billy Holt, of Canton, were going great guns in what looked like a real scrap when, after 2 minutes 27 seconds of the opening round, Morgan slipped to the canvass and had his left shoulder dislocated. Morgan was tied up as he was delivering a left jab and his shoulder slipped out.

Young Sapienza, of New Castle, and Andy Geant, of Erie, mixed in a good six-round bout that ended in a decision for the New Castle lad. In the curtain-raiser Joe Berze, of Massillon, knocked out Johnny Canney, of Aliquippa, after 45 seconds in the fourth round.

GERVEL KNOCKED OUT

PALUSO VICTOR

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Emil Paluso, of Salt Lake City, won a newspaper decision over Jackie Sharkey, of Minneapolis, in a 10-round bout here last night. Sharkey weighed 119 pounds, Paluso, 117.

IRISH WELCOMED HOME

PACELLI STOPS CARPENTIER IN FIFTH

NEW CASTLE, Dec. 3.—Romeo Pacelli, featherweight sensation of this city, won by a technical knockout from U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, in the fifth round at the Jolly Bowl last night. The bout was scheduled for 10 rounds. In the earlier rounds Carpentier, a clever ringster, jabbed Pacelli freely.

Pacelli was fighting cautiously all the time. He opened up in the fourth and fifth. Near the close of the fifth Pacelli caught Carpentier on the ropes with a series of rights and lefts, knocking him to the floor. Carpentier's seconds threw in the towel, stopping the bout.

Wildcat Auskings, of Mt. Vernon, O., and Louie Severio, of Meadville, fought a vicious six-round draw in the semi-final, and Frankie Bobarski, Erie, won the decision in six rounds from Frankie Bands, New Castle.

CRAWLEY BEATS GIZZY

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Tommy Crawley, of Pittsburgh, captured the decision over Battling Gizzy, of Washington, Pa., in a close 10-round battle of junior-lightweights here last night.

Johnny Vascher, of Wheeling, and Harry Spencer, of Washington, Pa., fought six rounds to a draw, and Joe Walcott, of Washington, Pa., Negro, beat Paul Oger, of Akron, in six rounds.

BANOVIC TOPS OLIN

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Joe Banovic, of Binghamton, N. Y., gave Bob Olin, hitherto undefeated Brooklyn light-heavyweight, a sound trouncing in the 10 round feature bout at the St. Nicholas arena last night. It was Olin's first reverse in 19 professional engagements. He went down for a count of two in the fifth round. The weights: Banovic 173; Olin 172½.

Andy DiVodi, of Harlem, stopped Jackie Phillips, of Toronto, in the second round of the semi-final, the referee halting the uneven struggle. DiVodi weighed 146; Phillips 143.

BASS STOPS SPANIARD

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Benny Bass, Philadelphia, scored a technical knockout over Jose Martinez, Spain, in the fourth round of their scheduled 10-round bout at the Arena last night. Bass weighed 128; Martinez 128½.

A short right to the jaw that sent Martinez reeling helplessly around the ring caused Referee Leo Houck to end hostilities and award the decision to Bass.

Phil Zwick, lanky Cleveland featherweight, won the decision over Joe Marciente, New York, in the 10-round semi-final. The decision was unpopular. A left hook to the jaw in the first round sent Marciente down, but he bobbed up quickly and tore into the slender Clevelander with both hands. He opened Zwick's left eye and split his lip in the second.

Zwick sent Marciente reeling across the ring with a right to the jaw in the sixth. The New Yorker put up a great battle, and many fans believed he should have got no worse than a draw. Zwick weighed 125½, and Marciente 126¾.

PETROLLE KAYOED

VOQUERO BEATEN

Cooper Dropped From P. G. A. Title Play

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—J. A. Patterson, in charge of the Professional Golfers Association championship, in progress here, after a telephone conversation with Alec Pirie, Chicago, president of the organization, last night announced that the name of Charles Guest, Los Angeles, will remain on the list of qualifiers in the medal play, while that of Harry Cooper, Buffalo, will be dropped.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Alec Pirie, president of the Professional Golfers' Association, after long distance telephone conversation with officials of the National P. G. A. championship tournament at Los Angeles, last night said that under the California interpretation of the rules, Charley Guest, of Los Angeles, might be considered to qualify for the tournament as California pro champion, but that he had not altered his stand in ordering Harry Cooper, of Buffalo, disqualified.

Fight Results

At Motor Square Garden, Pittsburgh, Erie welterweight star, defeated George Manley, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., in the main bout. Referee Red Robinson stopped the bout in the fifth round. Manley was down for the count of nine in the second round. Freeman weighed 144½ pounds, Manley 144 pounds.

At New Castle, Romeo Pacelli, featherweight sensation of this city, won by a technical knockout from U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, in the fifth round at the Jolly Bowl last night. The bout was scheduled for 10 rounds. In the earlier rounds Carpentier, a clever ringster, jabbed Pacelli freely.

At Toronto, Willie Davies, Charleroi Tom-tit, defeated Le Gros Huat, of France, on points in a 10-round flyweight contest at the Coliseum here last night. The bout was scheduled for 10 rounds, the fourth round of the elimination series for the world championship.

At New York, Romeo Pacelli, featherweight sensation of this city, won by a technical knockout from U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, in the fifth round at the Jolly Bowl last night. The bout was scheduled for 10 rounds. In the earlier rounds Carpentier, a clever ringster, jabbed Pacelli freely.

NEWTON, Mass., Dec. 3.—(INS.)—Loyola University, of Chicago, will battle Boston College for the first time in 1930, according to the Eagles' schedule for next year, made public today.

TOPORCER CASE UP TODAY AT CONFAB

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Baseball shoved football out of the sports picture for four days at least, when the hosts of the minor leagues gathered in their annual meeting. The National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues holds its first session tomorrow, but the ball was started rolling yesterday when the National Board of Arbitration, the supreme court of minor league baseball convened.

BOARD MEETS TODAY

The board of arbitration meets again this afternoon when the appeal of George Toporcer, of the Rochester club, of the International League, will come up, with the appellant appearing in person to ask a review of the action of M. H. Sexton, president of the National Association, in suspending him from organized baseball for one year. Toporcer was fined $200 and suspended as the result of a disturbance he is alleged to have created during the Little World Series at Rochester. Billy Southworth, manager of the Rochester club, was fined $500, and he joins in the appeal to the board. Southworth, too, is in Chattanooga for the hearing.

At the first meeting of the board of arbitration, J. Alvin Gardner, Wichita Falls, Tex., was elected a member of the board to succeed the late J. Doak Roberts, who died recently while serving as president of the Texas League.

WINTER LEAGUE OUT

The California Winter League applied for membership in the National Association, but withdrew the application. It was found that it could not qualify under the constitution of the National baseball body, said J. H. Farrell, secretary-treasurer of the association and chairman of the board.

The board adopted a new rule Number 15, in which it declared it would not recognize a claim presented by any person acting as scout for a member club of the National Association unless a written contract between the club and scout should be filed with the secretary of the association.

GENEVA BOOKS BUCKNELL FOR '30 AND '31

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Dec. 3.—Graduate Manager A. C. Edgecombe, of Geneva College, has announced a change on the Covenanters' 1930 football schedule which was made public a week ago.

A two-year contract with Bucknell University has been signed, according to Edgecombe. The contract takes the Geneva eleven to Lewisburg in 1930 and specifies a return game at Beaver Falls in 1931.

To make room on the already full Geneva schedule for the 1930 year, the game with St. Vincent's College has been moved to Saturday, September 20. The game with Bucknell will be played in Lewisburg on September 27. The date of the 1931 game in Beaver Falls, has not been arranged.

The complete [illegible] Geneva [illegible] as follows: September 20, St. Vincent's, at Beaver Falls; September 27, [illegible] at Lewisburg; October 4, St. Francis, at Beaver Falls; October 11, [illegible] at Grove City; October 18, Duquesne, at Beaver Falls; October 25, Grove City, at Beaver Falls; November 1, [illegible] at Lancaster; November 8, Westminster, at New Wilmington; November 15, [illegible] at Waynesburg; November 22, [illegible] at Beaver Falls.

EXHIBITION CARDED.

Keystone Athletic Club members are withdrawing from a three-cushion billiard match between William J. Greenwood, former champion, and Harry Rosher, [illegible] night beginning at 8 o'clock in the K. C. billiard parlors.

CITY EMPLOYE FINDS RELIEF IN KONJOLA

Lifelong Pittsburgh Resident Turns to New and Different Medicine for Run-down Condition.

Wherever Konjola, the new and different medicine, is known, there are to be found men and women, of all ages, and in all walks of life, who are eager to tell what Konjola has done for them. Konjola has made and kept more than a million friends, simply by making good.

The splendid success of Konjola is partly explained by the fact that this new and different medicine is actually made up of 32 ingredients, 22 of which are blended from the juices of roots and herbs, the medicinal value of which has long been known to science. Each ingredient has its work to do, and does it, while all work together in the process of cleansing and stimulating the ailing organs, and sweeping the system free from the accumulated poisons and impurities. By striking at the very cause of the ailment, Konjola never stops at mere temporary relief. As an example of Konjola in action, here is the case of Mr. Daniel Fitzgerald, an employe of the City, and a lifelong resident of East Liberty, a suburb. Meet the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, and have him explain the merits of this new and different medicine. Have him tell you of the cases of thousands of men and women who were restored to new and glorious health through Konjola. Talk to him, ask him to explain the merits of this new and different medicine, let him show you how a few of the thousands of men and women, many of them in your own city and vicinity, have been restored to new and glorious health through Konjola. Mr. Fitzgerald said, just the other day, to the Konjola Man:

"I wish everyone to know of my experience with Konjola. A liver weakness of long standing, which had been brought on by neglect, resulted in a constipated condition which I had tried for years to relieve. I was subject to continuous and annoying headaches, which made my work almost impossible to perform. My tongue was heavily coated, and my breath was always unpleasant, and my food tasted badly. My back pained me considerably at times, and I lost weight and strength. I was badly run down, nervous, and worried over little things. I did not sleep as I should and had become discouraged.

"I began taking Konjola and the results were more than I had dared hope for. Before long my liver began to function again, my bilious condition gradually passed away, and constipation disappeared entirely. The tired and worn-out feeling has passed, and I have regained all my old strength and energy. I sleep well again and my stomach is in the best of condition. I suggest that every person run-down as I was, become acquainted with this new and different medicine, Konjola."

Thus Konjola works in case after case. No matter how stubborn the ailment of the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels, and of rheumatism, neuritis, and nervousness, they have all yielded to this new medicine, Konjola.

The Konjola Man in Pittsburgh is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, where daily he is meeting the public and explaining the merits of this new and different medicine. Konjola is also sold at all Dow Drug Stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

SMOKE TALKS
by the DUTCH MASTERS

Aside to the ladies: Yes, we know that hubby has plenty of money to buy his own cigars. But some day, why not give him an unexpected present of a box of Dutch Masters? You know how you feel when he remembers to "say it with flowers."

Yes, there are men, "who simply cawn't abide anything but an imported cigar," or read anything that isn't "literatoor." But what do we care, as long as there are millions of honest-to-goodness regular fellows, who smoke Dutch Masters and read the sporting page every day?

* * *

The man who loves a good cigar need never be lonely. He can carry a whole crowd of jolly good fellows in his vest pocket.

MORRISON LEADS NATIONAL P. G. A. TOURNEY

CHAMP DIEGEL IS SECOND IN MEDAL PLAY

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Stroking his way through the most brilliant competitive round ever hung up for the Hillcrest Country Club course, Fred Morrison, tall Los Angeles pro, posted a 65 yesterday afternoon for a total of 136 to capture medal honors in the 36-hole qualifying round of the 1929 Professional Golfers' Association championship.

Off to a steady start in his first 18 with a par 71, Morrison cut loose with a dazzling brand of golf in the afternoon round that chopped six strokes off perfect figures for the course. Ten birdies and an eagle in the 36 holes brought the Midwick Country Club entrant medal honors over one of the finest fields ever assembled for the big event.

DIEGEL TRAILS

Four strokes behind the leader came Leo Diegel, of Agua Caliente, Mexico, defending champion and pretourney favorite to repeat for his title. Diegel covered the rolling golf layout in 71 in the morning and trimmed the card by two strikes in the second round for a total of 140.

Walter Hagen, five times P. G. A. ruler, twice national open champion, and present British open titleholder, barely worked his way into a tie for thirty-second place. His 149 enabled him to share last place with William Mehlhorn, New York; Henry Ciuci, Mill River, Conn.; Al Houghton, Rockville, Md., and Waldo Crowder, Kirtland, O.

HAGEN FALLS DOWN

Hagen had a 70 for his morning round, but on the afternoon stretch his putter failed completely and he turned in a card of 79.

Johnny Farrell, of New York, qualified at 148. Two prominent members of the clan failed to meet the test of Hillcrest. They were Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., and Tom Kerrigan, New York. Dudley had a 78-72—150, and Kerrigan turned in 75-77—152.

Survivors started today in 36-hole match play, with the final on Saturday. Yesterday's summary:

This boy is Art Brooks, who tended goal last season for the Philadelphia Company team, champion of the local amateur league. He made a splendid record among the simon pures, and his friends believe that if given a chance he might in due time make his mark in the professional ranks.

Art Brooks.

SPEAKING of goal-tending in hockey, Manager Frankie Frederickson, of the Pirates, has a complaint to file. Frankie is not attempting to make any alibis for the defeats suffered by his team, but contends that they would have a better record to their credit at present if the new rules had been more strictly enforced by the officials in the Pittsburgh club's games. The new regulations permit players to skate ahead of the puck and take forward passes in the attacking zone, but they provide that these skaters must play the puck and must not interfere with the vision of the goalkeeper. The rules say that offenders shall be penalized for interference. Frederickson says that opponents of the Pirates have repeatedly blocked the view of Goalkeeper Miller but that these infractions of the rules have been continually overlooked by the officials. With his own men observing the regulations, the local pilot says they are placed at a disadvantage, and he will ask the league officials to order a strict enforcement of this rule as well as all others.

SOCCER FANS PLEASED WITH LOCALS' WIN

By TOM BIRKS.

The winning of the National cup soccer game at Cleveland by the Pierpoint Motors from the Shamrocks was a source of gratification to the fans in this district who have been bemoaning the passing of the Heidelberg club.

When the suspension of the National amateur champions was officially announced this column plainly stated that if any club did make a showing in the interstate National games, it would be the wearers of the Blue and White of the Pierpoint entry.

And when the news came to Pittsburgh that the Motors eleven had downed that hard fighting Irish outfit, the fans were pleased. It has been a long time since Heidelberg defeated the Shamrocks in the National amateur, and that was the last victory of any Pittsburgh soccer club in the Forest City.

The Shamrock outfit last year had an eleven that played the slam-bang type of soccer, and the locals had a tough afternoon winning their game. So, with the expectancy that the Clevelanders had just as good a club this season, by virtue of being so far advanced in the National Cup, it was figured that the Pierpoints were in for a tough afternoon.

MARSHALL BRILLIANT

According to reports, Marshall, the Pittsburgh goalie, was in superb shape and made some brilliant saves. This also went for the Cleveland custodian, Campbell. Cleveland goalkeepers usually have a field day when our clubs are down there.

Much comment was passed regarding the refereeing of the game. It is a most unusual fact, but when Cleveland teams are in Pittsburgh we get an out-of-town referee. But Pittsburgh clubs have yet to get an out-of-towner when playing in Cleveland, and the Pittsburgh delegation, even after the game was won, made many caustic remarks regarding what the Shamrocks pulled off without the referee seeing.

Johnny McCosky, former star inside left, of Heidelberg, played in the Pierpoint front line and teamed up well with Jimmy Moremen and Kirk. McCosky, however, is the type of player who fits in with any club. Moremen was bumped around plenty in the game, the Shamrock backs evidently marking him out to stop his goal getting runs. While Jimmy scored the winning goal, he also missed three shots from close in.

Do Western Pennsylvania soccer teams want the substitute rule? Since the National convention finished its session in Cleveland last June there have been many arguments regarding the admitting of the substitute rule into the National cup ties, both open and amateur.

The old-country followers of the game naturally are opposed to the change, and in the games so far this season, no manager has taken advantage of the rule, which allows him to place other players in his lineup without waiting for an injury.

NO SUBSTITUTES USED

In the game at Cleveland on Sunday, neither team used substitutes, and there certainly must have been some weak spots in each lineup. The Pierpoints had three players in uniform sitting on the side lines, ready to rush them into the fray, but the move was not made.

Another angle to the Cleveland game was the poor crowd. The Pittsburghers barely came through the game with expenses, which of course, totalled around $350. Ohio officials and fans are always harping on the big gates in the Forest City, and this big gate has never materialized except once, and that was on the first visit to Cleveland by the Heidelberg club, when the locals took three special trains of fans along to the game. In fact it took its own share of the gate. Every other game, from the money angle, has been a dud in Cleveland. The Ohio city has about 4,000 capacity, and after expenses have been paid, little is left to share for the clubs.

The Morry Fintex quintet got away to a good start in the Allegheny County League when it staged a whirlwind finish to upset the Charleroi Lions, 46 to 23, in the crowded Duke gym last night.

A deluge of baskets from the hands of Sammy Klateman, Harvey White and Lou Reilly, last-period substitutes, brought about the sinking of the Lions, who had put up a valiant battle. Nate Lippe's playing in the first half was greatly responsible for his team's 18-11 end at half-time, the Lions having led, 9 to 7, at the end of the first quarter.

In other league games played last night, the South Side Falcons tripped the Community Five, 36 to 28, in a West Penn League contest; Irene Kaufmann Settlement toppled Trinity Cathedral, 35 to 21, in the Central League, and Pittsburgh Railways lost to Philadelphia Company, 31 to 21, and Duquesne Light nosed out Sales and Service, 24 to 23, in Philadelphia Company League games. KNICKER FIVE SIGNS SHRODE

By JULIUS LEVIN.

Sill Shrode, star guard of the Knickerbockers, West Penn League champions last season, will be back in the Strippers' lineup tonight when they meet the Penn Five of Sharpsburg in a league encounter at Forresters Hall.

Shrode was a running mate of Ducky Hill last winter and the two played a prominent part in giving the Knickers the West Penn League championship. The veteran did not intend to play basketball this winter, but finally decided to rejoin the Knickers.

Manager Kennedy, not disheartened by the two defeats suffered by his team last week, is confident his Knickers are about to strike a winning pace. They meet a formidable rival in Penn Five tonight.

A battle for first place in the West Penn League takes place tomorrow night when the Ray Schneiders clash with the South Side Falcons.

DRIBBLES

Dad Rogers will take his Allentown Turners to Duquesne tonight where the Hilltoppers meet the champion Lafayettes in a County League battle. Gyp Wunderlich will jump center for the Lafayettes. The former Pitt star has made a decided impression in his early workouts.

Monk Ketchel should enjoy his best season with the Goldensons this winter. The veteran and rugged pivot star has shown brilliant form in the early-season sessions.

Layton to Defend Title in New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(INS.)—The world three-cushion billiard championship tournament will be played here from January 3 to 10, it was announced today.

Layton is leading Welker Cochran, 100 to 80, at the end of the first two blocks of their 600-point match here.

BASKETBALL RULES QUIZ

PLAY NO. 8.

Kendall, of Cornell, is injured on a personal foul by Freeman, of Yale, and is forced to leave the game immediately. Skull is sent in as the substitute for Kendall and the Cornell captain points to another player to attempt to shoot the foul goal.

What is the correct ruling?

ANSWER.

The referee rules that when a player is so injured that he must leave the game his substitute only is eligible to attempt the free throw.

W. P. I. A. L. TO MEET TODAY

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 3.—Greensburg High School will present its claim for championship honors at the meeting of the Syracuse Cup Committee of the W. P. I. A. L. today prepared to defend any possible charges made that three Greensburg players were ineligible during the past season and who, it was reported, would be protested.

The players to be protested, it was understood, were Anthony D'Angelo, a guard, who was barred shortly after the opening of the schedule by the reason of his reaching the age limit; Cox, star tackle, who was to be accused living here when his legal residence is elsewhere and Brinkley, fullback and high scorer of the team, who, it is said, will be protested on account of his age. Local school heads say they have ample proof that two of the gridders mentioned are eligible while the other was barred as soon as he reached the age of 20 years.

Clairton High officials yesterday denied they would protest any Greensburg players, while Rochester school men said they had not so far lodged any protests, but preferred to await developments at the meeting today.

KID WOLFE WINS

DUKE QUINT OPENS SEASON ON MONDAY

The Duquesne University basketball team will not make a local appearance until two days after Christmas although the passers open their season Monday night with Iowa University at Iowa City as the first of a difficult 27-game season.

Coach Chick Davies has plenty of new and veteran material from which to draw this season's squad and the Red and Blue quintet should prove of the same high order as the successful gridiron representatives, a number of whom have reported for basketball.

With the Iowa game on the ninth and Loyola University of Chicago scheduled in the Windy City for the eleventh, Elmhurst College at Elmhurst, Ill., is the last of three games comprising the Dukes' Western trip. Adrian College will be the first floor team to appear in the Bluff gymnasium, showing on December 27.

Capt George (Ganzy) Benedict, who was elected to succeed Jock Rosenberg, the heaviest loss to the floor team through graduation, reported for practice yesterday. Benedict did not wait to enjoy a rest following his football labors, but pitched into the indoor game at once. Brud Stevens, Joe Vernon and Ben Lubic, stars of last year's campaign, also were on hand yesterday.

A. M. A. Title Swim Meet Draws Stars

Judging from the list of entries received and the interest displayed, there is a strong possibility that several records may go by the board in the swimming championships of the A. M. A., A. A. U., under the auspices of the Keystone Athletic Club in the K. A. C. tank Friday night.

In one event alone—the men's 100-yard free style handicap—40 entries have been received, indicating the exceptional popularity of this event and insuring a great race.

NEVER in La Palina's history, extending over 30 years, has Nature produced cigar tobaccos as fine as those grown in 1928.

In keeping with our policy, millions of dollars were invested in the best of this 1928 leaf. Then we stored it, conditioned and mellowed it—to perfection.

And now we are blending it—rich, full-flavored leaf—into the coolest, mildest, most fragrant cigar you have ever puffed on.

Already America's largest selling high grade cigar (Over a Million a Day), La Palina is more luxurious than ever. Try one. The difference is instantly apparent.

A request to have the city put Elliott street in a passable condition has been submitted by S. P. Kilbarger, of 11 Elliott street.

E. Dracowski has asked Council to order the construction of a boardwalk on Sedan way, Twentieth Ward.

Dentists Warned Of Gold Robberies

CHARLEROI, Pa., Dec. 3.—A warning to dentists in the upper Monongahela Valley district was given by state police following robberies in Fayette County. Three dental offices in Uniontown were entered over the week-end and gold valued at $300 taken.

Three months ago the thieves broke into offices at Monongahela, Monessen, Donora and Charleroi, escaping with $700 worth of gold. At that time police warned authorities to be alert for a young girl carrying a small valise.

Court Puts Limit On Cost of School

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 3.—In the suit of M. W. Larkin against the Board of Directors of the Washington School District, to restrain the board from erecting a new high school on the Highland avenue site, the court refused an injunction, but stipulates that the cost of the site, buildings and equipment must not exceed $900,000, the amount of the bond issue.

"Don't call it Luck,"

says ELINOR GLYN

Famous Authority on Romance

Elinor Glyn

Helen M— is eating her heart out, poor child, because she's so "unlucky." There have been six weddings among her friends and she hasn't even one beau. "Miss Glyn," she writes, "really, I am as good looking as these other girls. Can it be their clothes? Yet I buy the same styles as they do and pay just as much—"

DON'T call it luck, Helen. Undoubtedly these girls know something that you don't—they know that the thing about clothes that has the greatest appeal for men is color. Psychologists tell us that color affects the emotions more than any other factor in dress.

Designers of fabrics know this and so every fabric is the result of careful study. As long as its intensity, its balance, is not upset or diminished, color will work unfailingly on the emotions.

But there is a famous product that is especially made to take out dirt without disturbing the colors at all. That is the well-known Lux.

If a color is safe in plain water alone, Lux will preserve all of its original magnetism.

Believe me, Helen, Lux has literally brought romance into the lives of many thousands of girls.

Luxed 12 times (Above at right)—Unfaded, "live," vibrant as the day it was bought—all the shades in this silk print sing together in the happy magnetism of color.

New Increases in Dividends Break Record

By B. C. FORBES

ALL records for extra dividends, forms of improved distribution were broken and many records established for this country.

Cheering news and declarations followed. The comparison with November of last year was startling.

For the first time this year the total of favorable dividend declarations has been 1,362 against 1,241 for the corresponding period of the year and 906 last year.

The prospect is that December will bring an equally wonderful distribution showing.

This year's dollar disbursements have come largely from industrial enterprises. The railroads show an increase over last year of only three such announcements, public utilities show a gain of 38 while the industrial increase has been no less than 620. Industrials have made 644 extra payments this year, against 472 last year, 464 initial payments against 348, 307 stock dividends against 106, and 203 increases against 127.

No sooner had misfortune overtaken the stock market than influential boards of directors began distributing dividend largesse. More than one directorate deliberately refrained from taking stimulating dividend action while stocks were booming wildly, because they did not agree to add fuel to the Wall Street flames. Now they do not hesitate to place into the hands of stockholders some part of their unnecessarily large surpluses.

TO illustrate the confidence shown by leading corporations in their own strongly entrenched position and in the outlook, it is worth while noting the more important concerns that announced more generous dividend disbursements last month.

HALSEY THINKS WORST OVER

C. D. Halsey, of the New York Stock Exchange firm of C. D. Halsey & Co., is in Pittsburgh today visiting the local offices of the company. Mr. Halsey stated that undoubtedly the worst is over in the stock market and that while he looks for a trading market for the next few months, anyone who buys good stocks now for the long pull will profit greatly.

Mr. Halsey said: "The aggregate income of capital and labor should not be appreciably lower in 1930 than in 1929. In previous stock market crises, incomes went off sharply, large corporations passed their dividends and employment declined considerably. Every indication for next year is that dividends will be maintained at their present rates or increased and wages and salaries will remain at approximately the present levels because industry will continue to move ahead."

The ANTI-FREEZE with 950,000 users

It won't evaporate - No replacements - One filling lasts all winter

THOUSANDS of motorists are bullied by their cars all winter. They fear a freeze-up. They put in anti-freeze but it evaporates. They keep running for more solution. They worry every time they park their cars in the open or in an unheated garage.

Last year 950,000 motorists learned a better method. They tightened cooling systems, put in one filling of G.P.A. Radiator Glycerine and said good-bye to freezing worries for the entire winter.

They knew glycerine couldn't evaporate. It won't boil off.

They were safeguarded for the season, not only against freezing, but against the worry and bother that ordinary anti-freeze solutions cause.

G.P.A. Radiator Glycerine offers the same dependable protection for your car this year. It meets all the U.S. Bureau of Standards requirements of a perfect anti-freeze. It has no odor, will not harm the car finish nor attack the cooling system.

Glycerine Producers' Assn.
45 East 17th Street, New York City

950,000 Motorists used it last year!

Think of the worry and trouble G.P.A. Radiator Glycerine saves. Put in one filling. Then park your car when and where you like all winter without a thought of freeze-up worry.

Laugh at freeze-ups

Your anti-freeze won't evaporate

You see them all winter. Cars frozen-up and steaming in spite of the fact that an anti-freeze was used. Why are they still in the freeze-up class? Because the anti-freeze evaporated and left them without adequate protection. G. P. A. Radiator Glycerine can't evaporate. Its protection lasts all winter.

Won't evaporate. Put it in now.

Get full benefit of G.P.A. Radiator Glycerine's lasting positive protection. The sooner it's in your car the sooner your protection starts — and it lasts all winter anyway. Just follow the instructions on the can. Get it from your garage, or from any dealer displaying the G.P.A. sign.

OIL INTERESTS MUST CURTAIL OUTPUT

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—The basic problem before the American Petroleum Institute, now in convention in Chicago, is a technique for limiting output of oil to conform to consumption.

Numerous approaches to such an economic balance have been made in recent weeks, especially in California and Oklahoma. But in rationalizing the process of their industry, the oil men have not been nearly as successful as the copper executives. Perhaps the basic reason for the difference lies in the fact that copper production is in the control of a handful of corporations, whereas oil output is scattered widely under the sway of thousands of uncordinated individual drillers.

As the voluntary proration of oil output is being tested, drafts on the oil in storage are being made in the Seminole area. Sentiment appears to be growing in Oklahoma for the unit drilling of oil wells along scientific co-operative lines, as long advocated by Henry L. Doherty, president of the Cities Service Company.

PRODUCTION CUT

As a result of restraint voluntarily placed on over-production in recent months, the leading oil companies will show a far more satisfactory earnings record for the year than the statistical position of the industry would suggest. Most companies are expected to show a distinct improvement over last year.

These newer movements to coordinate industrial activities are at variance with the spirit which prevailed in the country at the time the Sherman act was passed in 1890. The Hoover conferences at the White House, among competitors and others, are more in harmony with the new impulse to substitute rational co-operation for the anarchy of blind competition. In some quarters a demand is arising for a restatement of the anti-trust laws in the light of changing conditions and public opinion, but a spokesman for the United States Chamber of Commerce indicated that three out of four business men were satisfied to leave the laws as they are.

CARS SPEEDED

John J. Bernet, president of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway and operating officer in the Van Sweringen system, has made a notable contribution to railroad technique in being a leader in speeding up the movement of freight cars. This new pace in freight movement has had a healthful effect on the general credit structure.

"No one could compute accurately how many hundreds of millions of dollars the faster movement of freight has contributed to industry," Mr. Bernet pointed out. "Every mile added to the daily average movement of freight cars is the equivalent of adding 100,000 cars to the total equipment of the country. The increased efficiency since 1920 has, in effect, added 500,000 cars. Roughly speaking, this has been the equivalent of $750,000,000 of new capital: $45,000,000 on the cost of such new capital; $30,000,000 for depreciation charges, and $75,000,000 in repair charges.

"All that money has gone back into the industrial, commercial and individual prosperity of the country. The reduction in the turn-around-time of the average freight car has saved shippers at least $50,000,000 in interest charges. How many hundreds of millions of new capital and how many millions in interest charges have been saved by reducing the necessity of carrying unnecessarily large stocks of goods, nobody actually knows.

"All this has been the contribution of the railroads to our national prosperity, which they, in turn, rightfully have shared."

The Class 1 railroads, even if there should be a slump this month, will close the year with larger net earnings than ever before in the history of the country. That is what Mr. Bernet had in mind in speaking of the railroads' share in the fruits of prosperity.

CURB ON BANKS

In recent years the mutual savings banks have had competition from new quarters, especially from the thrift departments of commercial banks and from building and loan associations. In his report on the City Trust Company failure in New York, Commissioner Moses urged that the laws be changed so that state commercial banks and trust companies, operating thrift departments, be required to conform to the same requirements in handling such funds as the savings banks. The public has perhaps been led to assume that compound interest received from commercial banks was different from what the savings banks offer. As a matter of fact, the savings banks are surrounded by more legal safeguards, and in most instances offer a higher interest rate.

In his report of the City Trust Company, Commissioner Moses, alluding to savings deposits, said:

"The failure of the City Trust Company would have been impossible if the greater part of its deposits had not been in the form of savings and thrift accounts. Only a bank having numerous small long-term accounts deposited by people who have little contact with the bank or interest in its operations could have undergone the manipulations which went on in the City Trust Company."

ROEBUCK-PENNY MERGER HINTED

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—(INS)—Rumors current in Chicago's financial circles today indicated that negotiations were afoot between Sears, Roebuck & Company and the J. C. Penney Company to bring about a $300,000,000 merger, forming the largest merchandising firm in the United States.

Realization of the reported merger would bring together two of the largest chain retail store organizations in the country. Sears, Roebuck & Company, besides being the leading mail order house, is also among the foremost retail merchandise distributors, with its 300 branch stores in various cities.

The J. C. Penney Company is reported to have the largest chain of departments stores in the world, with 1,200 stores under operation. Its annual business for this year is estimated at $200,000,000.

"I do not know the details of the negotiations," said Julius Rosenwald, chairman of the board of directors of Sears, Roebuck & Company. "The other officers are trying to work them out. They generally work out a plan and come to me for approval."

Crude Production Higher for Week

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 3.—Daily average production of crude oil in the United States for the week ended November 30 totaled 2,632,717 barrels, an increase of 5,365 barrels, according to the Oil and Gas Journal. Light oil output increased 13,346 barrels daily.

SEARS, ROEBUCK SALES GAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Sears, Roebuck & Co. report sales for the month of November totaled $43,846,273, as compared with $36,171,914 a year ago, an increase of $7,674,359, or 21.2 per cent. Sales for 11 months were $389,233,100, against $304,539,742, an increase of $84,693,358, or 27.8 per cent.

Gen. R. E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck, issued the following statement with reference to reports of a pending merger between his company and the J. C. Penney Company:

"The executives of the two companies have not discussed any basis of merger whatever, but have been investigating whether there would be any economic advantages to be gained from a merger."

To THE MAN WHO BRINGS US LIGHT

We mean the electrician—the man who wires our house, strings electric wires and cables through the streets, tends motors and dynamos, and does the thousand-and-one things that provide us with unfailing light and power. In the city of Pittsburgh, a small army of some 3,000 electricians are required to maintain the electric light and power systems, and provide needed extensions.

Many of these electricians are already depositors at the Mellon National Bank. To those who are not, we extend a cordial invitation to make use of the bank's facilities, and to open a checking account.

MELLON NATIONAL BANK

"ALL YOUR BANKING UNDER ONE ROOF"

If YOU'VE HAD BAD LUCK IN THE STOCK MARKET HAVE "GOOD LUCK" AT HOME

Now, even when brokers are broke, when you know that a crash can be more than a noise, that a bear does something other than growl, be diligent in your judgment of prices and values. A good tip is to buy Jelke "GOOD LUCK" Margarine at about half the price being asked for an expensive spread-for-bread. "GOOD LUCK" quality is always at par, pays regular cash dividends in the savings its use brings, and big extra dividends in a delightful flavor that all enjoy. Put in your order with your dealer to buy now—compare it with an expensive spread-for-bread—you can't tell which is which.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stock Rise Broad — Local Market Is Quiet

STOCKS STAGE BROAD SWEEP UPWARD

Easier Credit and Hoover's Optimistic Message to Congress Help Advance

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—The stock market, after an irregular opening, engaged in a broad upward price movement today under the influence of easier credit conditions and the optimistic survey of business conditions by President Hoover in his message to Congress.

Gains in many of the active issues ran from 2 to 10 points, with even larger advances in a few high priced specialties. Trading increased on the rally, with blocks of 5,000 shares, or more, again making their appearance at frequent intervals.

The advance, which embraced practically all leading groups of stocks, was one of the most extensive since the market hit bottom in the middle of last month. "Bear" traders, who had been selling stocks freely in the last fortnight, rushed to cover as large buying orders appeared for a varied assortment of investment and speculative issues, some of which again showed signs of pool activities.

RESTORES CONFIDENCE

President Hoover's declaration that there had been no inflation in commodity prices, that foreign trade expansion steadies industry and employment, and that the agricultural situation is improving, together with his pronouncement in favor of railroad consolidations and against the government operation of Muscle Shoals helped to create bullish sentiment, and restore confidence. The day's business news, while meager, was generally favorable.

The rush to buy stocks started soon after extracts of the President's message began to appear on the financial news tickers. Reports that call money, which renewed at 4½ per cent, was being freely loaned in the outside market at 4, also helped to stimulate the demand for stocks.

WIDE GAINS MADE

Auburn Auto ran up 30 points. Laclede Gas 15, American Tobacco B 10, and Warren Bros., Missouri Pacific, common, Air Reduction, Allied Chemical, J. I. Case, Foster Wheeler, Wabash, General Electric, American Machine and Foundry, American Tobacco B, and U. S. Industrial Alcohol all sold 6 to 9 points above yesterday's final quotations.

Among the long list of issues to be marked up 4 points, or more, were National Biscuit, Underwood Elliott Fisher, Western Maryland, Murray Corporation, Atchison, North American Company, American and Foreign Power, American Water Works, Sears Roebuck, American Can, Otis Elevator and Worthington Pump.

STRONG AT CLOSE

The highest grade industrials were in demand in the late upward movement which carried most of the popular shares from 4 to 10 points beyond the preceding close. Much of the rise was due to a revival of public buying and the professionals also took the long side of the market with confidence, at least temporarily.

General Electric, the American Tobacco, Standard Gas and Electric, Air Reduction and J. I. Case, among others, were 9 to 10 points higher.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(AP.)—Curb Market stocks achieved the most noteworthy progress in several days today, as operators for the advance were encouraged by the failure of bearish pressure during the first half hour of trading.

Gains were for the most part moderate, however, and the market remained largely a professional affair. The public was still apathetic, despite the fact that leading shares were able to break out of the narrow trading range of recent sessions.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond lists):

Auto Makers to Have Severe Competition

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

NEXT year will be one of the most competitive periods in the history of the automobile industry. This is the opinion of many motor trade and financial men in all of the organizations specializing therein with that trade.

There are those who have hope for 1930 duplicating the record production of 1929. The consensus of opinion is that activity in the early months of the new year will be considerably below that of the corresponding months of 1929.

Judging from the results so far this year about 5,400,000 automobiles will be made in this country. This will compare with 4,358,779 cars made in 1928. While it is possible that the latter part of 1930 may see a marked change in conditions, conservative estimates place the probable 1930 production of cars nearer to the 1928 total than to that of the present year.

Ford Competition

THERE are so many unknown factors entering into next year's automobile business that such an estimate may be far from right, but if the new year's output is about equal to that of 1928 competition will be far more severe than last year. This will be due to the change in Ford's position.

In spite of the fact that 1928 was about 1,000,000 cars behind the production expected for this year, it was more profitable for many of the automobile makers due to the fact that Ford was out of the market.

Ford is making changes in his models but it is unlikely that he will have any such difficulties in getting into production as he had following the last change. There is a greater degree of flexibility in his operations at present than there was after years of making the old Model T with only minor changes in design.

Fight For Markets

FORD is likely to be a big producer in 1930. He is making his changes in design early enough for him to be in full swing for the spring business. Makers of other low priced cars have felt the effects of his return this year in spite of the fact that total sales broke all records.

If next year is marked by curtailment in buying to the 1928 level Ford will offer very serious opposition to other companies. Not only will motor car makers have to absorb the loss in sales but they will feel increased competition in the low priced field.

Strong Position

IN one respect the automobile industry is in an exceptionally favorable position. The growth of its markets has been so rapid that it never has surplus production for any very long period and its times of depression are not of great duration. While business conditions may hinder motor car sales for a while, a good rate of general employment always puts the public into a position to buy cars on an increased scale.

The motors are in better condition to withstand a brief space of exceptional competition than most other industries. A study made by the National City Bank of New York shows that cash assets of 41 automobile companies were 23 per cent of their total assets as shown by the last published balance sheets. Not counting Ford, who includes securities, receivables and patent rights with his cash assets, the ratio of cash assets to total assets was 19 per cent.

Capital and surplus of the 41 companies were 75 per cent of the total assets. This showed the large part of the business that has been financed by stockholders' investment. Only 12 per cent of the investment consisted of funded debt.

KILLS FOE, THEN SHOOTS SELF

SHREVEPORT, La., Dec. 3.—AP.—Climaxing an alleged enmity that had existed between them for several months, Verus Morgan, 30, Shreveport attorney, fell dead and killed Marmaduke Ward, 56, prominent local business man, at Ward's residence late last night.

Morgan then went to a street intersection a few miles away and sent two pistol shots through his own head. He was taken to the Highland Sanitarium in a critical condition.

Miss Iva Mae Miller, dinner guest of Ward, incurred a flesh wound in the right leg. Mrs. C. E. Poindexter and her 6-year-old daughter also were dining with them.

According to John Alford, Ward's Negro chauffeur, Morgan crashed through the glass of the front door into the living room. He was said to have fired one shot as soon as he entered the house.

Morgan then ran to the entrance room and opened fire upon Ward with a 45-caliber automatic pistol. The two men were less than three feet apart, it was said. Ward was shot five times.

UNSCRAMBLE THESE ANAGRAMBLES

DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d" to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

PALACES OF SIN: Ruth Willmore, the Michigan Beauty, is invited to attend a supper at the home of a wealthy widow. The author, fearing what may happen, seeks to protect the young and innocent girl, but he is a little puzzled as to the best way to proceed, as he has not made her acquaintance. So he dispatches a note to her uncle asking leave to act as protector. For his trouble he received the following reply:

Dear Sir:—I appreciate your modest manner in letting your invitation to Mrs. G.'s party to my Niece come through me, but I am pained to inform you that my Niece will attend the party with Senator A.'s son, Alonzo.

Yours truly,

WHY PITTSBURGH IS GREAT
Its Public School Plan Is Unexcelled Anywhere

Railroad Makes Clear Its Stand on "Plan Z"

The Pennsylvania Railroad has issued a statement concerning its attitude on the two plans, "Z" and "T," submitted to Council as a means of caring for the traffic of Penn and Liberty avenues and Grant street as it will exist when the streets are altered in connection with the building of the proposed $20,000,000 passenger terminal here. It is an interesting statement throughout, particularly in its revelation of the number of millions the Pennsylvania estimates the ultimate cost of this desirable improvement to reach, "in excess of $20,000,000," according to the statement.

The principal idea of the statement is to make clear the company's attitude on the traffic plan. While the official explanation makes no complaint, there is evident in it a feeling that the company is being placed in a false light in not favoring the more expensive and more efficient "Plan Z" and that the great expense it is now going to should be sufficient answer to that.

An impartial observer, of course, will be able to see some justice in the railroad side of the matter. It states that the original agreement with the city did not contemplate any such extensive improvements as now are projected, its plans providing merely for the closing of Liberty avenue for a distance, with the railroad widening Spring way as compensation. It is stated that the more elaborate plan, that of closing Spring way also and widening Penn avenue, as compensation, was suggested by the city.

The implication is that the city should be satisfied with that, since the acquisition of property to bring the enlarged plans to completion will cost the company "at least $6,600,000." The actual value of the land to be deeded to the city—six-tenths of the whole—is stated to be $3,960,000. This in addition to $1,453,000 in land given for widening Liberty avenue and Grant street, a total of $5,413,000, which is stated to be "an excess of $2,341,000 in value of the streets to be vacated and revert to the railroad company."

Following the issuance of the Pennsylvania's statement, L. W. Monteverde, chairman of the special committee which submitted the majority "Plan Z" and minority "Plan T" and an authority on downtown real estate values, made public a statement taking issue with the railroad's figures.

Referring to the figures for Grant street, etc., $2,341,000, he states that valuation is of today and not as of 1925, which he states it should be. "Therefore," the statement adds, "after checking the figures of original 1925 values, the railroad actually contributed in the values an excess land given over for streets $906,820 instead of $2,341,000, or $1,434,180 less than it claims to have contributed. It may be noted in passing that that amount would approximately cover the cost of producing the "Z" plan.

We can find much in the railroad statement that we can sympathize with. Our major contention is that "Plan Z" is far superior to "Plan T" and that the city is justified in asking the railroad company to help in making possible its adoption. There will be an advantage to the city in having this terminal and it is right that the city should co-operate, as it has done, to make it possible. Since the railroad doesn't object to "Plan Z," except as to the matter of cost, we still think it would be to its advantage to help to construct it. If it cannot see its way clear to do so, we shall not hold it to have assumed an obstructionist policy, and shall accept at full value its exposition of its reasons for its stand.

Nevertheless "Plan Z" is so much the better idea that we feel that the railroad could afford to make a sacrifice, if necessary, in order to have it established, rather than one that would surely be detrimental to access to its $20,000,000 passenger terminal.

Buying Vote Machines Matter for Prudence

A valuable and timely suggestion is that made by the citizens' voting machine committee, still carrying on although the fight for the machine has been won, that the County Commissioners proceed slowly in the purchase of machines. The impossibility of properly redistricting the county in time for the May primary is one of the reasons why the committee does not believe it would be wise for the commissioners to plunge headlong into buying vote machines at the present time.

Another factor is that of desirability of the machine to be adopted. With a number of makes available, the committee prudently takes the stand that the interests of the county and the voter will be served best by buying (or renting, if that be possible) small numbers of each type of such machines as are approved by the state, under the voting machine act, and making tests by actual operation in service before the county definitely commits itself to spending a huge sum for any particular device.

The suggestion appears most reasonable and sensible. First there is the exact number of voting districts to be taken into account. Then wisdom directs that the best type of machine for our particular need be adopted. Makers of all naturally make claims of superiority and it is just that their claims receive impartial consideration. Efficiency, of course, is the first requirement. Then there is the matter of reliability of the maker and its standing as a going concern. It would be tough for the county, after a few years, to find itself with a lot of machines out of order and no manufacturer to fall back on.

One could find many reasons why the county should proceed cautiously in this matter, and the committee, in pointing out some of them, does so in a commendable spirit of helpfulness.

Forty-Nine Million Dollars!

Here, without adjectives, are the facts:

In 1929 the City of Pittsburgh spent approximately $8,000,000 on public improvements.

In 1930 the City of Pittsburgh will spend $16,000,000 on public improvements.

In 1929 the County of Allegheny (of which Pittsburgh is a part) spent slightly less than $14,000,000 on public improvements.

In 1930 the County of Allegheny will spend $33,000,000 on public improvements.

And $49,000,000 is just a drop in Pittsburgh's bucket. When a borough, a town, a city or a county spends one dollar for improvement a private company spends two to keep the pace.

Those millions will be divided into many piles and slipped into envelopes.

And each Saturday night workmen will line up at the paymaster's window and receive their envelopes—wages for putting up the bridges, boulevards, buildings, streets, river terminals, rail terminals and perhaps subways that will take shape in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County in 1930.

And those workmen will spend those millions in Pittsburgh, won't they?

PADLOCK THE ATTIC

By Herbert Kaufman

THE late Dean Johnson, of New York University, delighted to recite the story of a reporter on the Springfield Republican, who so exhausted the hyperboles of vocabulary in his eulogy on a Patti concert, that Sam Bowles told him to withdraw a few headline superlatives and keep them handy in case the Pope should decide to drop into town.

Marvels are crowding upon marvels at such a lickety-split rate that news begins to find itself in that young man's predicament.

The phrases that should have been preserved for amazements like Byrd's sub-Arctic flight, have been squandered so often on lesser achievement, that they now fail to furnish printers' ink with a thrill commensurate to the event.

THE real significance of Byrd's exploit does not lie in reaching the South Pole but in reaching it by aeroplane and under the most hazardous conditions—in attaining his objective through the use of precision and meteorological instruments, whose perfect working vindicates the claim that aviation is entering the kingdoms of safety and exactness.

And in the knowledge that soundly constructed flying machines, using proper appliance and directed by expert pilots, are as trustworthy as marine and land vehicles.

The expedition's ability to maintain unbroken communication with base headquarters, even while traveling through the magnetic areas also disperses any doubt that radio has surmounted its most difficulties.

SHAKESPEARE let Puck speak out of time when he prematurely drew a girdle around the world—it waited upon Marconi's invention to do that.

And, despite the hesitancy of some local wizards to endorse Dr. Robinson's discovery of ethereal routes, over which five thousand, instead of twenty-five, stations may broadcast without interference, the day is on the calendar when telephony will entirely dispense with wires, and an explorer at the headquarters of the Amazon will find it easy to connect with his home in Melbourne or Madrid or Manhattan as you talk between apartment and office.

Nobody knows what's in the air, but the glimpses we have caught of its contents, urge legislative caution in concluding irrevocable contracts for its use.

Prediction draws no long bows when we are warned that the Hertzian waves will eventually be transformed into illumination and motive power, that they will soon drive all locomotives and automobiles, move all factory equipment and even replace the Zeppelin's gasoline tanks.

NOT billions but quintillions worth of unapplied forces are insurging through the atmosphere, ready to serve utility at costs which will make balance sheets squirm in ecstacy.

And Congress has no more insistent duty than to preclude the possibility of minority monopolity over resources that can still be conserved as a common asset—resources destined to exceed the combined value of our coal mines, oil fields, waterways, forests and minerals.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

IF somebody tried to lock you in a cell for 15 years you'd put up an awful yell, wouldn't you?

YET I KNOW A WOMAN WHO DELIBERATELY DID THAT TO HERSELF.

She was a bright woman, too . . . pretty, talented, popular. She might have done wonderful things with her life during those 15 years, yet she deliberately locked herself away . . . condemned herself to "solitary."

It happened when she was about 30. She had been married for 10 years to a man she loved madly. Too madly. She made the man feel cornered. One day he couldn't stand it any longer and he grabbed at the first escape, as cornered people are apt to do. The escape happened to be a pretty woman. She was a worthless little piece of fluff, but she seemed to mean that freedom and adventure which his wife had denied him. He didn't stop to weigh values—just beat it. Whereupon his wife put herself in a cell and stayed there for 15 years.

No, it wasn't a cell of steel or stone, but it was just as real and a thousand times more deadly. IT WAS A CELL OF HATE . . . HATE FOR THE WOMAN SHE THOUGHT HAD WRONGED HER.

She actually locked herself into that hate. For 15 years she saw the world through the bars of that hate . . . for 15 years its shadow lay across her spirit as black as any prison shade. She thought hate and looked hate and talked hate whenever she found anyone who would listen. She lost her normal interests . . . all her energies focussed on the one job of hating.

You've heard of prison pallor? That woman literally had prison pallor. Hate, generating its definite toxine in the system, poisoned her. She had the unhealthy look of a "lifer." She developed indigestion, headaches, insomnia—and the regulation prison twitches and depressions.

At this time she was blaming the Other Woman. As a matter of fact, 50 Other Women couldn't have hurt her as much as she was hurting herself.

Eventually she saw her folly, and when she did, her self-made cell crumbled . . . she was free, but, even though she was free she couldn't make up for those 15 wasted years or quite erase the brand from her spirit.

There's nothing unusual about that story. You can see it going on all around you. Queer things, we humans do to ourselves . . . locking ourselves away in cells of hate and conceit, greediness, laziness, intolerance and envy. Granite and steel are putty in comparison to the prison walls we build from our own cussedness.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

A LOT of fellows like to pretend they were ruined in the stock market when they didn't really lose anything. It makes conversation for them to pretend. Some of them make a big fuss about it and go around looking terrible sad.

But the worst one I heard of was a fellow that rode down to work every morning on the street car. He sat in a front seat when he could, and kept sticking his arm out the window at corners and making motions with his hands and feet, as though he was stepping on a brake or pulling a wheel around, and once when the trolley car stopped, he started to change a tire on it.

"What's the matter with you, Jake? Cuckoo?" says a cop.

"No," he says, "but I just can't seem to remember that I lost my car in the crash."

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

CLEARLY, there is no distinction at all in the manner in which C and C sharp stimulate cells—both notes cause sensitive cells to be bumped against an overhanging shelf, and the distinction lies in the fact that each note shakes a different group of cells.

Thus we see that the auditory cells are not sensitive to sounds as such, but they are sensitive to being touched; the ear is an ingenius device for touching different cells when notes of different pitch are sounded.

H. G. Wells.

The nerve-fibers run from the ear to the brain, and here the impulses are interpreted as notes of varying pitch according to the particular fibers along which they arrive. Further, it is in the brain that the sensations given by simultaneous notes of different pitch are combined to form the complex sensation of a chord, and, becoming pleasant, discordant, rousing and so forth, acquire emotional significance.

SIGHT.

IN STUDYING hearing and smell we were forced to make humiliating confessions of inferiority.

Dogs perceive sounds and scents too faint for us to notice, and the human nose and outer ear are miserably developed structures when compared with their homologues in other mammals.

But now, in dealing with sight, we come into our own. Man and the ape and monkey rely on vision for more extensively than any other mammals, and it is probable from its minute structure that the human eye can see more distinctly than any other, save that of some birds.

Here, then, is our consolation. We have such excellent eyes that we have no need of noses, and we may interpret the enviably sensitive canine muzzle as a sign of the fogginess of the canine eye.

The structure of an eye is very like that of a photographic camera. We may distinguish two essential parts: A sensitive screen at the back, the retina, and an optical system that projects an image of the outside world on to that screen. The retina is the sense-organ proper, for it is here that the rays of light forming the image act on sensitive cells and initiate nervous impulses.

The eyeball is blackened within, like a camera, in order to prevent reflection and scattering of light. The structures in the front part of the eye are very strikingly like the structures in the front part of a camera.

The wall of the eyeball in this region is transparent and bulges forward at the cornea; a short distance behind the cornea there lies a doubly convex mass of transparent tissue, the lens. The iris of the eye works like the camera's diaphragm.

When illumination is poor—in a dark room, for example, or at dusk—the iris opens widely, so that as much light as possible enters the eye; when the light is very bright it closes down to a pin-point, for if the intensity of light inside the eyeball exceeds a certain value the retinal cells are injured and become temporarily or permanently incapacitated.

There is another advantake to the use of an iris diaphragm, whether in the eye or in a camera, depending on the fact that the middle of a lens always focuses light more accurately than the edges. If the light is bright enough it is always a good thing to stop down the iris to a small size and cut out the edges of the lens, so that the image formed has the least possible distortion of color and line.

The lens divides the cavity of the eyeball into two parts. Of these the part in front of the lens is filled with a watery fluid, the aqueous humour, and that behind it is filled with a transparent jelly, the vitreous humour. The aqueous humour is constantly being secreted by glands of the ciliary region and oozing out through fine pores at the edges of the cornea; by means of this slow, steady stream, food and oxygen are brought to the cells of the lens and adjacent structures, and their waste products are washed away.

The eye, then, is provided with a combination of two smoothly-curved bodies, the cornea and the lens, by means of which light can be focused on to the retina. By far the larger part in image formation is played by the cornea, which is responsible for about two-thirds of the bending of rays of light.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—In the archives of the Rogues' Gallery are carefully catalogued 15,000 men and women who have no means of support save outwitting susceptible along the Gay Gulch. They are the fast workers in a fast-living world.

Now and then they fall afoul of the law and are snagged for a short prison term, but not often. Their traps are so obvious the victims are ashamed to squawk and that is why such rascals flourish. Police know them well, but unless they "catch them cold" nothing can be done.

The eel-like creatures are known by underworld sobriquets of Flash Harry, Straw Hat Willie, Dapper Dan, Mickey the Dude, Savannah May, Diamond Kate and so on. They are the glib and glossy sort one meets at the chop house tables or in a speakeasy back room.

Sleekly barbered, highly perfumed and blatant, they have a disarming manner among the gullible. Thimble-rigging, phoney dice or badger games are not their forte. They specialize in smooth trickeries that make a victim feel such a sucker he would pay them to keep it quiet.

Within a week, a gentleman by no means dumb to the ways of Broadway fell in with one of the guild. Several days later he was approached for a loan on a diamond ring. That is a very old one—and he smiled. But he was persuaded to have the ring appraised.

He was piloted to a nearby jeweler who said the ring was easily worth $1,000. The owner only wanted $300 and because of sentiment did not want to pawn it. He got the $300 and later the ring was discovered to be worth about $25. The jeweler, who aids in such flim-flams, denied ever seeing the ring.

In the same fashion, Broadway insiders know about the playwright who authors slick crook plays and the "planted" pearl in an oyster. The "discoverer" took it to the jeweler accompanied by the playwright with whom he had been dining. And the playwright jumped at the chance to buy it for $800. It was worth $5.

Foes of cigarets—especially toward their use by women—are exercising vigilance lately. Twice in theater foyers, zealots have snatched cigarets from feminine lips, ground them under heels and walked away. On Fifty-seventh street one of those ladies with the casual enamel of a vanity case was puffing away in her limousine while reading a magazine. She was startled out of her calm by a man's hand reaching in and plucking her smoke. And we wager one nick against two knacks some busybody—if it doesn't stop—is going feet up to a hospital in a pretty litter most any day now.

Many will reserve the right, however, to glare at ladies who pop into elevators flipping ashes here and there. We saw one benign gentleman's beard about to imitate a spark in dry grass one evening recently in the Savoy-Plaza.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

HOW often do you give a warranted compliment to a member of your family?

Not often, do you?

You like to be commended for worthy accomplishments, you know that others like it and you often extend the good will spirit to outsiders—all except your own family.

Your brothers and sisters would glow with pleasure if you should voice approval of something they had done.

Your wife or your mother would remember your good words many times in a long and tiresome day if you would give a deserved compliment to them occasionally.

Don't think it would sound foolish, for you know you like it immensely to be praised by them.

In most families criticism is more practiced than praise.

There are not enough words of commendation.

Husbands flush with satisfaction to hear pleasing things said to them.

Wives are grateful and happy to be appreciated and hear about it.

There are plenty of opportunities in a home to speak admiring words of your nearest and dearest.

Do more of it.
